A CORNER OF THE NEW PATHOLOGICAL
BUILDING BY MOONLIGHT

A black and white woodcut-style illustration of a forest path leading to a building. The path is flanked by tall, slender trees with dense foliage. In the distance, a small building with a gabled roof and several windows is visible at the end of the path. The title 'OLD MCGILL' is superimposed over the upper part of the illustration.

OLD McGILL

A decorative banner with two shields and two candles. The banner is draped across the bottom of the illustration. On either side of the banner is a shield containing a crest with three birds. Between the shields are two lit candles. The banner itself contains the Latin motto 'GRANDESCUNT AVCTA LABORE'.

SIR ARTHUR WILLIAM CURRIE, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., LL.D.,
Principal and Vice-Chancellor

The Principal's Message

To the Class of 1923

THE ANNUAL for the Session 1923-1924 will be for you Members of the Class of 1925, the most interesting and the most affecting of all the reminders of college life to which you will, in future days, turn with a little regret and with much affection. Here you have a book which not only for yourselves but for your friends and for the University is a mirror holding in unfading reflection the faces and the doings of your class. It is not the routine of the lecture room or laboratory that finds first place upon its pages, even the glories of the stadium fill but a little space; it is the whole round of your University life that is here to be preserved.

No years shall ever mean so much to you as these years of youth, when all the world is opening in an ever widening vista, when you are planning out your own march across its mountains and along its highroads.

What is it that you plan, what part do you mean to play in the great scene of life,— what use do you mean to make of your days and of your training at McGill?

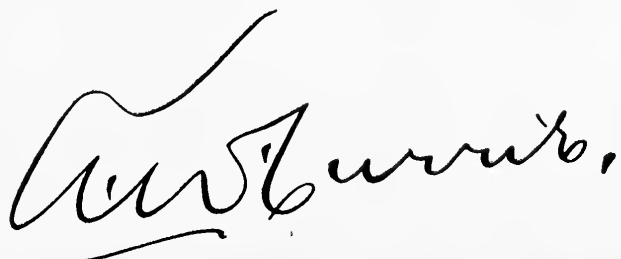

What is the meaning of a McGill Degree, that parchment which testifies to yourselves and to the world that your University deems you worthy of a place on that roll whereon are written so many of the noblest names of Canada? Something more, surely, than that you have spent four years or seven years listening to lectures and reading books. It means that you are out of the ruck; it means that in some subject or group of subjects you are a master; it means that you have taken upon yourselves a definite share of responsibility for your country's prosperity and for her people's happiness. To you they look for guidance for themselves, for teaching for their sons and for their daughters, for healing in sickness, for progress in science, and you cannot fail.

The hood that marks the successful ending of your University career is the uniform of your service, a service which you may never lay down. This is the great duty laid upon the youth of our University to-day, the successors of a generation which the bugle summoned from the halls of learning to a sterner school, of which so many laid down their lives for the sake of a great ideal.

It is yours so to bear yourselves that you can look over to those graves in Flanders and in France, and say,—“We, too, have done our best.”

“But not in vain, not all in vain, thank God
All that you were and all you might have been
Was given to the cold effacing sod
Unstrewn with garlands green.

“The valour and the vision that were yours
Lie not with broken spears and fallen towers
With glories perishable of all things seen.

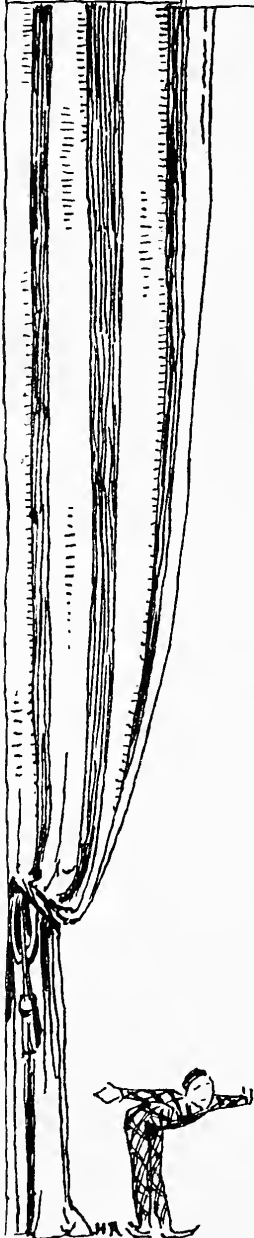

Foreword

Another page has been torn from the calendar of time, a page which has measured a year of peace and prosperity for our Alma Mater.

It has been the earnest endeavour of the Junior Year, which publishes this Annual to faithfully portray the activities of the whole University during that period.

It is with the sincere hope that not only now may the influence of this Book be felt but in future years when the demands of other walks of life and the beclouding influences of time have dimmed the remembrances of undergraduate days, it may have some share in reviving happy memories of college hours, that we offer for approval this, the twenty-seventh volume of "Old McGill".

The Editors.

Hail
Alma
Mater!

*Hail, Alma Mater, we sing to thy praise,
Great our affection, though feeble our lays;
Nestling so peaceful and calm 'neath the hill,
Fondly we love thee, our dear old McGill.*

*Hail, Alma Mater, we sing to thy praise,
Loud in thine honour our voices we raise;
Full to thy fortune our glasses we fill,
Life and Prosperity, dear old McGill.*

*Hail, Alma Mater, thy praises we sing,
Far down the centuries still may they ring;
Long through the ages remain—if God will;
Queen of the Colleges, dear old McGill.*

THE Students' Council, which is composed of eight members, the President of the Council, the President of the Union, the President of the Daily, and five Faculty members—one from each of Arts, Dentistry, Law, Medicine and Science, is the senior executive organization of the Student body.

It is the duty of the Students' Council to supervise in a general way all undergraduate activities. The Students' Council also acts as a Court before which undergraduates may be asked to appear in case of misdemeanour.

The present season has been one of transition. Many adjustments have been made to meet conditions created by the formation of the Athletic Governing Board. In spite of the fact that there are fewer members on the Council than in previous years, and in spite of the fact that much time has been spent on the above-mentioned readjustments, the Council has been able to devote a considerable amount of time and energy to the various activities that come directly under its jurisdiction. The Daily and the Union have received particular attention and the results attained fully justify the policy adopted by the Council. The Literary and Debating Society has been given more encouragement than usual this year, and it is hoped that this policy will be continued so that before long debating and public speaking will command the interest and support of the whole Student body.

No effort has been spared to give the musical organizations of the University whatever support was possible, and although progress in this direction has not been as rapid as one might desire, yet certain of the musical societies have done particularly well. The Council published the 'McGill March Song,' by Willard Crocker and Moore Kelly. The Canadian Club, while not as active as last year, was successful in securing good speakers from time to time.

Theatre Night, which was so successful last year, is to be repeated again this year, and is to run two nights instead of one.

The Alma Mater dance will take place as usual in March and there is little doubt that it will be the finest dance of the college year.

This account of the activities of the Council would not be complete if its most important action were not mentioned. The Council was able to secure the services of Mr. G. H. Fletcher, B.A., to fill the position left vacant by the resignation of Mr. Charlie Fraser. Mr. Fletcher is also the Advertising Editor of the Daily. Although he has only been with the Council for a few months Mr. Fletcher has proved himself to be a most valuable secretary and a good friend to all the students.

THE McGill Students' Union is, primarily, a club of which every male student of McGill is a paid member. In it one enjoys all the privileges and advantages of club fellowship, reading rooms, billiards, and good restaurant service.

The Union building is also well adapted to the holding of dances, teas, luncheons, dinner parties, and evening suppers. It is well equipped, also, for accommodating business luncheons and dinners, and meetings of the various student organizations, particularly those of a more or less literary or social nature. The building houses the executive offices of the Students' Council and the Athletic Board, as well as the editorial department of the McGill Daily.

The Union is under the control and management of the Union House Committee, which is elected annually by the undergraduate body, and is directly responsible to the Students' Council. The president, vice-president, and secretary are elected by general vote in April, and assume office July 1st. The members of the committee are representative of each faculty, as follows: Arts, one member; Commerce, one; Law, one; Dentistry, one; Medicine, two; Science, two. Elections for these positions are held each October, and the members assume office November 1st.

It is the work of the House Committee to make the Union as attractive and serviceable as possible to every one of its members. The Committee arranges eight or nine informal dances during the year, as well as several smokers and many musical teas, and one formal dance.

In this past year, certain of the efforts of the Union House Committee have met with particular favour and have received excellent support. The smokers have been particularly well attended. The dances, however, have not been as well attended and supported as in former years. Catering to club and society dinners, luncheons, dances, and smokers, has been most satisfactory; billiard tournaments and exhibitions have met with fair support; special dinners, midnight suppers, and weekly musical teas, have been received with great enthusiasm and success.

As year follows year the Union is becoming more and more the centre of College activities at McGill. The revered old building on Sherbrooke Street seems to be the embodiment of that intangible university attribute known as College Spirit—a quality with which all McGill men, graduates and undergraduates alike are bountifully endowed.

THE "McGill Daily" can no longer claim the distinction of being the only college daily in Canada, since the Toronto "Varsity," from the beginning of this session has been published five days in the week. For twelve years—since its foundation in 1911—the "Daily" has held premier position in this respect among college publications in Canada. During the session 1923-24, the publication has fulfilled its purpose very successfully and continues to be one of the most important factors in the every-day life of the student. Outspoken criticism of the paper has been unusually slight this session.

Shortly after the "Daily" resumed publication last October the "Freshman Issue" appeared on the campus. The freshman element was not very predominant in this particular paper because of a lack of co-operation on the part of the first year men. It succeeded, however, in carrying on the custom of devoting one issue, in name at least, to the new-comers to the University. The edition of October 6th contained some special features in honour of Founder's Day, and a short history of McGill was given prominence. A departure from customary procedure was made when the R.V.C. students were handed over the editorial reins for one night in November, Miss Hay taking charge. The result was a paper that compared favourably with any of its predecessors.

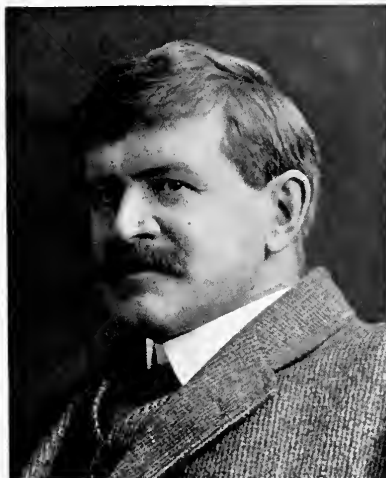

An eight-page "Christmas Edition" contained some excellent literary contributions. Substantial prizes were given for the best material submitted for publication. The complimentary comments from many sources on this issue proved that the extra effort involved in its publication was warranted.

From a literary point of view, the "Dilettante," appearing in Wednesday's issue of each week, was the feature of the "Daily" deserving of most recognition. Book reviews, verse, theatre criticisms and literary matters in general were dealt with in a manner which evinced the results of much time and thought on the part of those who contributed to it.

The "Pink Issue," edited by the lady members of the staff, appeared in February and in its variation from ordinary form had a special appeal for its readers.

The Quip column survived the criticism of some students who object to it on principle. Strict censorship rendered the feature inoffensive. Its value lies in that it adds a lighter touch to the more serious matter usually found in the paper's columns.

Most of the work on the "Daily" is done voluntarily by students who have had no previous experience in journalism. This fact adds much to the difficulty of publishing a daily paper. But whatever is lacking in journalistic experience is overcome by a willingness to learn the game, and a certain esprit de corps exists among the members of the staff that alleviates difficulties and makes worth while the weary hours spent in the offices in the basement of the Union.

THINGS WANTING AT MCGILL

A Message to the Annual

By STEPHEN LEACOCK

I AM one of those who admit very readily that McGill is the greatest University outside of Africa, and that the present generation of students and professors represent an efflorescence of the human mind scarcely equalled since the days of Rameses the Second. I may therefore, without impropriety, venture to draw attention to a few things which are yet lacking to our completed excellence.

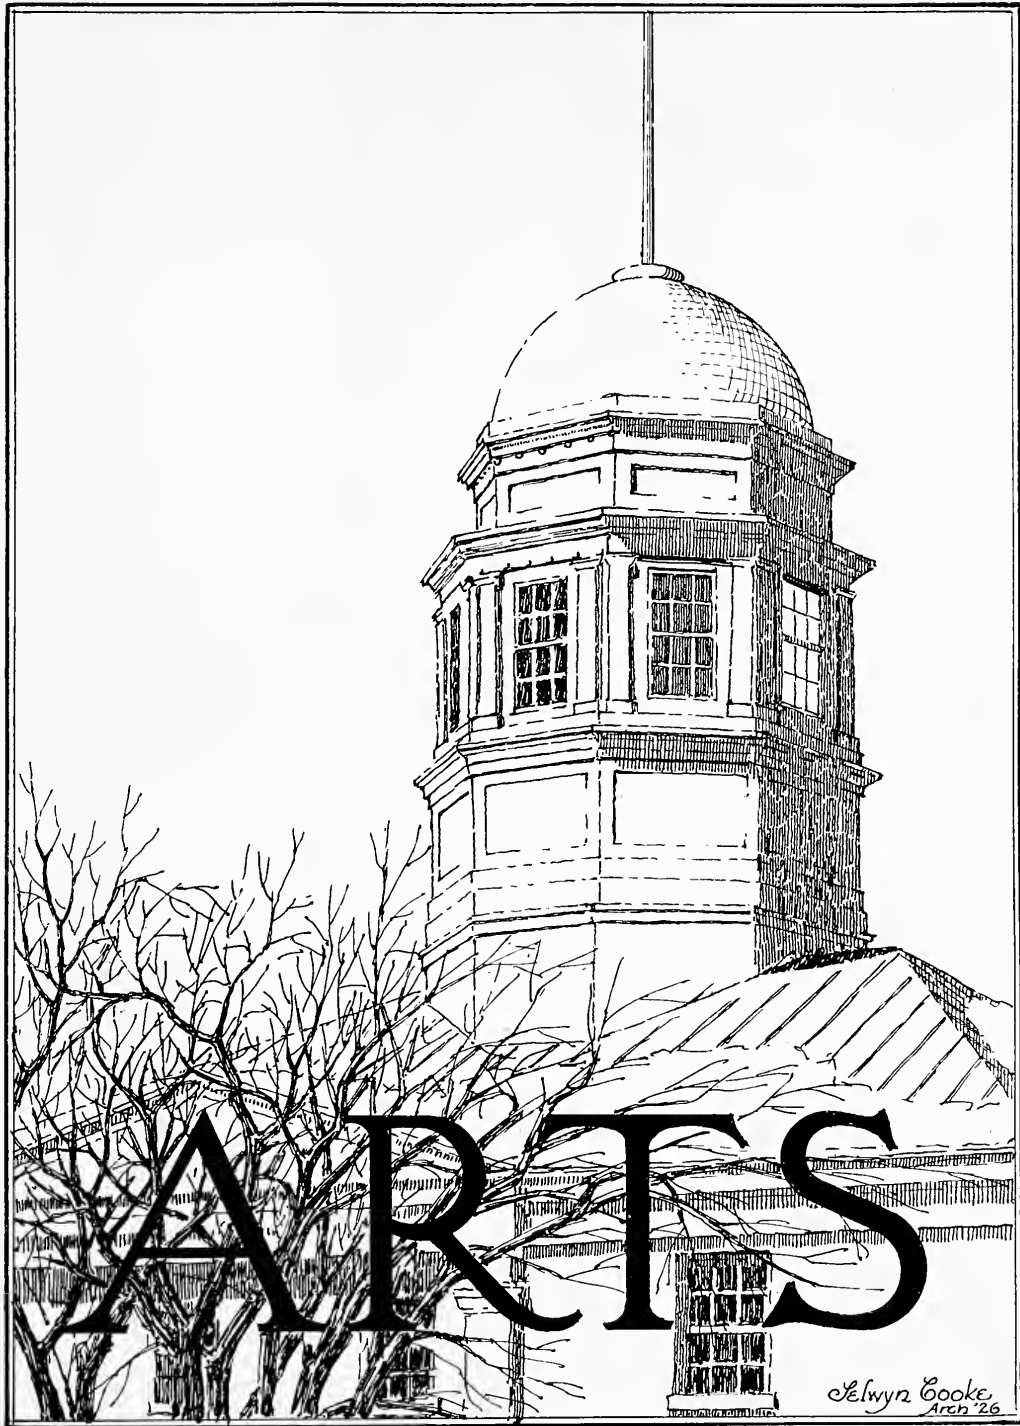

A university, as I understand it, lives chiefly upon its by-products, upon those things, that is, which it does sideways and by accident and as no part of its authorized curriculum. In this way did the alchemists create chemistry and the astrologers initiate astronomy.

Now among the things most to be desired at any college is that liberal cultivation of the arts of speech and writing, and that wandering pursuit of thought for thought's sake, not to be achieved in the prescribed exercises of the class room. For such a purpose there are needed channels of activity that are not polluted by the poison of written examinations and rendered thick and muddy by the mean motive of academic advancement. Proper facilities for debating for debate's sake and for writing for writing's sake are among the most important things that a college can supply to its students. McGill knows little of these things. The ANNUAL is a worthy publication, deserving to be treasured: the pictured faces that it contains will be viewed some day through the mists of memory that will lend affection to the page. But it is not literature. The MCGILL DAILY in its activity and intelligence is second to nothing north of the equator. It needs nothing but the news, murders and rum-running to put it in line with the metropolitan press. But, as literature, it contains nothing except a few flowers that perish by the wayside, worthy of a better soil.

Before there were such things at college as ANNUALS, and DAILYS and ROOTERS' CLUBS, even before any of the students wore skirts and carried vanity boxes into the classroom,—in other words in the old days of the little colleges,—there used to be in every university a college journal of the literary type. It appeared irregularly. It contained no news. It was always in debt. Alternately it failed and was revived. Nothing that was written in it ever reached the world, or deserved to. But it contained within itself one of the noblest elements of college life. In the service of such a journal Robert Louis Stevenson learned to write and Theodore Roosevelt turned his mind to vigour.

The compilers of the Annual are now of the third or junior year. Next year,—with the exception of such editors as fail to pass the examinations,—they will be in the fourth year. Beyond that there is nothing but graduation and the grave.

While there is time yet will they not consider what can be done to supply this want.

THE registration in the Arts Faculty this session is greater than ever before in the history of McGill. Hence the Arts Undergraduate Society has an increased membership, and it may be truthfully said that it has prospered in proportion.

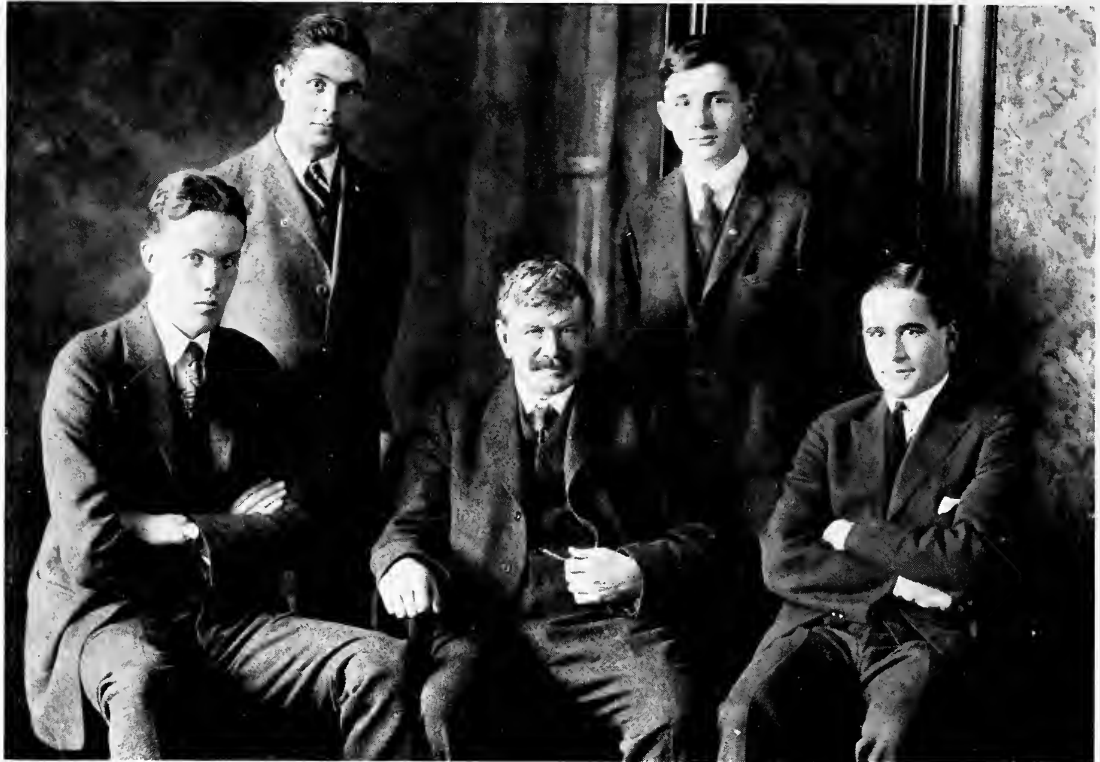

Included in the duties of the Society executive is the provision of reading matter in the room provided for that purpose in the Arts Building. A marked improvement has been shown in this department. Magazines, periodicals, and newspapers from all over Canada and the United States are in abundance, and are replaced at regular intervals.

At the time of writing, two meetings, one of which took the form of an informal smoker, have been held in the ballroom of the Union, and it is planned to hold two more before the end of the session.

The Annual Arts Dinner was staged in the Union on February 11th. The attendance established a record in point of numbers and the dinner itself and the entertainment provided were of a very high order. Dean Laing of Chicago University came to Montreal for the occasion, and it was a great pleasure to see again one of the cleverest scholars and wittiest after-dinner speakers that McGill has had as Dean of one of her faculties.

The members of the Society mourn the death of two illustrious members of the staff—Dr. Harkness, Acting Dean, and Professor Paul T. Lafleur. During their many years' service at McGill they were held in the highest esteem by students and professors alike.

In January, the appointment of Professor Ira MacKay to the post of Dean was welcomed by all. It is felt that under his guidance our Faculty will progress, and provide the best in the cultured Arts for those who aspire to higher education.

EVER since its reorganization in 1919, the Political Economy Club has steadily increased in numbers, wealth and influence; but the present year has been marked by especial progress in every direction. A gradual widening of the basis of membership has thrown the Club open to all students interested in economic or political questions. The papers delivered at the monthly meetings have been of unusually high calibre, and have dealt with subjects of great general interest. Most of all, students have come to realize the exceptional training afforded by the lively, informal discussions which follow every paper.

The growth in resources and influence has been no less remarkable. There are no dues; yet the Treasury is full, and the Club hopes to have the year's papers collected and type-written. It has reason, moreover, to be proud of its members, past and present. Mr. Henry Borden, a former Vice-President, has been chosen as this year's Rhodes Scholar from Nova Scotia. Mr. Randolph Jones, B.A., last year's Vice-President, and now a graduate member, toured England in the interests of the Conservative Party, on the invitation of Premier Baldwin.

Though the Club is primarily a student organization, much of its success is due to Dr. Leacock, Dr. Hemmeon, Dr. Day, and Prof. Fife. They have contributed unsparingly of their time and energy, and their aid in guiding the discussion has always been invaluable.

THE Historical Club, one of the oldest and most distinguished associations at McGill, has enjoyed a very successful session. The Club underwent a number of reforms in October, strengthened its executive and the active membership, the latter being limited to twenty-five, and launched a programme which will mark the academic year of 1923-1924 as an outstanding one in the Club's annals.

The resignation of Dr. C. E. Fryer from the Honorary Presidency was deeply regretted. Two new offices were created, those of Patron and Honorary Vice-President, being accepted respectively by Sir Arthur Currie and Professor Waugh. The new Honorary President, Professor Basil Williams, has been particularly zealous in his support of the Club's activities. He addressed the opening meeting on Francis Parkman, to whom the year's programme was dedicated in honour of the centenary of his birth. The meetings have been without exception well attended, the papers of a high order, and the ensuing discussions of a remarkably interesting and lively nature.

The new policy of meeting in the homes of prominent citizens of Montreal has perhaps contributed as much as anything else to the singular success of the Club this session. Among the hosts have been Professor Williams, Professor Waugh, Eugene Lafleur, Esq., K.C., Hon. Lorne C. Webster, Jas. S. Brierley, Esq., Guy Tombs, Esq., and Dr. Charles W. Colby, who founded the Club in 1897. Notable features have been a joint meeting with the Historical Club of the Royal Victoria College, a visit from Dr. George Macaulay Trevelyan, the distinguished English historian and great-nephew of Lord Macaulay, an open meeting with the Political Economy Club, at which Sir Arthur Currie presided, and the Annual Meeting, in April, in the form of a dinner at the Union.

THIS year the Philosophical Society, as well as McGill University itself, has suffered a very great loss. Dr. W. A. Hickson, Frothingham Associate Professor of Logic and Metaphysics, has retired from the University after about twenty-three years' service in the Faculty of Arts. During this time he assisted the student body and the Philosophical Society so greatly that his loss will be keenly felt.

Dr. W. Caldwell, who has recently returned from a visit to Europe, presented a paper at the first meeting of the Society for the year, on "Philosophy of Europe, and the People of Canada." In this address, Dr. Caldwell gave some very interesting particulars of modern philosophical tendencies in Europe, of a reaction to Kantian rationalism, and of the conditions in such central European nations as Czecho-Slovakia. During the interesting discussion which followed, the value of such an anti-rationalistic tendency was questioned.

A very successful joint meeting of the Psychological and Philosophical Societies followed in which the relation of Psychology to Philosophy was discussed from both viewpoints by Hall and J. A. Taylor, respectively. Due to the nature of the subject, a very interesting discussion followed which was participated in by both professors and students.

At the following meeting, W. F. Kelloway spoke on "Personal Ideals" to a small but representative gathering. The subsequent discussion was unusually lively, and in this respect all the meetings of the Society this year have shown a marked improvement over those of previous years.

Three or perhaps four more meetings are planned to take place within the next two months. It is hoped that the following speakers will be able to address the Society: Prof. Waugh, on "Philosophy and History"; Dr. Walter on "Philosophy and Literature," with special reference to the Germanic Languages; Prof. Gillson, and O. Klineberg.

THE Psychological Society has now completed its second successful season. At the opening meeting of the session the Honorary President, Mr. H. R. De Silva, M.A., gave a demonstration of hypnotism. Another interesting feature of the year's program was a joint meeting with the Philosophical Society, at which the relationship between Psychology and Philosophy was discussed. Mr. W. R. Allen, an expert dye-chemist, gave a very instructive talk on "Color—Temperamentally." Through the efforts of Dr. Tait and the generosity of the Governors, Prof. Wm. McDougall of Harvard addressed an open meeting on "Psychology, Disarmament and Peace."

A novel feature of the Society's program is the essay competition held at the close of the College year. It is open to members of the Society for essays on Psychological topics.

The good attendance and enthusiastic discussion at the monthly meetings augur well for the future of the Society and the science of Psychology at McGill.

IN the centre of this memorial window to George Irvine Baillie, designed by Professor Traquair, is the heraldic tree of Science, bearing the ancient alchemic symbols of the elements, gold, mercury, copper, iron, tin, lead, silver; in the centre, the heraldic rose, symbolizing the earth. The tree is surrounded by a serpent in a circle, emblematic of the everlasting value of knowledge. Irregularly distributed over the other parts of the window are the alchemic symbols for water, sulphur, platinum, zinc, antimony, arsenic, nickel, air, bismuth, fire and mercury sublimed. At the top is the Baillie crest and motto, a boar's head with the motto "Semper Parati." The whole colour scheme is amber on a background of faintly opalescent glass.

Art for Arts '25's Sake

Of that thrice noble band, O Muses sing,
 Of stalwarts staunch who three long years ago
 Came up to old McGill to have their fling—
 Slim callow youths with nervous step and slow,
 Frightened of Sophs. and Profs. and everything,
 Who now mature and lordly Juniors go,
 Pleased with the world, and with themselves no less,
 And justly so, as they themselves confess.

But not so on that day when first they came
 And stared about with ill-concealed surprise,
 A ragged mob of Freshmen, verdant, tame,
 Bewildered, inexperienced, unwise.
 Sinning unwittingly, they had no shame,
 And open-mouthed they stared with bulging eyes.
 Their ruddy cheeks were innocent of lather,
 Still damp from having said good-bye to father.

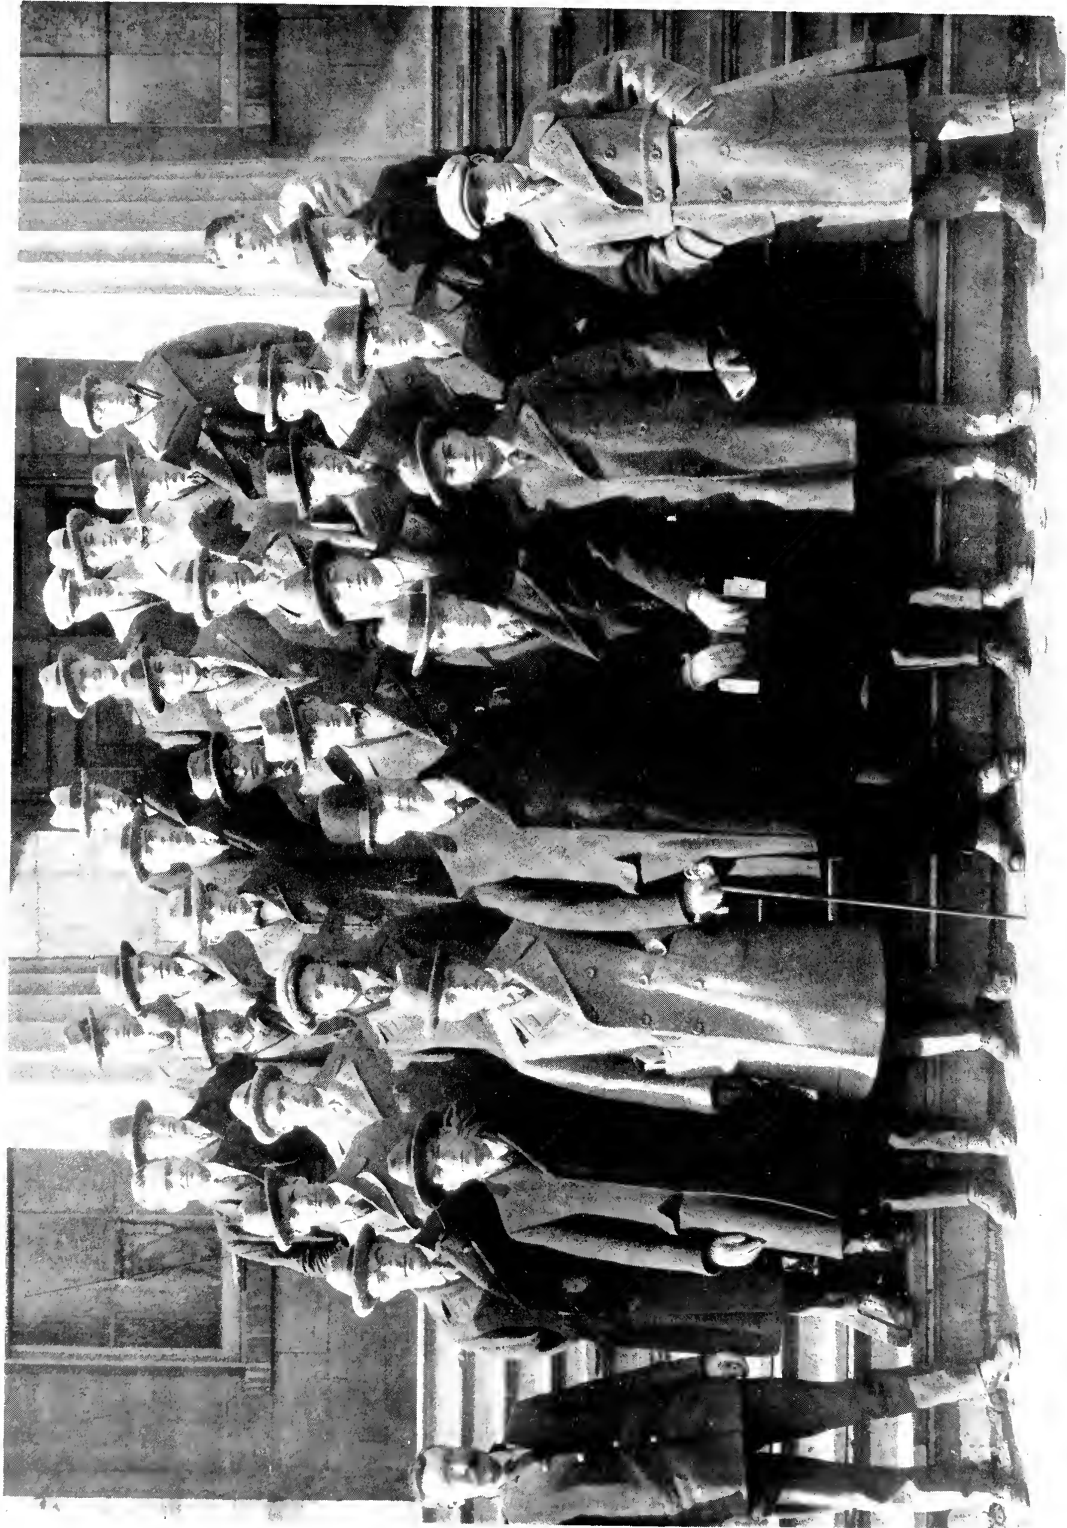

But soon the Sophs. took that raw crew in hand,
 And marshalling their forces at the doors
 Of rooms wherein the innocents were jammed
 They seized the hapless youths; and now one pours
 Green paint upon the persons of the damned,
 And binds them 'spite of unavailing roars:
 Then they are led in triumph through the city
 While dear old ladies murmur "What a pity."

Autumn passes, songs of Autumn fail.
 Exams approach—put levity aside,
 For see the sorry Freshman wan and pale
 Studying text-books with his notes for guide.
 Exams are here; and prayers are no avail;
 With scraping speed his fountain pen is plied.
 For one wild frenzied week the bitter trouble
 Drags on till his cramped back is nigh bent double.

Now leads King Frost his merry minions on,
 And Christmas Graduates take their degrees
 And hie them hence, holding opinions on
 Exams. such as in print one rarely sees.
 And now bold Freshmen strap their pinions on,
 Flying down snowy hills on slippery skis,
 While others of the ones who have been lucky
 Get out their sticks and skates and play at hockey.

But, as the poet very truly said,
 "If Winter comes, can Spring be far behind?"
 So April came, and round his aching head
 Each Freshman tied wet towels to cool the mind,
 And crammed at notes, till then, alas, unread,
 And settled to the weary bitter grind.
 At last, his year's work done, with jubilation
 He ends one-quarter of his education.

Convocation

THE activities of graduation and convocation in the spring of nineteen hundred and twenty-three caused a feverish period for the class of '23 when seven days of excitement were climaxed on the evening of the seventh day with the conferring of degrees in the Capitol Theatre, on May 29th. The various forms of diversion, included among other things, the reading of prophecies and histories, a tennis tournament, tree-planting on the campus, a theatre night at the Princess, a baseball game at the Stadium, an Interscholastic Track meet at the same place, valedictories, teas, dances . . . all this before the night at the Capitol when the degrees were conferred. Some four hundred were eligible for these, and after the conferring of the degrees audible sighs of relief were emitted by both the students and the members of the Faculty.

Among the principal speakers of the occasion was Professor Stephen Leacock who waxed humorous for several minutes before turning to the serious portion of his address. According to Dr. Leacock, educating of all classes indiscriminately, as it is done to-day, is a waste of time, money, and human energy if the person being educated has not the brains to make use of the facts and training he is given at university.

In the fall of 1923 those who were unable to attend the regular convocation were given their degrees at the Special Convocation held in the R.V.C., on October 6th. Sir Arthur Currie delivered a great address on this occasion, speaking warmly of the past traditions of McGill and the place of a college man in every-day life.

Still later in the year, another Special Convocation was held for the conferring of the honorary degree of LL.D. on Dr. Fridjof Nansen, world-renowned as an explorer of the North, a noted writer, an eminent authority on Oceanography, a supporter of the doctrines of the League of Nations and a director of the Russian Famine Relief. An enthusiastic audience greeted Dr. Nansen at the R.V.C., where he was presented for the degree by Dr. A. S. Eve, who spoke in glowing terms of the great explorer. After Sir Arthur had conferred the honour, Dr. Nansen, in eloquent language, defended the position taken by the League of Nations in regard to Corfu, the Ruhr, and other important questions. During the ceremony the Glee Club under the leadership of Dr. Keys, gave several pleasing selections.

IT is recognized throughout the student body of Old McGill that the spirit of the Commercial Society is one of the finest possessed by any of the undergraduate organizations at this University.

This has not been a sudden characteristic ascribed to any particular year, but one of gradual evolution. When we realize that the Society has, comparatively speaking, but a few years to look back to its embryonic stage, we are tempted a word of praise to those who had the vision and perseverance to see the important position and influence that this Commercial Society would bear upon its undergraduate students.

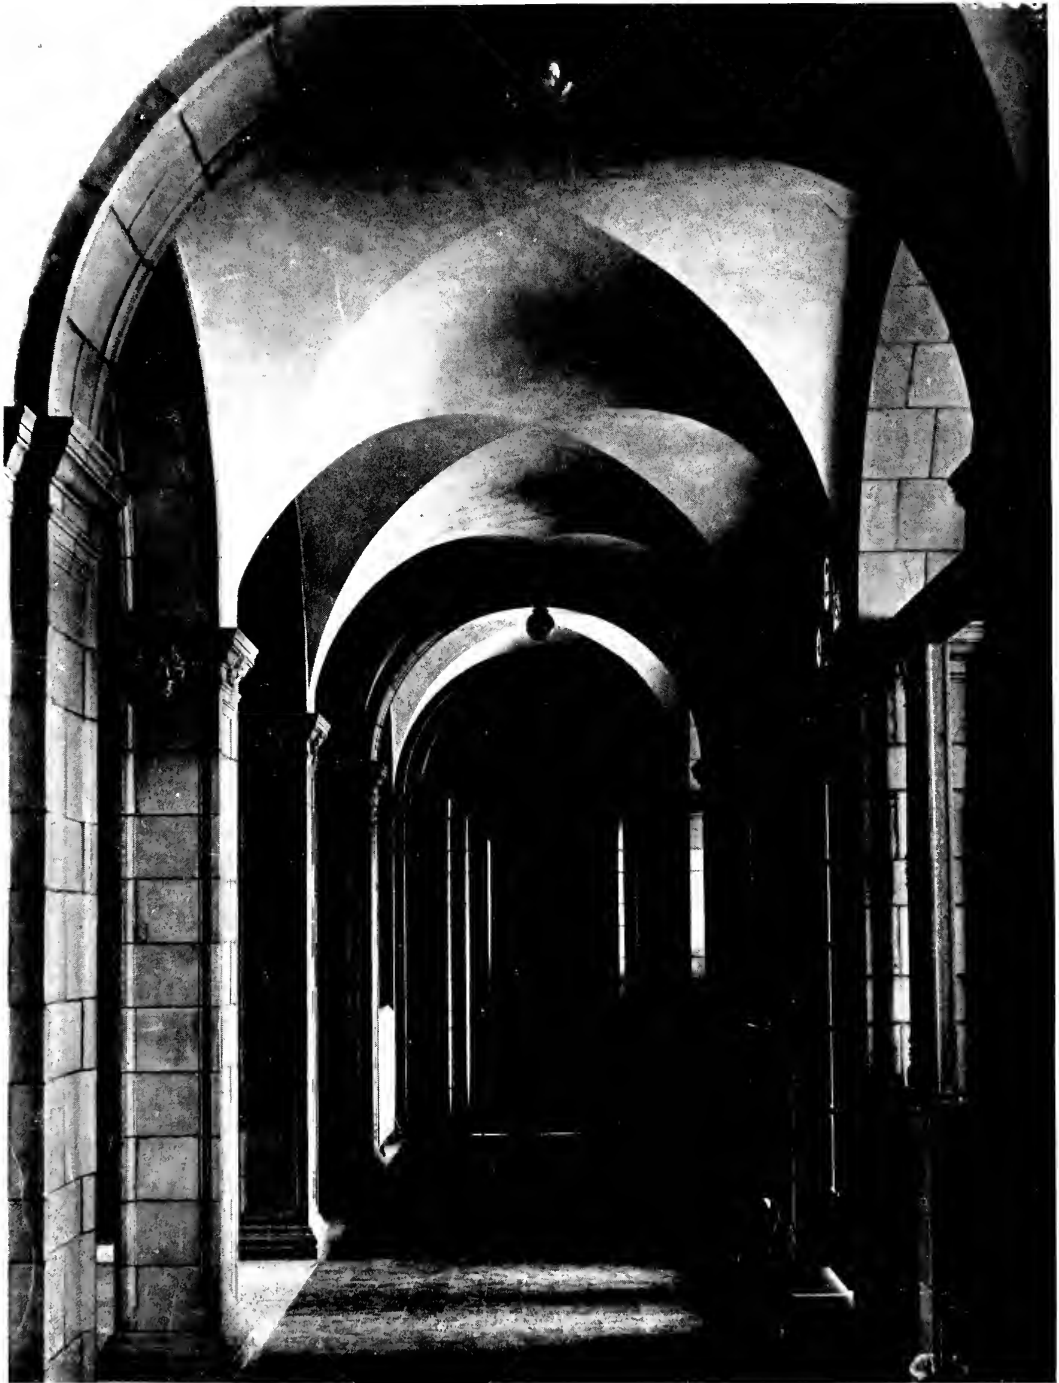

With the extension of the curriculum to four years, it means a strengthening of our ranks in our influence throughout the whole College.

In order to establish a closer relationship with the modern business world, a large banquet was held last March in the Mount Royal Hotel. Some forty of the most prominent business men in Canada were present as our guests.

One of the policies of the executive is to have, in the course of our regular meetings, speakers who represent the most important and basic industries in Canada.

Among those whom the Society have been fortunate enough to hear are: Mr. F. P. Jones, Pres. and General Mgr. of the Canada Cement Co.; Mr. Warrington, Pres. Canadian Shoe Manufacturers' Association; Mr. Grier, of the Grier Lumber Co.; Mr. Grant Hall, Vice-Pres. C.P.R.; Mr. Toledano, an Italian broker from the Far East and Mr. Williams of O'Brien and Williams, who showed us the functions, purpose and operation of the Stock Exchange. Each meeting closed with pleasant discussion and refreshments.

This Spring the Society published and diplomatically distributed to vital sources for drawing upon prospective undergraduates, a complete descriptive booklet to advertise and promote the interests of the School of Commerce as a whole.

HISTORY OF COMMERCE '25

IT was on the second day of the month of October, in the year 1922, that the future captains of industry gathered together at Montreal to form the renowned, celebrated, and illustrious Class of Commerce '25. Embryonic oil magnates, coal barons, lumber kings, and other wizards of finance were present in the famous company of eighty-eight souls that first made its appearance at McGill, on that ever memorable day. Drawn from the four corners of the earth, it represented the cream of the five continents. The Class of '24 welcomed the members of this glorious assembly warmly and affectionately, and they were soon made to feel far, far, from home. As a slight souvenir of its arrival at the University, the Class was presented with new straw hats, in the latest brimless style, procured especially for the occasion. A visit by the Class, arrayed in their striking headgear, to several of the City theatres proved a huge success, and advertised Commerce '25 in no small degree. After this bit of publicity the Class as a whole settled down to make a name for itself. Footballers, basketballers, baseballers, hockeyists, swimmers, wrestlers, dancers and fussers issued from its ranks, and ventured forth into their various fields of activity.

The next event of interest was the Freshman-Sophomore banquet which was held at the Venetian Gardens. The cuisine and entertainment were all that could be desired, and a most enjoyable, not to say hilarious, evening was spent by Frosh. and Soph. alike. A little excitement was furnished about the fifteenth of January by the mid-term exams. Some profs. fooled the Class, some of the Class fooled the profs., and all agreed that it had been a very interesting week. Fortunately, the budding financiers suffered few casualties in this first trial of brains and bluff. Time and money were spent all too soon, and May arrived, and with it more exams, and more woe for the Class. The slogan of the profs.: "Here we go gathering nuts in May!" had a particular significance for each one of those hard-headed future business men. However, all determined to escape the harvest, if possible, and, with this object in view, burning the midnight oil became a very popular pastime. After a week of misery, such as they had never endured before, the gang wandered off to their various home towns to enjoy a little rest.

This Fall some sixty of the old crew renewed their acquaintance with McGill. Freshmen were given caps, a lesson or two in painting with the primary colours, and an impressive parade through the principal streets of the City. A Freshman band (the only one of its kind on the continent) headed this imposing procession which terminated in a gigantic shoe hunt on Philip's Square. Hostilities were brought to an end by a magnificent banquet at the Mount Royal. After the successful accomplishment of initiation, the Class turned to other fields of interest. The athletes turned to the various fields of sport, the pluggers to their studies, and the fussers to their fussing. At the Junior Prom. the Class was well represented, and all present declared it to be an unqualified success. Then the Annual Board came along, and requested a map of the physiognomies of each of the old gang, and also three dollars and six bits, per head, to help a good cause along. The next task was the compilation of biographies which proved rather difficult. However, with the assistance of several detective agencies, repeated inquiries at Verdun and Bordeaux, and a thorough perusal of Who's Who, it was at length accomplished.

In closing, it might be mentioned, that the graduation of this Class from McGill is going to be honoured by a very touching tribute of respect. The Faculty have definitely agreed that no class in Commerce will graduate in '26, as a slight evidence of the esteem in which they held the famous Class of Commerce '25. Thus a glorious career will end, a celebrated history close, and another Class go to join those which have gone before.

The McGill Theatre Night, 1923

AFTER a lapse of many years, a McGill Theatre Night worthy of the name took place on March 22nd, nineteen twenty-three, at the St. Denis Theatre. The idea of a Theatre Night, which, like many other things, had formed a part of McGill life in the good old days, had been dropped during the war years, and until last session had not been revived. The performance, in its entirety, was staged by McGill talent, and was of a high order.

During many weeks before the above date, preparations for the event had been going on in all faculties and departments of the University, and all those connected with the production of the show worked strenuously. Two committees were named to take charge of the arrangements; one, an Advisory Committee, was chosen from among the professoriate, with Prof. F. E. Lloyd as its Chairman. The second, which was a general committee of Undergraduates, was headed by Albert J. Skelley, of Medicine. Under their direction, the various faculties were organized, a large orchestra was assured, and a group of men was secured to handle the stage properties. The assistance of R. L. Hamilton, the President of the Student's Council, who was an ex-officio member of both committees, was invaluable, and it was in great measure due to his executive ability that the actual performance was carried through without any serious hitch.

Theatre Night was the occasion of great enthusiasm. Members of the Faculty, graduates and a host of undergraduates thronged the vast auditorium; and everyone, from the Principal down to the humblest freshman, had an enjoyable evening. The opening number was the singing of "Hail Alma Mater," which was sung by the audience, and from the time when the first strains of the grand old college hymn were heard, until the final echo of the last McGill yell died away, nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the evening.

The programme included fifteen-minute skits, which took on very varied forms, by each faculty. Some were high-class playlets, others claimed to be "musical comediettas," while the majority were simply burlesques of one kind or another. An excellent act was staged by the Medical Undergraduates, entitled "The Valley of the Kings"; the scene was the entrance to King Tutenkhamen's tomb, while the skit consisted of a humorous presentation of the recent discoveries in that region, introducing several weird songs of Egyptian origin. The song and dance act which was put on by the School of Physical Education, assisted by a male chorus, was well received, and gave evidence of much careful rehearsal. The contribution of the R.V.C. was in the form of a sketch of conditions around McGill in the year 1936, and included many witty dialogues. The most interesting act to the McGill undergraduate was "The Athletic Review of the Championship Clubs of McGill." This consisted of the appearance on the stage of the captains of all the teams in the University which had won athletic honors during the session, together with their respective trophies. The following teams were the ones which figured in the Review:—M.S.P.E. Hockey, R.V.C. Basketball, Track, B.W. & F., Basketball, Water Polo, Tennis, Ski & Snowshoe and Baseball.

The 1923 Theatre Night was such an overwhelming success from start to finish, that it seems evident that the "Night" will become an annual event. At the time of going to press, ambitious preparations are being made for the 1924 "Night," and all indications point to its being bigger, brighter and better than last year.

THE session 1923-24 marks one of the most successful years that the Dental Undergraduates of McGill have ever enjoyed. Through the medium of the Society, the men of all years have been able to come intimately in contact with each other on a level footing. At its meetings the Society has been addressed by various eminent speakers on topics of vital interest to all Dental students, and everyone from Seniors to Freshmen feel that the efforts of the executive have not been in vain.

The number of undergraduates has been swelled considerably by an influx of students from various parts of Canada and the United States, in addition to those who came from Western and other universities. The meetings being of a social as well as business nature, have helped materially to breed a spirit of comradeship and goodfellowship amongst the entire Dental Undergraduate body.

During the Fall the first two years enjoyed an exceedingly pleasant evening at the Venetian Gardens, when the Sophomores were the guests of their juniors, the Freshmen. The affair was one of gaiety amongst McGill colours and banners, which helped to make it a real "Red and White" night.

The men of the third and fourth years are spending most of their time in the Infirmary, at the General Hospital. This clinic is a splendid, modernly equipped establishment and the students in these years have all possible opportunities to prepare themselves for their life work.

Another important function of the Society is the Annual Dinner which is to take place at the Mount Royal Hotel. Owing to the early publication of the Annual, details cannot be given here, but preparations are already well under way. It is expected that a number of the staff and many graduates will be present. The function is attended by every student and promises to outclass all its predecessors.

THE CLASS OF DENTISTRY '25

TO the recently formed Faculty of Dentistry was born, in the autumn of 1921, the class of Dent. '25. This newly erupted dentition passed its early days in moderate peace. A marked "green stain" was, however, apparent and a vigorous prophylaxis was deemed necessary by the ever watchful Sophomores. The energy, instrumentation and medicaments were so successfully applied that almost all traces of chlorophyll disappeared at an early date. Now, articulating normally with its fellows, the new member devoted itself to its obligations. It showed its gratitude to the Sophomores by being host at a dance, held in their honor in the Venetian Gardens. It played its part in the Faculty and was loyal to the University. With Spring the examinations came and passed, but not all the class—some passed, some almost passed away, others were extracted.

In the Fall of 1922, some new faces appeared among those who had successfully eluded the luxating forces of examinations—in all about thirty-five. Those newly enthroned Sophomores now undertook their duty of welcoming the freshman class. Every reasonable hospitality was shown the innocent ones, for they were literally received with open arms one evening as they were leaving the Physics lab. Gifts of many kinds were showered upon them, hats, ties, collars, shoe polish and even hempen bonds of fellowship—it is rumored, however, that the master of ceremonies was well reimbursed for these thoughtful gifts). The Freshmen's appreciation of these kindnesses was ably demonstrated later, when they entertained the Sophomores with their charming friends at a dance. After this pleasant social function nothing but good fellowship existed between Dentistry '25 and '26. But:

"The moving finger writes and having writ Moves on"

So one comes to examination time once more. The "head and neck" proved a real stumbling block to some, others were precipitated by the "physiological salt solution." These obstacles surmounted, Dentistry '25 entered for six weeks its new environment in the beautiful Dental Clinic at the Montreal General Hospital. The terror experienced in operating on one's first patient, though always to be remembered, soon faded before the satisfaction of rendering true service to the sufferer by ameliorating his painful condition.

With its entry into the noble estate of a Junior, Dent. '25 found its numbers greatly increased. This was due to the advent of some Western brethren: to these we extend a hearty welcome. Thus, if the principle that "many heads are better than some" be true, Dent. '25 should outshine all other classes in brilliancy, for it excels all previous ones in numbers.

But "shop" cannot always occupy one's attention, for the Junior Prom. directed and patronized by the Juniors of all Faculties, was held in November. The Union ballroom, the scene of this most enjoyable function, was decorated in an appropriate manner. The inclemency of the weather outside on this occasion only added by comparison to the joy of shaded lights, soft music and winsome smiles within.

It is only with pleasure that one looks back to these pleasant days that have gone by—to the misfortunes of a Freshman, the pranks when a Sophomore, the experience gained while a Junior; and though one is ever conscious of his inexperience, of the very littleness of his knowledge, it is well that he remember,

"In the lexicon of youth, which fate reserves
For a bright manhood, there is no such word
As—fail."

THE session 1923-1924 was, for the Law Undergraduates, much similar to past sessions. However, Law, for the first time in years, entered a team in the Interfaculty football series which won its way to the finals, but then lost out to Medicine. Formerly, it had been the custom to unite forces with the Arts faculty and to enter a joint team. This year, however, with the advent into first year Law of a galaxy of stars from the Arts Faculty, together with some good material in the senior years, it was found possible to round out an excellent team.

Another event of the session was the establishing of a series of Moot Courts held at regular fortnightly intervals. All the students in the Senior years took part in them, and points were awarded both for attendance and participation. The arrangements were in charge of the Officers of the Legal Club, M. A. Gaboury, President, and F. T. Collins, Secretary, and were under the direction of Professor Smith, Vice-Dean of the Law Faculty. The first court was presided over by the Rt. Honourable Charles J. Doherty, K.C. An interesting constitutional question involving the ex-territorial effect of the laws of Canada was the subject of the discussion, and a very excellent argument was made by the four counsels engaged in the case. Subsequent courts were presided over by J. A. Mann, K.C., J. T. Hackett, K.C., R. T. Heneker, K.C., G. H. Montgomery, K.C. and M. A. Phelan, K.C. The plaintiffs and defendants were each represented by two counsels, and, as all the cases argued involved important points of law, they were most interesting and instructive, and invariably drew a large attendance at each court.

The event of the year to which everybody looks forward, the Law dinner, was again held at the Queen's Hotel, and the menu and the other accessories of the dinner left nothing to be desired.

Murder! Arson!

Not the commission, but the prosecution or defence thereof, will be the life work of the class of Law '25 in a few months time.

Few but select, they entered into this the noblest of professions to the number of sixteen all told, dwindled to ten in the first great slaughter, and no one knows how many will be left by the time they're through.

One great advantage enjoyed by '25 over the seniors, is a wide range and fluency of vocabulary, which no doubt is traceable to the absence from their midst of any of the fairer sex. Nevertheless, in spite of the influence which the fair co-ed might have exerted on them, '25 have managed to live up to all the old and honored traditions of the Faculty of Law.

In due course, they banqueted the Sophs, made their mark in athletics, argued their way through the Moot Courts, held forth in Ciceronian style on the floor of Parliament—(Mock), and incidently flunked a few exams.

Then, they in turn were banqueted by First Year, though loth to agree to such a compromise, but the legal profession is impecunious and one must eat.

Modestly indeed do they refer to the no mean degree of histrionic talent displayed in their Theatre Night skit, which, if it must be made public, is conceded (at least by themselves) to have been the big hit of the evening.

Politically they have lived to the tune of "Rational, National vote Constitutional", shouted vociferously throughout the odiferous precincts of the antiquated Law building, in a babble of tongues, English, Irish, French, Russian, Polish, Yiddish and Yankee, which, diverse as they seem, all speak the same legal language, and will unanimously proclaim that "Twenty Five is in splendid form".

THE Medical Undergraduates' Society is composed of all the undergraduates in the Faculty of Medicine with its officers elected annually from that body. Its purpose is to transact all business concerning the student body, to provide entertainment and to produce by all means a strong feeling of faculty loyalty.

Meetings are held fortnightly on Monday evenings—these meetings enjoying the reputation of being among the best attended on the campus. As programme, case reports are discussed or addresses heard from prominent men on varied topics. The aim of the executive this year has been, not to provide talks on 'shop' but to acquaint students with subjects other than those purely Medical.

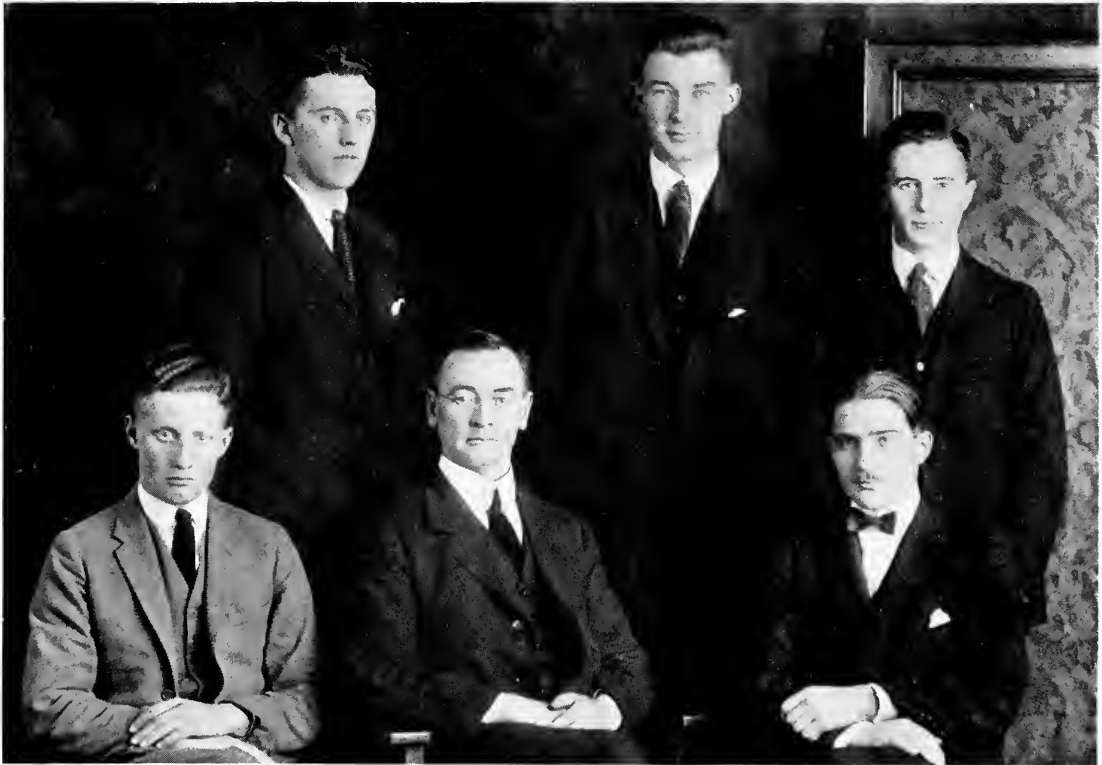

This year so far, the Society has been very fortunate in hearing very excellent addresses from Dr. E. W. Archibald, Sir Henry Gray, Dr. C. F. Martin, Dr. D. Sclater Lewis, Dr. I. McL. Thompson and Sir Arthur Currie.

Before the conclusion of the session, the Society will have the pleasure of hearing Dr. Eberts—newly appointed Professor of Surgery, E. A. Beatty, Chancellor and President of the C. P. R. and Dr. Stephen Leacock.

Besides the regular meetings of the year the Medical Society tendered a banquet, with the Senior Rugby Squad as guests, to the Medical Rugby team—Faculty Champions. Among the functions of the year yet to be held is the noted "King Cook" ceremony.

The 'King Cook' celebration, in former years put on by Second Year alone, will become this year an all-faculty function. The second year will still act as the executive of the proceedings but representatives will be elected from all the classes from which also talent from the performance may be drawn. The celebration will thus, from now on, be a Faculty rather than a class function so that the character and grandeur of the ceremony should be very much improved.

Preparations have been made by the committees so the Medical Dinner and the Medical Dance will be the happy and brilliant functions they have ever been. Dr. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller Foundation, will be the guest of honour at the Annual Dinner which will take place at the Mount Royal Hotel on the sixteenth of February, and the stately halls of the Medical Building will be made gay for the Annual Medical Ball on February the 29th.

SINCE its founding in the fall of 1921 it has been the aim of the Physiological Society to afford students of medicine, both graduates and under-graduates, an opportunity to keep abreast of the latest development in the field of physiology. At its meetings, which are held every three weeks throughout the term, topics of vital importance are discussed by competent authorities, and many problems are cleared up to an extent impossible in the regular lecture course. Though the Society is of especial value to students of the second and third years, any past member of the class in physiology is eligible for membership. The Society possesses a well-equipped library for the use of its members, and this year its value has been greatly enhanced by the addition of some modern books on physiological and kindred subjects.

Song of Medicine 1925

Sing a song of Freshmen, a college full of boys,
Through with playing tiddly-winks and other childish joys,
Flocking from the provinces to stay at Old McGill,
Learning how to heal the sick and send them in a bill,
Chasing the amoeba with a "mike" in either hand,
Watching spirogyra play in beds of mud and sand,
Missing Physics classes to attend the Fashion show,
Dining with the Sophomores at seven bucks a throw,
Cutting up the dogfish on a narrow marble slab,
Eating Lloyd's bananas when he needed them for lab.

Sing a song of Sophomores, a wise and lordly race,
Keeping all the Freshmen very firmly in their place,
Grouped about a table with a slippery greasy top,
Studying anatomy till luncheon brings a stop,
Watching green precipitates that seemed a perfect red,
Hearing Georgie Eric when we could have been in bed,
Learning how a person grows and what's the reason why,
Feasting at the Bluebird, playing Rugby with the pie.

Sing a song of Third year heroes, mighty men of fame
Knowing every nerve and muscle by its Christian name,
Trying hard to laugh at Archie Campbell's store of fun,
Singing Hallelujahs when the lengthy day is done,
Sleeping like a log while Father Time casts forth his pearls,
Dancing at the Union on the toes of all the girls.
Finding pneumococci in a poor bed-ridden cuss,
Shaving every morning after Whitnall made a fuss.

Sing a song of Fourth year students, working all year round,
Looking for a murmur or an adventitious sound,
Strolling through the Campus with a 'scope upon the hip,
Using quarts of Herpicide upon the upper lip,
Getting all the inside dope from dainty "Dinty" Moore,
Hearing Barbour tell of famous drugs that kill or cure,
Trying hard to follow Dr. Oertel's wordy flight,
Waiting for their supper till the middle of the night.

Sing a song of Juniors, getting close to a degree,
Diagnosing jaundice from a case of T.B.C.
Waking up at seven just to hear old Chippy tell
Of the skeleton of man who crawled in ancient dell,
Learning how to tell an epileptic from a nut,
Watching Dr. Eberts play around a thyroid cut,
Making up a diet for a kid in need of fat,
Writing out prescriptions for an old back-alley cat.

Sing a song of Graduates, without a single cent,
Writing home to Father for a cheque to pay the rent,
Learning how to kill the sick and send them in a bill,
Totally forgetting what they learnt at Old McGill.

FOUNDED by the students of Pharmacy in October 1921 for their professional and social interests, this society now enjoys the third year of its existence at McGill.

The aims of this organization are two-fold;—to keep the standards of Pharmacy at a high level and to promote good fellowship amongst its student members by social activities.

Prominent speakers on Pharmaceutical and allied subjects are invited to speak before the Society each year and several socials, athletic smokers and sleigh drives are included in its yearly activities.

In short, the Pharmaceutical Society consists of the entire student body of the Department of Pharmacy joined together for the purpose of promoting the progress and welfare of this important Department of the University.

ONE of the most gratifying things noticed about the 1923-24 session of the Science Undergraduate Society was the keen interest in Student affairs shown by the men of all years. This was exemplified especially in the Debating. For the first time in years each class had a debating team and the Faculty team chosen from these debated against Commerce, Arts and Theology, all of whom they defeated.

Another indication of the increased interest was the large attendance at the Annual Dinner held in the Ball Room of the Union. This was the first Science Dinner to be held in the Union for many years and by so doing it was possible to obtain a much lower rate than is given at other banquet halls. As a consequence, an attendance mark was made at the dinner which will be hard to equal in future years.

The guest of honor was Colonel J. S. Denny of the C.P.R., who gave a highly interesting address on the development of Canada. His address was very much appreciated and helped to make the dinner one of the most successful ever held by the Society.

In Athletics, the Faculty teams were not so successful as last year. The Football team was unable to retain the Wood Cup which had been held by Science for the last two years. However at the time of writing, Science '24 bids fair to repeat their success of last year by winning the class Hockey Championship of the College.

Through the kindness of Mr. Fraser Keith some very interesting lectures have been held at Engineering Institute, 176 Mansfield Street, to which students were specially invited. It is hoped that a greater number will take advantage of these opportunities in future.

Ogilvy Leslie represented the faculty at the Varsity At Home, Selby Cope at the Annual Dinner and Bob Hamilton at the Queens Annual Dinner.

THE McGill Electrical Club was ushered into existence in October of 1908, and since that time has filled an important place in the academic life of the Electrical Engineering Students. During war years, there was a lapse in the activities of the club, but the present session has seen it blossom out once more in all its pristine vigour, and an ambitious programme was carried out.

At the regular fortnightly meetings, student papers were delivered dealing with practical work in which the authors had been engaged, and were followed by open discussion by the club members. Occasional trips to power plants and electrical shops in the vicinity of Montreal were taken, the members being conveyed on special cars of the Montreal Tramways secured through the courtesy of Dr. Herdt. A trip to Ottawa was taken during the second term, where a number of electrical industries were visited under the direction of Dr. Herdt.

The Club included in its programme a number of luncheons during the second term, at which prominent engineers spoke on matters touching the relation of the student to the practical world. These served to bridge at least partially the gap between the theoretical nature of the engineering course and the practical problems the student must be prepared to meet after graduation. The year's activities were brought to a close by a banquet at which both professors and students heartily enjoyed themselves.

While the meetings of the club are open to all who are interested in electrical matters, active membership in it is confined to the third and fourth year electrical students; and in its quiet way the club is functioning as one of the most active organizations about the university. This is made possible by the whole-hearted support received from the professors of the department in all of the club's undertakings.

THE Mechanical Club of McGill University has been unusually active this session with both the number of members and the number of trips taken fully double those of any previous year. The activities of this Club are of interest to the students in all the engineering courses, and of especial interest to those studying Mechanical Engineering, with the Executive Committee of the Club elected from that Department. The Club membership, however, is open to all undergraduates of the University, and it is encouraging to note that a certain amount of interest in the visits to industrial plants is shown even outside the Faculty of Applied Science.

This year the Executive Committee has endeavoured to arrange as many trips as possible, as it was thought that a larger number of trips with fewer men would be more desirable. This policy has proved very successful in forming small visiting parties of interested men. The policy of arranging Wednesday afternoon trips to factories which are closed down on Saturday afternoons has been continued, and a new departure made in the form of a week-end trip.

Trips have been made by the club to the Montreal Harbour Commissioners Cold Storage Plant, the Grand Trunk Elevator, the Dominion Engineering Works, the Turcot Works, of the Canadian Car and Foundry Company, the Dominion Bridge Company, the St. Lawrence Sugar Refineries, the Longue Pointe Works of the Canadian Steel Foundries Limited, the L. E. Waterman Company at St. Lambert, the Frog and Switch Works of the Canadian Steel Foundries, Limited, at Point St. Charles. The week end visit to Grand Mere, where the Club members were the guests of the Laurentide Pulp and Paper Company was a great success.

In addition to trips, during the second term, it is intended to hold one or two evening meetings, at which papers will be read by members of the Club from upper years.

FOR many years the Mining Society and the Metallurgical Society existed as separate organizations. In 1921 the two united to form the Mining and Metallurgical Society at McGill. This Society is affiliated with the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy and its members are therefore student members of the Institute and receive its publications.

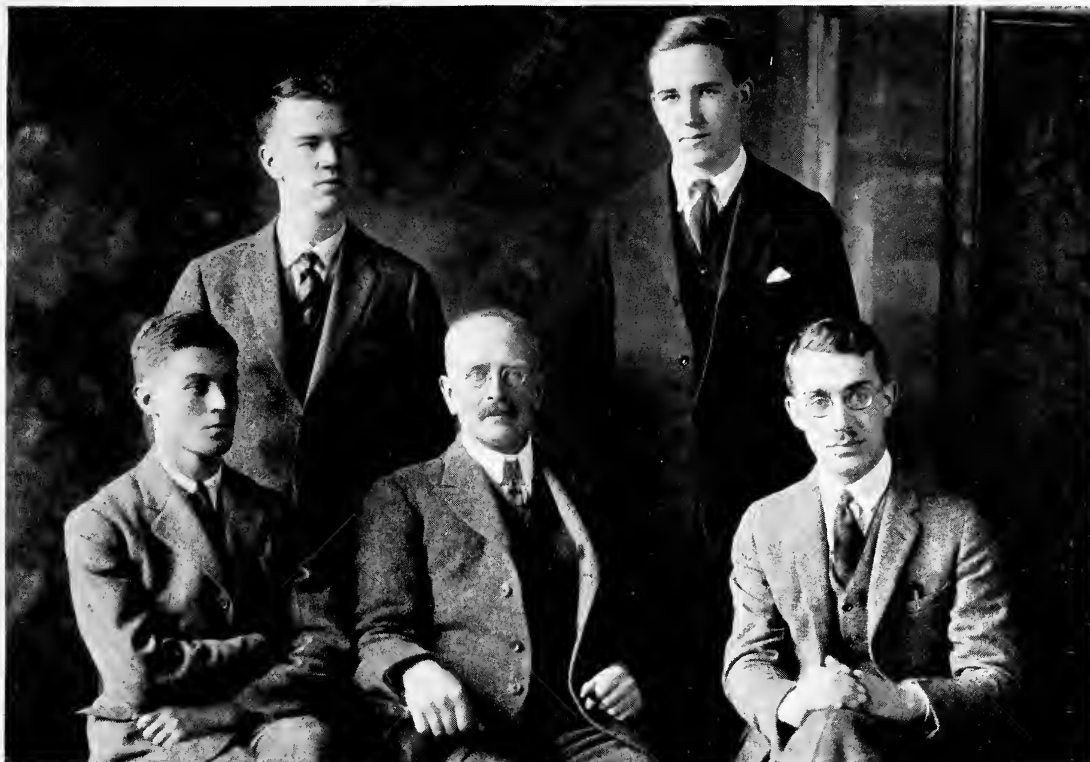

Early in November a smoker was held in the Institute's rooms, in the Drummond Building. Mr. G. C. Mackenzie, Secretary-Treasurer of the C.I.M.E. invited the Society to make full use of the Institute's library and rooms. A pleasant evening was enjoyed by the would-be Miners and Metallurgists.

As the object of the Society is not solely social, it has been the policy of the executive to secure a speaker of interest to address the members several times throughout the year. Already this year one very interesting meeting was held at which Mr. Riley of the Northern Explosives Co., addressed the Society. The subject he selected was, "Explosives, and their uses in Mine Operations."

It was an interesting and instructive address, much appreciated by the Students. The caution that one only makes a single mistake with explosives should cause the men to heed his warning.

On February 6th, a successful dinner took place in Kerhulu and Odiau's. Several of the staff and Mr. Mackenzie were present and enjoyed a highly entertaining evening.

It is hoped that before the close of the College year other addresses will be given before the Society and if possible, another smoker will be held.

THIS association was founded on October 26th, 1921, and has continued in existence with constantly increasing interest on the part of its members.

The association is very fortunate in having Dr. A. S. Eve, D.Sc., F.R.S. as Honorary President this year, and with his kind assistance much progress has been made. The association has always felt the lack of a permanent room for its meetings, but the Physics Department has kindly removed this difficulty by allowing the Society the use of the large lecture theatre, and also permitting the use of the new aerial which has been erected between the Chemistry and Physics Buildings.

Special addresses were given during the first term by Dr. W. B. Cartmel of the Northern Electric Company, and Mr. A. Runciman, Radio Engineer of the Shawinigan Water and Power Company. The broadcasting stations of La Presse Publishing Company and of the Northern Electric Company have been visited, and these visits have been very popular. In compliance with the wishes of many members, instruction in the International Morse Code is now given to a usually full attendance of the association.

This is a notable year for the association inasmuch as it now owns a receiving set. This was made possible only by donations from members and active work on the part of the Treasurer. As the president has generously offered the use of his amateur broadcasting station "2BN", application is being made to Ottawa for the necessary permission for its use. This station has a range of about 1000 miles "on phone" and 4000 miles using C.W. It has been heard as far away as California and Holland. If the permission requested is granted, McGill will be the first university in Canada to own a broadcasting station. This will enable her to communicate with other universities and to broadcast McGill news.

THE Chemical Industry Club of McGill University came into existence this year. It was felt by the members of the Fourth Year Chemical Engineers that such a club would satisfy a long-felt want among the students interested in Chemistry as applied to industry. For this reason, and with the support of the Third Year Chemical Engineering students and the Arts Students taking Honours in Chemistry, the club was formed with the following objects:

1. The promotion of interest, among the undergraduates in chemistry, in all branches of Chemical Industry.
2. The organization of trips to plants, factories, mills, mines or any other places where the applications of chemistry to industry may be observed.
3. The preparation of papers by the members of the club on subjects of interest to students of Chemical Industry.

Although not organized until Christmas the club has proved very successful and the members derive much benefit from the opportunities afforded of seeing, in actual practice, the processes outlined in the courses on Industrial Chemistry at the University.

The club has representation on a committee of the Montreal Branch of the Society of Chemical Industry, an international organization with head-quarters in London, England. Through this channel the students interested in Industrial Chemistry are able to be present at the meetings of the Society of Chemical Industry and to meet prominent men in Industrial Chemistry and to benefit by such association.

Membership in this club is open to any undergraduate interested in Industrial Chemistry. It is only through the support of all students interested in this field that the club will maintain the place in the life of the University which has been awaiting it and which it has just achieved.

SCIENCE JUNIOR HISTORY

□ □

IN the fall of 1921, James McGill's University was enriched by the arrival of a body of aspiring youths in search of an engineering education. They spent the first few days in the time-honored custom of rushing into the wrong class-room, with a few odd moments consumed in being somewhat rudely instructed in the art of correctly bearing themselves on the Campus. The Sophs suffered a series of chills in the spinal region on the occasion of a rumor which became current around the College of a rising amongst their lowly brethren of Science '25. Your Historian is not quite sure if the uprising was an unqualified success.

The Class elected during the first term, the following officers: Don Stewart, President, Geo. Vernot, Vice-President; "Hammy" Smith, Secretary, and Lloyd Almond, Treasurer.

The Freshman-Soph Track Meet was the means of many members of our year bringing distinction to their class, and this event was closely followed by a highly successful banquet tendered to the Class of '24 by the Class of '25 on the occasion of the renewal of peaceful relations between the two. The wares of the Q.R.C. greatly increased the appreciation with which the Words of Wisdom of our Professariat were received by the assembled gathering.

"May" found those of the Class who were safely past Xmas Graduation and the Spring finals, received at St. Anne's by Prof. Kelly and others. A few enterprising students determined by a simple process of deduction that the fair Coed of Macdonald could be seen, as it were, closely, even though at a distance by means of proper scientific use of levels, transits and other delicate instruments. The rumor which reached our notice that the inverting telescopes were the more popular is entirely unfounded. During this month of domicile in the Macdonald Gym, the Hague Convention, concerning the use of gases in warfare, was again violated. The Sophs dropped a gas-bomb in the Gym; what a gas it was! The effect was startling in the extreme and there was much weeping and some gnashing of teeth amongst our number. The sight of each and every one of the upper classmen tied and tarred, and some even feathered, on the "Aggie" Campus, after tea, next evening was a boon to the honor of SCIENCE '25!

Our Sophomore Year officially began with the election of Bob Dingman, President; Harold MacNaughton, Vice-President; Bill Gilmour, Secretary, and Howard Hyman as Treasurer. For a few weeks thereafter the freshmen were herded together from time to time and treated to the elementary part of College life, with the aid of shoe-polish and even a little fly-paper. These "treats" of course were greatly appreciated. An acceptable dinner was offered us as a little token of the esteem in which the Class of '26 held the class of '25 in return for gratis introductions to some of the "show" places of Town.

In May 1923, came the parting of the ways. Those who chose a Mechanical training disappeared into the Catacombs of the Workman Building, the Chemists and Metallurgists investigated the interior mysteries of the Chemistry Building and the Miners and Civils returned to their favorite outdoor pursuits, at St. Anne's, thus leaving only the Electricals to go home for rest.

In the third year, we are governed by an able executive including Geof. Warren as President; Art. Abbott, Vice-President; Bob Logan, Secretary, and "Hep" Ellis, Treasurer.

The Juniors must have their relaxation and so their Annual dance was held. A hard working committee assisted by some architectural artists was responsible for a wonderful "party" which took place in the Union in November, 1923. Unfortunately some of the usually "eager" faces were not quite so "eager" at the ensuing 9 a.m. Lecture.

And now this enchanting history is drawing to a close. Any further recordings of our undergraduate career must be supplied by conjecture and the judicious use of the Ouija Board. The coming Spring may ruin some youthful ambitions but it is a habit early formed in McGill not to dwell on unpleasant possibilities.

Department of Architecture

THE year 1923 will always be remembered as the year when with a record harvest of freshmen the Department reached the limit of its capacity for the first time since the war; a fact which augurs well for the beautification of Canada in years to come.

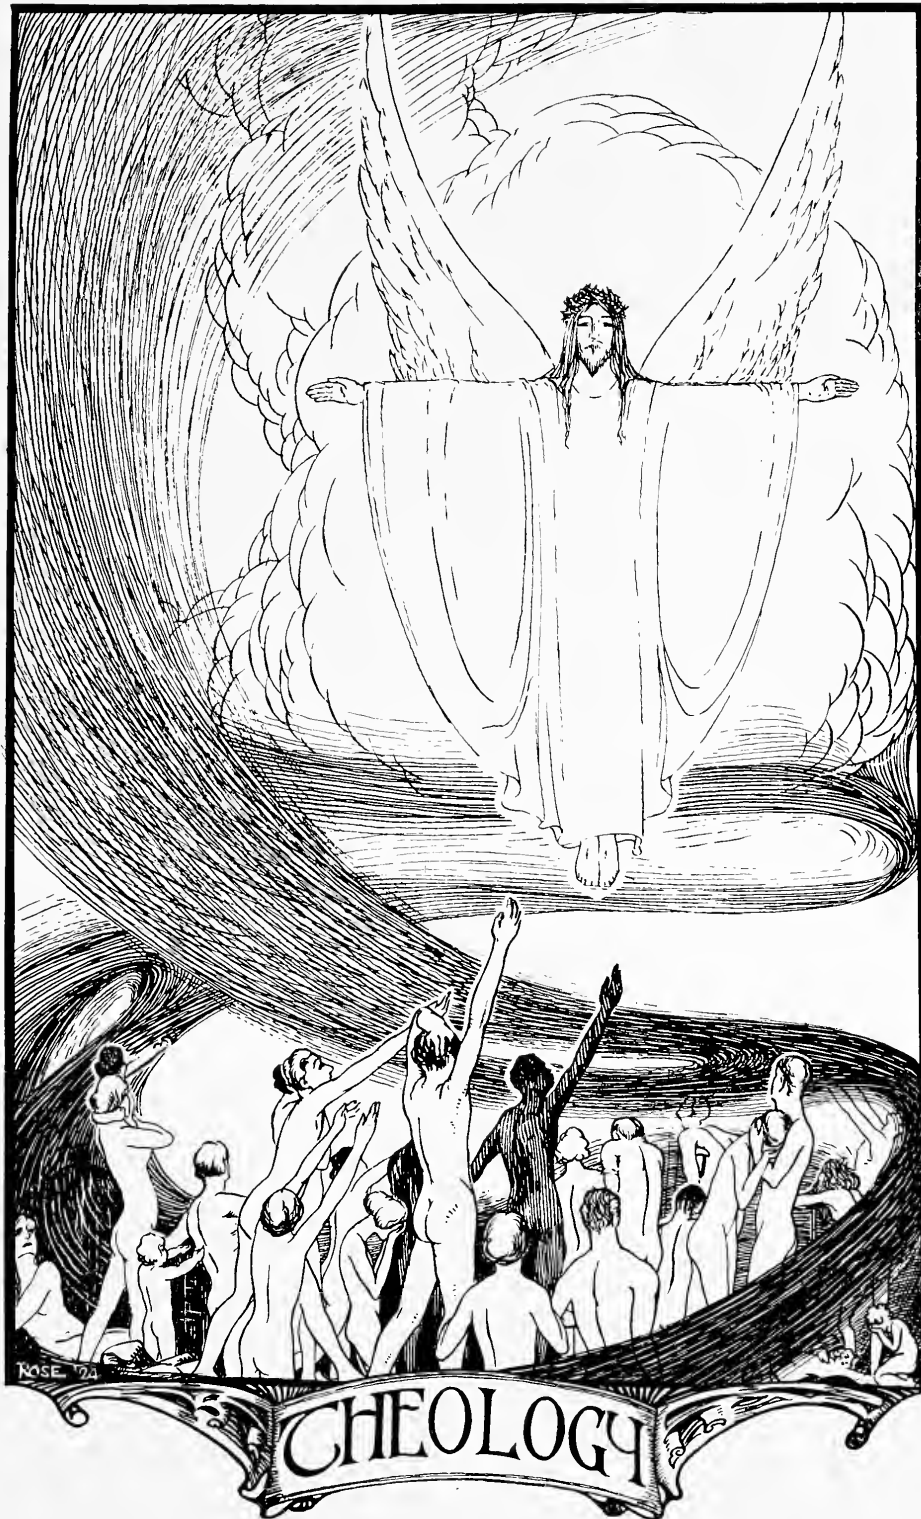

That the department is capable of meeting the demand for better buildings is shown in the fact that it has recently been recognized by the Royal Institute of British Architects, so that its graduates may become associates ipso facto, a privilege enjoyed by no other college in North America.

The Department of Architectural study has carried far the name of McGill. In September the third and fourth years spent a fortnight in Boston measuring the historic monuments of which that city boasts not a few.

Certainfortunates of the fifth year moreover went to Europe on a sketching tour, but having done too much touring to sketch, sang the praises, to their fellows assembled of the waters of Italy, the cider of France.

The Architectural Society has further been enlightened, by Prof. Traguair, on the subject of Greek dress, on perspective by Mr. Crockett, by Mr. Hebert on sculpture, and by Mr. Carless on the Architecture of imaginative literature, upon each of which topics its exponent is a recognized authority.

Nor have the architects confined their efforts to the pursuit of art alone; in the field of sport they have emancipated themselves from the shackles of science and produced a representative hockey team; and though in this, its first year of existence, it has succumbed to teams of greater experience, signs are not wanting that in the future there will develop a team renowned no less for its artistic than for its athletic ability.

SEVEN years have passed since the first attempt was made to organize a Theological Undergraduate Society at McGill. The first seeds were planted in 1916, shortly after the four Theological colleges of the campus entered into an agreement for holding courses of lectures open to the students of the Diocesan, Congregational, Wesleyan and Presbyterian Colleges alike. At the opening of this college session, the society was in a weak condition, and justification of its existence was in doubt. A vote of confidence in the society was passed at a massed meeting of all Theological students at McGill; officers were elected and a programme of activities drawn up.

Informal meetings took place on the second Wednesday of each month, being held for the first time in the Union. A banquet was held in the Union in February attended by several members of the Faculty and by invited city clergymen. Debates were held both between the Theological colleges and also with other debating teams at the University. Four representatives of the Society were sent to the Student Volunteer Convention held at Indianapolis, Indiana, at Christmas. The athletic programme included a Theological Basketball series, Theological Indoor Baseball, Basketball, and Hockey teams in the University series, as well as having members on almost every University team.

This year for the first time in the history of McGill the Theological students were given equal rights with students of other faculties as far as the Annual is concerned.

There has been a feeling for some time that the students of the four Theological colleges were not united sufficiently outside of the classroom, and certainly not properly represented in the undergraduate activities of the Campus. It is the aim of this Theological Undergraduate Society to unite all Theological students into one body in the eyes of their fellow students in other departments at McGill, and to have the Theologian contribute a fair share of responsibility in Campus affairs.

THE R.V.C. Undergraduate Society has in 1922-23 as in previous years held a prominent place in college activities.

The first event in which the undergraduates as a whole took part was the Annual Sports Day, held in October. In this event the Sophomores distinguished themselves by taking first place.

Only one Thé Dansant was held this year. This was given in December in aid of both the S.C.A. and The Delta Sigma Society, and proved most successful.

The activity which was started last year in the form of Intercollegiate debating between the women of Queens and those of McGill, was again taken up through the efforts of the Delta Sigma Society. This year the R.V.C. representatives defeated their opponents at Kingston. The whole Undergraduate body gave its enthusiastic support, and thereby materially helped its representatives on the team.

The Gym. Demonstration, which was omitted last year, due to the fact that the Women's Intercollegiate Athletics were held in Montreal, was held in March, at the R.V.C. The proceeds were divided between Intercollegiate Athletic expenses and charities.

This year a new Society was formed in the R.V.C. Music Club, which although started last year has only this year become a regular Society.

A movement was started last year to form a Society to include all women students at McGill. This subject was again revived this year and a constitution for the McGill Women Students Society was drawn up by the Executive, submitted to Sir Arthur Currie, adopted by the Undergraduate Society and sent to the Corporation. The Undergraduates hope that much can be achieved by such a Society, and look forward with interest to its final formation.

R. V. C. Basketball Team

THE 1923-24 Basketball Season got under way during October, and the Inter-Year Tournament took place the end of November. The Freshmen put a strong team into the field, but were defeated by the Seniors in the final game, by a 46-40 score.

The R.V.C. team played its first outside match against the Y.W.C.A. on December 18th. Both first and second teams were victorious by scores of 45-16 and 19-18 respectively.

On January 24th, both teams travelled to St. Anne's to play Macdonald College and again both teams won their games. The first team won 26-17 and the second 23-17, thus wiping out the defeat of last year. The Basketball Season of 1922-23 ended in a blaze of glory, when the R.V.C. defeated Queens and Toronto in the Intercollegiate meet held here in February and captured the Intercollegiate championship.

1923 was the first year that R.V.C. was had the honour of entertaining the teams from the other Universities, an honour to which she had been looking forward for two years.

The Intercollegiate meet opened on Thursday night February 22nd, with a match between Queens and Varsity. Varsity proved the victor winning by a score of 38-13. On the same evening R.V.C. played an exhibition match against the M.S.P.E. and met defeat.

On Friday night, R.V.C. played Queens who were again defeated, the final score being 26-16. Toronto played an exhibition match against the M.S.P.E. in which Toronto proved the victor.

The McGill-Toronto game on Saturday night, proved by far the most exciting match of the series. Both teams were determined to capture the Championship, and the issue was not decided until the final whistle. Despite an injury to Miss Spier, R.V.C. won out by a 32-30 score.

R. V. C. Hockey Team

THE hockey season was slow in its arrival this year, but when it finally did come on, every day, that the weather was favourable, the R.V.C. team was to be seen practising on the Hollow Rink, making up for lost time.

Special attention was given to class hockey this year and the practices were generally well attended. Fourth year were promised a hard battle to retain the Interclass Championship, as all the other years showed splendid form. The first interclass game, between the Fourths and Thirds resulted in a tie, with one goal each. The Second year defeated the less experienced First year and they in turn were defeated by the Fourth year.

The College team began its city career early in February, when it defeated Macdonald College. The next game, played against the M.A.A.A. also resulted in a victory.

There are four other members in the City League this year, M.S.P.E., Y.W.C.A., Macdonald College and M.A.A.A. The outcome of these games is as yet unknown, all that can be said is that prospects look very bright for a successful season.

Last year, for the second time, Intercollegiate Hockey was played. The Varsity team visited McGill in March and again proved victorious. Though the R.V.C. team fought hard throughout, they were out-played by their opponents who, with their splendid team well deserved the victory.

In December of this session, it was definitely decided by the Athletic Association that a team would not compete in Intercollegiate Hockey this season at Toronto.

THE Annual Tennis Tournament held during the month of October, commenced an active and successful year for the R.V.C. Athletic Association. There were many more entries than usual in the individual tournament this year, giving proof of the enthusiasm shown in tennis by the undergraduates of R.V.C.

The second year won the inter-year tournament after some keenly contested matches, and the individual championship was gained by Miss Carol Robertson, R.V.C. '24, who has now held this championship for two years.

On Friday afternoon, October the twenty-sixth, the annual sports meet was held at the Percival Molson Stadium.

A large number of competitors were entered and the events were closely contested. The Sophomores were the winners of the inter-class trophy, the individual championship being won by Miss Regina Turley of second year.

In November the inter-class basketball matches were played, many of which were highly exciting. The Seniors won the championship with the Freshman year a close second.

In Hockey, the inter-class commenced immediately after mid-term examinations. Both Basketball and Hockey matches have been played between the college teams and other local aggregations.

The intercollegiate basketball meet is to be held in Kingston this year. Last February the R.V.C. Athletic Association had the pleasure of entertaining the basketball teams from Queens and the University of Toronto in Montreal. The matches for the trophy were closely contested and McGill after a close game with Toronto won the Intercollegiate Championship.

A friendly Hockey match was played between the University of Toronto and McGill, at the Mount Royal Arena, which resulted in a well earned victory for Varsity.

A great deal of enthusiasm is being shown in all branches of Athletics this season, and it is hoped that this will increase every year.

A REVIEW of the year's activities of the Delta Sigma Society, reveals only marked success. The first meeting was held in October when Dr. Lomer, the librarian of the Redpath library, gave an illustrated lecture on "Mediaeval Book Makers". This was attended by a large number of students, professors and friends of the Society, and tea was served at the close of the meeting.

The Intercollegiate Debate was held this year at Queen's and R.V.C. retrieved its loss of last year. The subject of the debate was "Resolved that Compulsory Education up to the Age of Eighteen should be Enforced in the English-Speaking Provinces of Canada." The McGill speakers, Miss E. Massy-Bayly '24, and Miss J. Gurd '25, supported the affirmative, and Miss F. MacCullum, Miss H. Laurie, the Queen's speakers, the negative. The judges, Mrs. MacGillvray, Miss Gordon and Professor MacIntosh, gave their decision unanimously in favour of McGill.

The inter-year debates were won by the third year. They defeated the fourth and then met the first year which had previously won from the Sophomores. The subject of the final debate was "Resolved that Travel is of more Educational value than Reading." The third year upheld the affirmative.

About twenty girls took part in the Impromptu Speaking Contest held in November. First year won the honours through the clever speeches of Miss McSporran and Miss Sriver.

It is hoped that before the end of this Session, a public-speaking competition, poster competition and several short plays will be presented and that the meetings may continue to be as successful as they have been so far in order to make this in truth a record year for the Delta Sigma Society.

TO those who have been most vitally interested in the S.C.A., this year has been one particularly full of interest and inspiration.

The starting point was the Elgin House Conference in September. There sixteen members of the R.V.C. met and at the delegation meetings plans for the year's work were discussed. The first official meeting at the R. V. C. took the form of the Annual Freshie reception in October. There the S.C.A. welcomed the class of '27 and invited them to join in its activities.

The following Sunday a most successful Setting-up Conference was held at Beloeil. The luncheons given by the S.C.A. of R.V.C. formed an interesting part of this year's program. The first was in honour of Miss Rutherford, travelling Secretary of the S. C. A. who was on her way to the Maritime provinces. Miss Rutherford spoke of the I. C. M. among the women students of other Universities, and of the forthcoming Conference at Indianapolis. The second was in honour of Dr. Aggrey of Gold Coast, Africa, and of Dr. Sharman of Toronto.

Funds were provided for the Indianapolis Conference by a "Stunt Night" at Strathcona Hall.

The next item of importance was the Student Volunteer movement Convention at Indianapolis, during the Christmas holidays. Five members of R.V.C., one from M.S.P.E., and one from Macdonald, attended, and brought back with them a broader vision of the world, and a better understanding of students of other nations.

A very important part in the life of the S.C.A. has been the study and discussion groups carried on. To the many students who have taken part in these, they have been a source of great help and clearer understanding. Dr. Sharman, during his week at McGill, led in discussion a group of about fifteen women students, who derived great benefit from the experience.

Honorary President: Mlle TOUREN

THE session 1923-24 has been so far a banner year for the Société Française. The policy of the executive has been most energetic, the active membership has been more than tripled, enthusiasm has never flagged, and the meetings have been well attended. Thanks are due of Mlle Touren for her encouragement and keen interest in the activities of the Société, and to the enterprise of the president.

At its opening meeting, the Société had the privilege of hearing M. Thomas, of the Alliance Française, and "La Servante Mechanique", an amusing little skit on the servant problem, which was written by two of the members, and presented by the Second year.

Early in the session, the executive decided that active members should have the opportunity of visiting points of interest in the city, and of attending French plays. A trip to the venerable Chateau de Ramezay was greatly appreciated, particularly by those members new to Montreal. And in the somewhat faded, though well preserved, salons, visions were conjured up of the glamour and gaiety of long ago.

Shivers and thrills only added to the enjoyment of the Grand Guignol plays, and active members heard De Feraudy, with intense interest.

First and third year proved victorious in the inter-year debates, and it was conclusively decided that movies do more harm than good and that love marriages end unhappily.

During the second term the Société held an impromptu speaking contest, and a joint meeting with the Circle, besides giving a theatre party, and presenting a short play. The society is taking an ever-increasing part in the students' activities, and it is hoped that its future efforts will meet with the same success as that with which they were crowned this year.

THE R.V.C. "Music Club" is one of the youngest societies in connection with the college. It was founded late in the Autumn of 1922 by a small number of enthusiastic students under the leadership of Miss Kathleen James, with the aim of inspiring an appreciation of good music. Owing to the difficulties attendant upon the organization of a new society, the number of meetings was necessarily limited. A very enjoyable "Chopin" afternoon brought the activities of the Club to an end for the session 1922-23.

This year the society has met with unqualified success—attendance at meetings equalling that of its sister organization the "Delta Sigma Society" and "The Société Française".

The first meeting took the form of an "Impromptu Speaking Contest" on musical subjects. Two members of the first year were the successful prize-winners for the most concise and comprehensive speeches of the afternoon. "Claude Debussy and his works" formed the topic for discussion at the second meeting. A paper on the life of the composer and criticism of his work was followed by illustrative selections amongst which were "Reflet dans l'eau"—"Second Arabesque", and "Doctor Gradus ad Parnassum."

The third meeting dealt with the interesting topic of "Folk Songs of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales." Various members rendered two or three characteristic songs from each group of these delightful old melodies. At the close of the meeting the audience joined in singing some of the better known ones from the "McGill Song Book."

The Club is singularly fortunate in having as its honorary president, Miss Lichtenstein, a never-failing advisor always ready with suggestions for every emergency. A movement is under way for the official recognition of the Society, a constitution has already been drawn up and will soon be submitted to the authorities.

R. V. C. JUNIOR HISTORY

□ □ □

I

'Twas the year of Centennial when all through McGill
Not an old grad. was absent if he had his will;
The Seniors and Juniors slept late in their beds;
Thoughts that lectures were cancelled prevailed in their heads;
Yet everywhere students such "pep" did evince
As ne'er has been shown before then nor since,
And part of the reason things seemed so alive
Was the advent of R.V.C. '25.
The Freshies soon learned the meaning of that proverb great
Which says that they serve too who just stand and wait.
They were taught by the Sophettes the rules great and small,
And now think in retrospect that they kept them all.
With rites most mysterious, in garments most queer,
The Sophs. did initiate this excellent year,
And found that although they were woefully green
Their sportsmanlike spirit was plain to be seen.
Besides sports and contests too numerous to tell
They managed to take in some lectures as well,
And though called rather often "a pretty poor lot,"
They proved very soon that they really were not,
For when wintry blasts made them shiver and quake
(As they knew the dread Christmas tests came in their wake)
They plugged with both might and main one and all,
And their casualty list was exceedingly small.
Father Time then on pinions most swift seemed to soar,
And 'twas just like a flash till their first year was o'er.

II

'Twas their Sophomore year, when all through the class
Not many were absent, for few did not pass,
Then returning they found a new regime in sway
And to fix up their courses took nearly a day.
This matter once over, with dignified grace
They busied themselves keeping "Frosh" in their place.
The Sophs. dignified in speeches and plays to compete;
In orations in French they ne'er met defeat.
When Queens and Toronto both played R.V.C.
To see who in basketball champions would be,
'25 helped bring glory and fame to McGill
By supporting her team with the best of goodwill,
And also the class representation had
Among the victorious basketball squad.
On R.V.C. Sports Day the Sophs. did their best;
In rooting at least, they excelled all the rest;
Some runners they had of very swift pace
Who brought them the victory in the Relay race.
The springtime again quite soon did appear,
Inspiring poor students with ominous fear,
For in spring students' fancies do all sadly turn
To thoughts of the work that they then have to learn,
For if they don't work they will soon hear, alas,
The much-dreaded sentence of "They shall not pass!"

III

'Twas her third year when '25 coming back
Found two members had left her to go out to "Mac,"
But two others arrived their places to fill
By leaving the west for dear old McGill.
For Sports Day the class chose the colour of blue,
But their spirits by no means partook of that hue;
As Juniors they found that they now had some "pull,"
Which fact they in sports had displayed to the full,
For they by their strength on the rope had pulled more
Than had all the rest in the great tug-of-war.
At Kingston the Intercollegiate debate
Was won by those R.V.C. sent to orate;
That one of the speakers victorious that day
Was a Junior it seems hardly needful to say.
'25's Junior year is now near its close,
With all of its happiness and very few woes;
To the Annual now they contribute a part
With the following consummate pieces of art.
In joy and prosperity long may they thrive
This thrice noble class, R.V.C. '25!

McGill Conservatorium of Music

AS in previous years, the Faculty of Music continues its efforts to raise the standard of music in Montreal. Its aim has been greatly aided this year by the extension lectures in Musical Appreciation given by Dean Perrin. These lectures are attended by students and music lovers, resident in Montreal, many of whom find this their only opportunity of gaining a better understanding of musical subjects.

Through local examinations, which are conducted yearly by the Faculty of Music, McGill University is keeping in close contact with all of the important centres of both the West and the East. A well-known and able examining board consists of Dean Perrin, Dr. Saunders of Ottawa, Dr. McMillan of Toronto, Professor Musgrove of MacDonald, Dr. Whitehead, Mr. Stanton, and Miss Lichtenstein, Vice-director of the Conservatorium. Dr. Perrin himself presides at the local examinations throughout the Dominion.

Mr. Bryceson Treharne has joined the staff of the Conservatorium as Professor of Piano and Composition. The staff recital in November was confined chiefly to the rendition of some of his published songs. To this program Mr. Treharne also contributed a group of Schumann pianoforte solos.

Three orchestral concerts were given under the direction of Dean Perrin. At the second of these the orchestra played a rhapsody, entitled "Hereward", written by Dr. Whitehead, a member of the staff, who received his Mus. Doc. from McGill University last year. The entire proceeds from the sale of tickets for these concerts are devoted to the fund which provides scholarships at the Conservatorium annually for deserving students.

In addition to the orchestral concerts, three student recitals were given.

During the lifetime of Lord Strathcona, the Conservatorium had the use of the building which it now occupies and lately, through the generosity of Lady Strathcona, the Faculty of Music has been given both the building and the land upon which it stands.

Faculty of Music Undergraduate Society

THE Faculty of Music Undergraduates' Society which was formed last year has done much in bringing the students of the Conservatorium together. Several most successful meetings were held during the year, in the Conservatorium Hall which was kindly placed at the disposal of the society by Dean Perrin. Thanks is also due to Dean Perrin for the use of his office for business meetings.

The Society held its first meeting of the season on November 21st, at which the Dean gave a most interesting talk on "Facts and Fallacies of National Music." An enjoyable musical programme also was given by some of the students.

The next meeting took place on February 13th at which an excellent programme was given. Impromptu speaking formed an important part of the entertainment. Topics such as "Musical Appreciation," "Examinations in Music," and "Are Men Better Composers than Women?" produced much original thought and interest. The remainder of the programme consisted of musical selections which were enthusiastically received.

Miss Clara Lichtenstein, the Vice-Director of the Conservatorium, has again accepted the office of Honorary President and by her active cooperation and advice has done much to further the aims of the Society.

Besides the executive, there are two committees, each consisting of four members, their duties being to arrange the programme of the meetings and to receive the guests. Judging by the progress which has been made so far, the current year should prove to be a banner one for the society.

McGill School for Social Workers Undergraduate Society

Honorary President: Dr. C. A. DAWSON

President: MISS RUSSELL

Vice-President: MISS RICHARDS

Secretary-Treasurer: MISS RUNNELLS

THE increased registration and widened interests of the McGill School for Social Workers created a situation which demanded co-operation amongst the students of the School and a participation in the various activities of the University.

At the beginning of the year a meeting of the School was held at which it was decided to organize a student's undergraduate society. A constitution was then drawn up and accepted. Officers were elected and the McGill School for Social Workers' Undergraduate Society came into being.

Through the efforts of friends of the school, a common room was obtained in the East Wing of the Arts Building, to be shared with the School for Graduate Nurses. The room has been tastefully re-decorated, and the Society now has a cheerful place in which to hold its meetings and to spend a quiet hour.

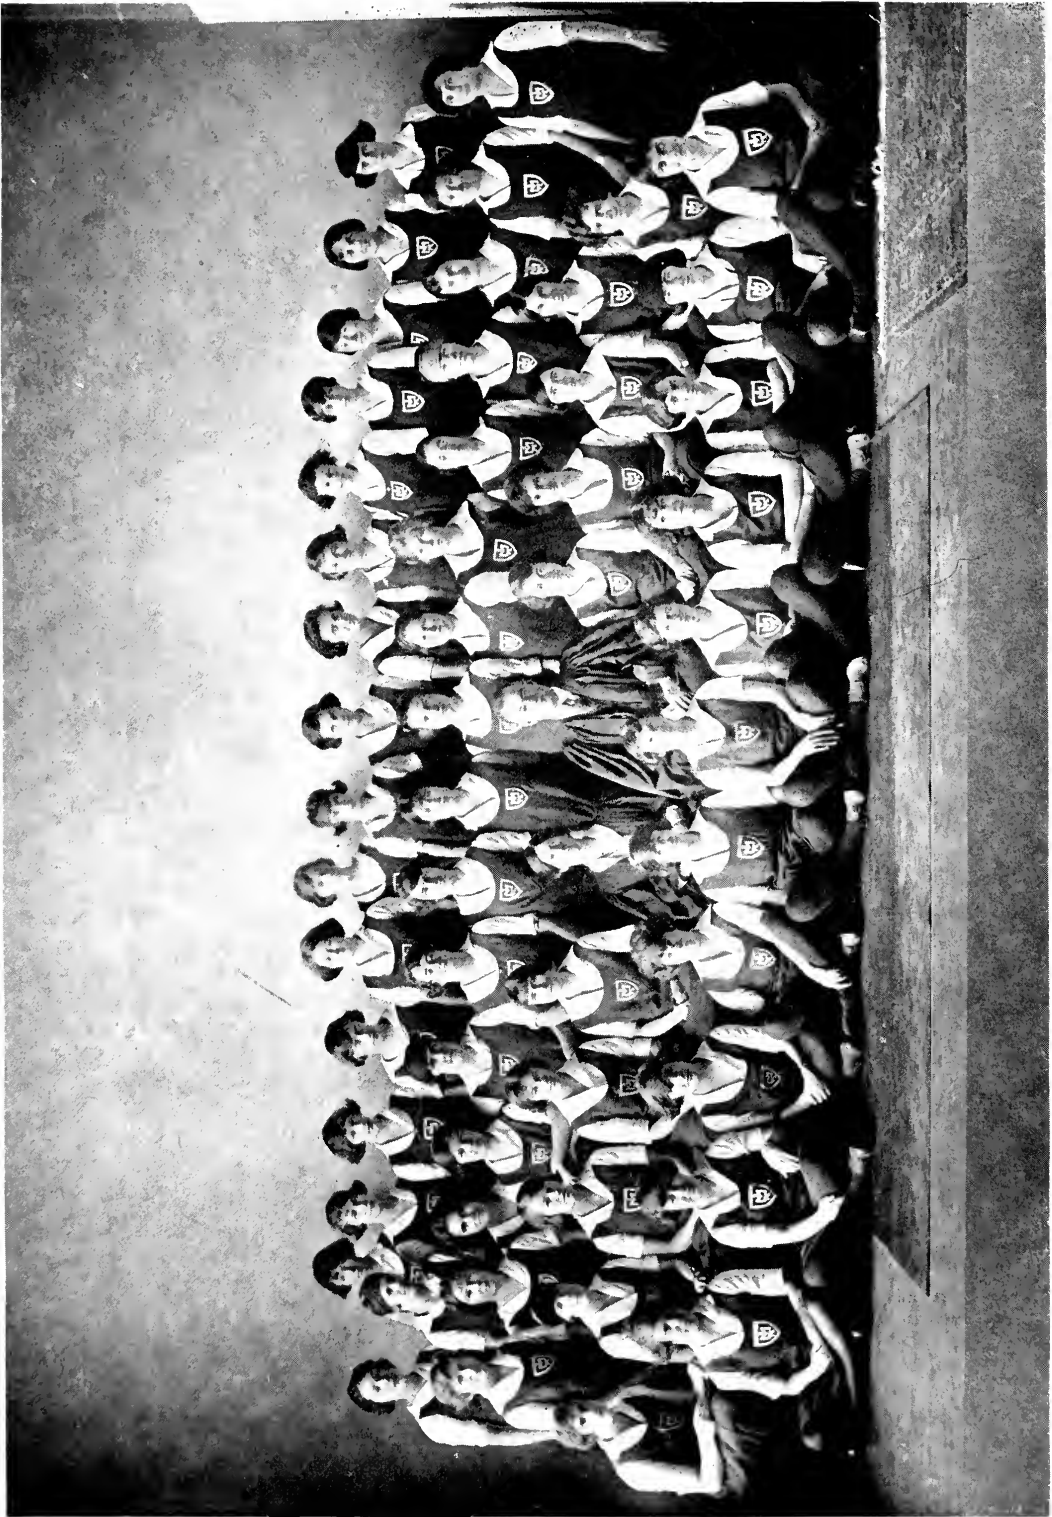

The Society aims to create a spirit of good fellowship amongst its members and to promote the interests of the School in every way possible. To this end it is planned to hold meetings at which there will be speakers on topics of interest to students of social work, followed by discussion. The Society hopes to hold a series of informal teas to which are to be invited friends of the school, and those who are especially interested in social service work in the city.

The Society also aims at a keener interest in college affairs and the fostering of the college spirit. It has agreed to enter the proposed McGill Women Students' Society, and if the plans mature, the Society will be greatly benefited.

SCHOOL OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Honorary President: MISS E. M. CARTWRIGHT

President: M. COPPING

Secretary: B. FIELD

Vice-President: L. IBBOTSON

Treasurer: M. RUTHERFORD

□ □ □

THIS year the McGill School of Physical Education has a record enrollment with an increase of twelve members over last year. The session opened on September 17th and by the end of the month students were hard at work and organization for the various activities had taken place.

A very keenly contested tennis tournament held during October, resulted in Miss H. Roberts capturing the championship of the School from Miss E. Clarkson, last year's victor.

Great enthusiasm was shown in Lacrosse which was played at the Stadium. Several exciting matches were played, chief among these being a muddy battle between First and Second Years, the Seniors emerging victorious.

The season for track and field athletics was terminated by a School Sports Day, in which nearly every student participated. The Individual Cup for the highest aggregate was won by Miss M. Robertson of First Year. The Juniors also carried off the Inter-Year Cup.

Athletic activities of the School are governed by student managers and sub-managers, under the control of the Staff.

The M.S.P.E. Undergraduate Society controls all student activities.

The School is keenly interested in the formation of a McGill Women's Student Society, and has representatives on the McGill Daily and Students' Christian Association. In connection with the latter, the M.S.P.E. sent a representative, Miss R. Copland, to the National Conference at Indianapolis, during the Christmas vacation.

Early in December a meeting of Physical Directors and those interested in Physical Education, was held in R.V.C., and was followed by a demonstration of various forms of physical activities by women students from the School and Royal Victoria College, and men students from the Gymnastic and Basketball clubs of McGill.

Although sports are a large item in the school curriculum, they are by no means the most important. Lectures in a great many subjects, gymnasium, dancing and practice teaching in the various children's institutions and schools of the city play a large part in the School programme.

The Graduating Class will soon have finished its seemingly short two years at McGill and its members will be scattered all over the Dominion, carrying out to the best of their ability the ideals and aims of the School. Wherever they may be, in playgrounds, schools, colleges and other institutions, memories of the School will ever be with them.

M. S. P. E. Basketball Team

THE Basketball season opened with encouragement for the M.S.P.E. team this year, when they played an exhibition game on December 8th against the M.A.A.A. on the latter's floor, defeating them 39 to 3. In the following month the first and second teams played the R.V.C. and again were victorious.

In February they continued their successes still further by defeating Macdonald College and the Y.W.C.A.

Although the School does not participate in the Intercollegiate matches, there are two teams which regularly take part in games with the Royal Victoria College, Macdonald College and the Y.W.C.A.

* Some very good material has been discovered in the First Year, which, with practice, should be developed into first-class players.

Attendance at all Sports, in which the School participates, is compulsory for all students and they are unable therefore to specialize in any particular branch. This, however, does not seem to affect their playing ability but tends rather to keep them on the alert in all the activities in which they take part.

The teams practise regularly in Molson Hall, and in addition have been fortunate enough to secure the use of the Montreal High School Gymnasium once a week. The use of this splendid playing-floor is a decided advantage which is greatly appreciated.

Much praise is due Miss Cartwright for her excellent coaching and supervision at all practices.

M. S. P. E. Hockey Team

ALTHOUGH it has been unfortunate in losing some able players who graduated last year, the prospects for the School of Physical Education Hockey Team are very bright this year.

In 1922-23 the School won the Championship of the Montreal Ladies' Amateur Hockey League after a hard struggle. The title was hotly contested by the R.V.C. team against which three matches were played to decide the winner. In the first game the M.S.P.E. won and this caused a tie between the two teams. The second game resulted in a tie but in the third the School was victorious. This win was due to a great extent to the spirited play of Miss P. Powell, although the team was greatly weakened by the loss of Miss Florence Gardiner.

Miss Helen Roberts, a star of last year's team, is still at McGill and as there is some splendid new material, it is hoped that the Championship will be retained for another year at least.

During the Intercollegiate Hockey meet, held in Montreal in February, 1923, the M.S.P.E. team played an exhibition game against Varsity. The Toronto team won by a score of 4 goals to 1. The school forward line broke through the strong Toronto defense several times, but could not score. It is hoped that another game with this team may be arranged in the near future.

The line up of the team for 1923-24 is:

H. Roberts (Capt)	Centre	P. Prowse, R. Wing
D. MacArthur	L. Wing	B. Gordon, Defence
N. McTaggart	Goal	E. Clarkson, Defence

School for Graduate Nurses

THE aim for higher education among the nursing profession has been achieved, in the establishment of a School for Graduate Nurses at McGill University.

In 1920 a generous offer of financial support was accepted from the Quebec Provincial Red Cross Society, for a term of three years. The School was opened in October 1920, with a two-fold object: (1) To provide training for Public Health Nursing; (2) To provide training for administrative and teaching positions in hospitals and schools of nursing.

The hope and aim of the school is to send out teachers and leaders, who, either by helping to improve the methods and raise the standards of nursing education in Canada, or, by doing efficient work in the varied fields of Public Health Nursing, may alike serve the Community as health workers.

The course taken to supply this educational need has been more than justified by the ever increasing number of students from all over Canada, who yearly take advantage of this opportunity to increase both their practical and theoretical knowledge.

The School is now an integral part of the University and is supported as such, as the three years during which the Red Cross gave support have come to an end.

Athletics

THE YEAR IN ATHLETICS

SPORT activities have practically terminated for the session and McGill has not won the two most important trophies, Hockey and Football but the cloud of the present session has a silver lining for the year 1924-25.

Training in football commenced about the middle of September. During the summer an addition has been made to the field house, which was used as sleeping quarters for the Senior Squad. The advisability of such a scheme had often been discussed and now, after a trial there is no doubt as to the benefits of the system. Esprit de corps and fighting spirit were drilled into the team. A training camp was started at Lac Archambault to which some of the players were sent while others stayed in Montreal. This year's football team was made up for the most part of young and inexperienced players and much credit is due to Coach Shaughnessy for the manner in which he developed the team to such an extent that it won its last three games.

It may be interesting to note that there were 208 plays in the Varsity-McGill game played in Toronto, while the average number of plays in the Big Four League is between 135 and 160.

The Annual Track Meet held in Toronto proved a splendid climax to the intensive training of the McGill team which has won the Intercollegiate Championship for the sixth successive time. The points awarded were McGill 59, Varsity 49, Queens 30. Two new records were made by McGill men, Legg winning the half mile in 1.59 2-5 and Pierce the 120 yard Hurdles in 16 1/5. The Harrier meet was also held in Toronto, Varsity coming first, McGill second and R.M.C. third.

McGill took the leading part in the Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament at Toronto, winning both the singles and the doubles. This is the fifth successive time that McGill has captured this title.

McGILL-VARSITY GAME—PAPYRUS ACCLAIMED WINNER

During the Christmas vacation, members of the Hockey, Basketball and Ski and Snowshoe Teams worked diligently. The Hockey team played four games at New Haven, Boston Harvard and Yale. The Senior Basketball team played five games on their vacation trip, namely the University of Vermont, University of Pennsylvania, West Point, City College of New York and the Crescent Athletic Club of that city. The Ski and Snowshoe Club participated in the Winter Carnival at Lake Placid for the President Harding Trophy but came second to Dartmouth.

It was decided this year that McGill should enter a team in the City Hockey League. This League has not yet finished but McGill appears to have a good chance of capturing the laurels.

The Beaubien Cup has been presented for competition in a three match series between the Hockey teams of McGill and the University of Montreal.

The annual Intercollegiate Swimming Meet took place here this year and resulted in a decided win for McGill. Three new records were established. The Canadian record for the 200 yard Relay of 1.45 $\frac{1}{5}$ was broken by the McGill team with a time of 1.44 $\frac{1}{5}$. The Intercollegiate 100 yard Breast Stroke and 100 yard Free Style Records were also broken. The first game in the Water Polo series played the following night resulted in a decided win for McGill and a few weeks later they won the championship after a draw game in Toronto.

The Annual Intercollegiate Assault-at-Arms was held at McGill this year. Toronto took premier honours with 12 points, McGill 5 and although Queens did not enter the scoring column great credit is due to the Queens representatives for the gameness which they displayed.

McGill sent an excellent Ski and Snowshoe team to Hanover, to participate in the annual winter carnival with Dartmouth. Dartmouth secured the lead with 34 $\frac{1}{2}$ points to McGill's 15, New Hampshire 8. In the return meet at Montreal McGill overcame the lead and captured the Eastern Intercollegiate Ski Championship.

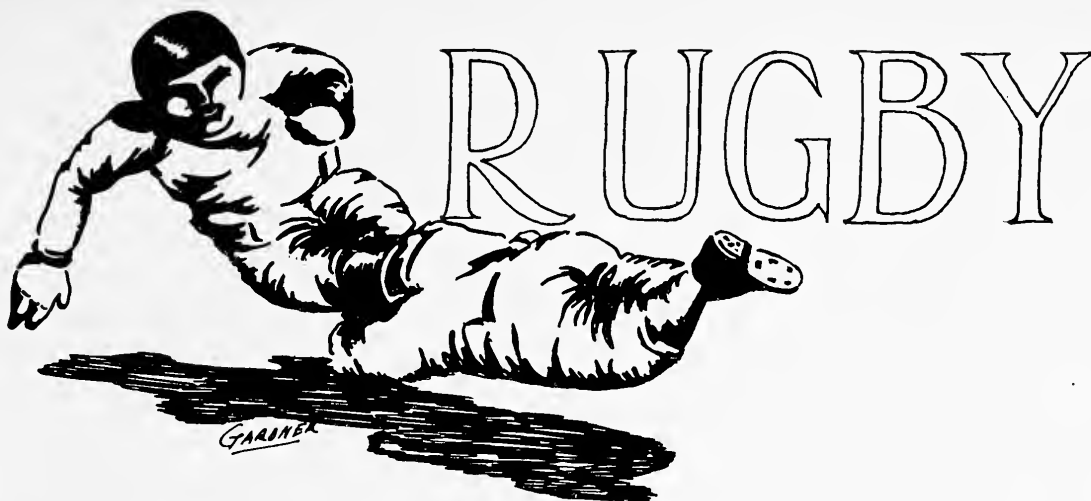

An Intercollegiate Golf Union was formed this year and McGill had the honour of being the first victor in Intercollegiate Golf.

On the whole, the athletic record of the year has been satisfactory in that, although a large number of championships were not secured for the university, the name of Old McGill has again been held high and the year's showing gives bright promise of a banner athletic year in 1924-25.

FOOTBALL

BY COACH FRANK SHAUGHNESSY

The 1923 football squad as it appeared in the early games of the season certainly was not one over which to wax enthusiastic. The men were green; the half-line didn't show much promise, and the outside wings were very light in weight.

However, before the season ended, the team developed into one of the best in Canada, winning its last three games and exhibiting a fighting spirit that has been sadly lacking the past few years.

The team this year were housed in the new addition to the field house and before the season was half over it was apparent that there was a better feeling in the squad than had existed in a long time. The men slept and ate together, played together, were able to talk football at all times, and I know would have fought for each other. The Dormitory was, in my opinion, the dominant factor in arousing the old McGill fighting spirit.

Captain McGregor was an ideal leader and I have seen few captains that were able to capture the respect and confidence of their men as he did. McGregor was in charge of the Dormitory, and the discipline he maintained was admirable. I would not say there was a star player on the team. Several of the men performed brilliantly at times, but one could always trace a great measure of their success to the assistance rendered by team-mates. "Bones" Little, elected unanimously to the 1924 Captaincy was in many respects the most reliable player on the team, and should be a worthy successor to Capt. McGregor.

Several valuable players will graduate from the team and the 1924 squad will have to start out with the object of developing as soon as possible the spirit they inherited from last year's team.

However, if all the men are successful in their examinations, a fine nucleus will be ready for the start, and all are preparing to give their best to put McGill on top again. A feature of the schedule will be the opening game of the season with Dartmouth. This university is conceded to have one of the highest codes of sportsmanship of any in the United States, and with McGill also priding itself on its strict adherence to the rules of fair play, the game should be an enjoyable one for both universities.

THE RUGBY TRAINING CAMP

WITH the idea in mind that good condition goes a long way towards making a Rugby team, it was decided to add to the training schedule which the Rugby Squad had been following for some years past. To this end, the members of the Senior Squad, or as many of them as were able, went to a pre-season training camp at Lac Archambault, in the Laurentians.

On Sunday morning September 16th, seven aspirants to the team, gathered at the Place Viger Station, well loaded down with blankets, kit bags and paddles. The contingent consisted of Captain Doug McGregor, "Bozo" Manson, Syd Harris, Roscoe Wilson, Andy Starke, Charlie Robertson and Dick Wilson. A hasty one-arm breakfast was had by all before the train pulled out at the unreasonable hour of 7 a.m. The trip which took about seven hours, was divided into two parts, train to St. Agathe and very uncomfortable Ford busses the remainder of the way. It was uneventful except that it was a period during which everyone was bidding a fond farewell to the fragrant weed till the end of the season.

The camp was found to be named "Agaming", but more familiarly "Powters Camp". It was a beautiful spot at the edge of the lake, and possessed a cleared space large enough for punting, signal practice and such parts of conditioning as could only be practised on an open field. Those already at the camp were Major and Mrs. Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. Brown, and last, but by no means least, the cook. The remainder of the first day was spent in getting boughs for the beds, and getting the camp arranged. Tent leaders were appointed, and by night time everything was running with the smoothness of a Boy Scout camp.

The next morning hostilities started against large waist lines and such forms of physical degeneration as the summer holidays are wont to bring about. A three day canoe trip to Lake Caribou and back, was held, during which Doug McGregor put his cohorts through their paces at every conceivable opportunity.

"P. T." and a run before breakfast, running back over the portages for another load, as well as a large amount of paddling soon began to show results. So that by the return to camp everyone felt in much better shape than at the start.

THE SENIOR FOOTBALL SQUAD

IN winning fifty per cent of her games, with the winning games being played at the end of the season, the showing made by the Senior Football Team of the session 1923-24 is an extremely strong argument in favour of two things: the system of coaching at McGill, and the addition of dormitories to training facilities.

Even the most enthusiastic and optimistic supporter, could not vision the ultimate success which was in store for a squad which was composed largely of men with little or no previous Intercollegiate experience. It was hoped that these men would develop sufficiently that they might aid in bringing back the Championship to McGill during next season.

The "mountain climbers" came down from the training quarters in the Laurentians just about ten days before the first encounter of the season against the veteran Queens team. The tri-color triumphed, but not without the use of a large amount of their gridiron strategy which the McGill "youngsters" lacked. The following week Varsity visited McGill and the Shagmen were again forced to bow down to their opponents. In her final game against Queens, the Red and White team, although losing to the Presbyterians, gained a wealth of valuable experience, and rid her system of its season's supply of bad football.

Then came the turning point in the fortunes of the McGill team.

After entertaining and defeating the famous Hamilton Tigers, who incidentally later won the Big Four Championship, the McGill squad journeyed to Toronto where, for the first time since 1919, they took the count of their traditional Blue and White rivals by 16-8 score.

Two days later, on Thanksgiving Day, the M.A.A. team met the McGill warriors in the last local Senior game of the season, McGill finally emerging from the fray with a one point advantage in a 2-1 score.

Too much credit cannot be given to Frank Shaughnessy, and his coaching staff, among the latter to Dr. Cyril Flanagan, in particular. Faced with a seemingly impossible task from the start, Shag brought about the many apparent improvements in the squad and thus accomplished one of his greatest successes. As previously mentioned, the training quarters over the Field House had proven to be of tremendous import in improving the spirit of the men.

FOOTBALL

ENGLISH — CANADIAN — AMERICAN

By FRANK SHAUGHNESSY

JUST one hundred years ago a football game was being played at Rugby, one of England's famous Public Schools. Becoming excited, one of the players picked up the ball and ran toward his opponents' goal. This action was a distinct violation of the code, but instituted a new kind of football game that henceforth was called Rugby.

Along in the seventies, Rugby was introduced in America, and one of the first games was played between Harvard University, representing the United States and McGill University, representing Canada. The game quickly became popular in both countries. New rules were annually introduced changing the style of play, until to-day, one would hardly recognize a game of either American or Canadian Football as having any relation to the parent English Game.

In England the rules and spirit of the game have changed but little. Fifteen men still being played on a team, and no substitution allowed either for player injured or any other cause. A right type of sportsmanship is maintained there and trickery is "not done". To illustrate, I will retail the experience of a Canadian Officer who won the Rhodes Scholarship and was afterwards killed in action in France after a very brilliant record. He was playing Rugby at one of the training camps, on a team composed of English Officers. As scrum half on his team, his duty was to toss the ball into the scrum, and then run behind his forwards to get the ball if they were successful in heeling it out. He discovered that by giving the ball a certain twist it would spin toward the feet of his own forwards and that they had a better chance of getting it out. The trick was successful, but to his discomfiture, his own captain on discovering what he was doing, ordered him to discontinue the practice or get off the field.

In Great Britain there is a large wealthy class that go in for sport, and keep up the standard of sportsmanship to the highest peak.

The English Rugby game is very simple and easily understood. Play usually starts with the ball being tossed in between the feet of the men forming the scrum. The scrum is composed of eight men a side, and usually forms up in three lines, three, two and three. The ball is heeled out to the scrum half, who usually passes back to his half line starting a passing attack. As no one knows in advance which one is going to scrum the ball, each team must be prepared either for attack or defense, according to the way the ball comes out. Thus it will be seen, possession of the ball is of little value. Interference is prohibited and all passing must be on-side.

"ANDY" STARKE

"ART" MANSON

FOOTBALL—Continued

In Canada some of the features of the English Rugby Game, have been retained. Twelve men constitute a team and only six substitutes are allowed. Interference is permitted only to men who are in the line of scrimmage when the ball is put into play, and this interference is limited to a distance of three yards in advance of the line of scrimmage. Ten yards must be gained in three downs or the ball handed over to the opposing team. Instead of a touch back and no score resulting when a ball is kicked over an opponents goal line and not run out, a Rouge is awarded, counting one point. This rule is one of the main features of the Canadian Game, as it compels half backs to take chances in catching kicks and develops open field running and good tackling.

The kicking game has to be given great attention, and players are taught to place their kicks, and get the proper height and distance for their wings to cover them.

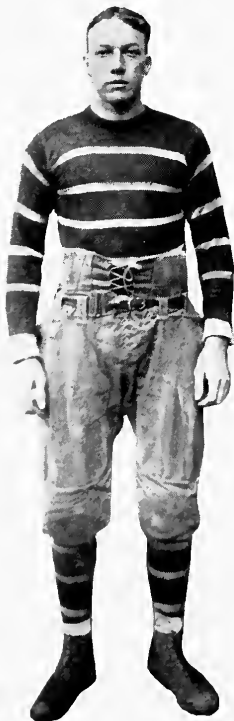

The American Game has changed its complexion much more than either of the others. At first it developed into a very close game, depending on small gains by bucking to gain yards. It finally reached a stage where only a big powerful team could be successful. The forward pass in my opinion, was the saviour of the game, as it gave light fast men a chance to come into their own on the attack and forced all teams to sacrifice mere power to get more speed to meet a diversified attack.

The Canadian game is made up of a combination of bucks, passing runs and lots of kicking.

In the game between McGill and Toronto University this year, two hundred and eight plays were recorded in the sixty minutes of playing time. There were sixty-eight kicks, sixty-six end runs and the remainder, bucks. I think this combination should satisfy the most ardent exponent of open play.

There is one rule in Canadian Football that I think the American game could adopt with profit, and that is the rule placing a time limit of twenty seconds on getting the ball into play. This would do away with conferences and playing the watch, which is now so prevalent, and which are certainly not sportsmanlike actions.

I also think that the coach's work should be confined to preparing his men for the game and teaching them football and how to use their wits on the field. Once the game begins it should be left in the hands of the players. The term Field General applied to a quarter back is usually a misnomer, and that is wrong. Better and smarter players would be developed if the coaches kept their hands off during the time of play. The players would enjoy the game more and it would be played on the merits of the contending players.

REGULAR football practices started about the middle of September and while many turned out the number was greatly increased with the opening of college. Then started the usual long period of training with every man striving for a place on the team.

The second squad were fortunate this year in having as a special coach Cyril Flanagan, noted football player and graduate, as an assistant to Mr. Shaughnessy. The team wish to take this opportunity of thanking him for his unstinted expenditure of time and effort, and to assure him of the appreciation of all the players.

The first Intermediate game this year was in Kingston against the Royal Military College. The team was handicapped by lack of team practice and were beaten by the cadets.

After the game the players were driven to the College where they were generously entertained at a dinner and dance given in their honour.

The following week, the return game was played in the Stadium, a fast clean game from which the cadets emerged with a one-point lead, the score being 12-13.

The best of spirit and sportsmanship prevailed between the two teams as is always the case when R.M.C. and McGill come together. It is unfortunate that more games cannot be arranged for the Intermediate team as at the present time R.M.C. and Queen's Intermediate declare a winner before meeting McGill and thus the Red and White team unless entering the finals has only a two-game series.

Junior Rugby Team

THE Juniors or "Thirds" of the rugby squad had a comparatively short season due to a schedule in which only one other team was grouped with McGill. Macdonald College having withdrawn from the league, home and home games were played with Loyola to decide the right to play off with Bishop's College for the Eastern Junior Championship.

The team was made up of a number of last year's Juniors and several new men played the first game against Loyola at the Stadium. The result was in doubt until the final whistle, the score being a tie to within a few minutes of the end. Loyola, however, managed to get into a favourable position and with seconds to go kicked for a point that gave them the game.

The return match was played on the Loyola campus and the powerful maroon squad once more emerged victorious, but only after a terrific struggle. The McGill men forced the play from the start and succeeded in notching a point, once more putting them on even terms on the round. Loyola, however, towards the close of the first half secured two points due to the sensational playing of their half backs, and despite the desperate struggle of the McGill team, just before the conclusion of the game the Maroon's star drop kicker put one between the posts clinching the game for Loyola by a score of 5-1.

These two games concluded the regular schedule and for the remainder of the season the Juniors worked out with the Seniors and Intermediates giving these teams practice for their series.

Two exhibition games were also played with the Quebec Swimming Club. Although they failed to qualify for the higher rounds, the strength of the Juniors may be judged from the closeness of the series with the Loyola team, which afterwards won the Dominion Championship.

Medical Interfaculty Rugby Champions

WHEN the final whistle of the last game of the Interfaculty Rugby League sounded last fall, the Medicine team trotted off the field carrying with them the rightful possession of the Casey Wood Cup for the coming year. This was not altogether unexpected as the Medicine team had shown from the start that it was a strong and well-balanced aggregation. The first game with Arts was a clear-cut victory, but the second game with Law, who this year entered a separate team, was lost by a one-point margin in the last few minutes of play. Science, the traditional enemies of Medicine, were easily beaten, being far from a powerful factor in the league this year. The next two games with Commerce and Macdonald were forfeited to Medicine.

In the meanwhile Arts had developed some new material and had vanquished all their competitors, until they met Law. This game was strenuous and well-played, Arts winning by a narrow margin. The result of this game caused a three-cornered tie and Law drew the "bye" for the play-off. The first game of the play-off, between Arts and Medicine, produced some fine rugby but Medicine, with a fast and tricky backfield and a heavy line, were able to overcome Arts and win the semi-final. Two days later, Meds and Law lined up for the final before a large and enthusiastic crowd. Medicine demonstrated a marked superiority and won by a wide margin. During the five games Medicine played, they scored 57 points and only had 10 points scored against them.

On November 28th, the Medical Society gave their team a splendid banquet at the Union to which were invited the University Senior Team as their guests. Among the speakers at the banquet were Sir Arthur Currie, Dean C. Martin, Dr. Archibald, "Doug" McGregor, and E. Amaron.

Exceptionally fine weather, continued support of the students, and an abundance of promising material made the league the most active it has been for years. It is hoped that much of the material developed this year in the Interfaculty League will appear next year on the Senior, Intermediate, and Junior University teams.

TRACK CLUB

THE Track Club maintained its reputation as one of McGill's outstanding athletic organizations by once more winning the Intercollegiate Championship. This makes the sixth successive season that the Red and White team won the meet, constituting a record for consecutive championships which has never been equalled.

Early in October, two meets were held at the Percival Molson Stadium. The first was the Freshman-Sophomore tussle which resulted in an easy victory for the latter, while a week later, the Inter-faculty meet took place in which Medicine succeeded in capturing the honours, mainly due to the excellent showing of Kennedy, Wiggins, Rubin and Michael. Wiggins established a new record for the three miles, running the distance in 16 minutes 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ seconds.

On October the 19th, the Inter-collegiate Track and Field championships were held at Toronto, and, after a most exciting struggle, McGill came out the victors. The contest was so close that the victory was not decided till the last event after which it was found that McGill was leading by seven points. The final standing was as follows:—McGill 61; Toronto 54; Queens 9.

Roland Kennedy won the individual honours of the day, accounting for two firsts as well as one second and a third for a total of fourteen points.

Three records were broken this year, Francis, of Toronto, established a new Canadian record for the pole vault, clearing the bar at 12 feet and 1 inches. The other two records went to McGill, Roland Legg running the half-mile in 1 min. 59 $\frac{2}{5}$ secs., while "Syd" Pierce cut the 120 yard hurdles time down to 16 $\frac{1}{2}$ seconds.

Contrary to previous years, Toronto was strong in the sprints, winning the 100, 220 and 440 yards dashes, while McGill excelled in the hurdles, the middle distances and the field events.

On the 11th of November, between the halves of the McGill-M.A.A.A. football game, a relay race was run between McGill and M.A.A.A. This was won by McGill, chiefly due to the excellent running of Legg who, as last man, overcame a considerable lead to win by a comfortable margin.

Taken all in all, it has been a very successful year and most of the credit for the success of the team belongs to the ever popular "Van" whose careful coaching was instrumental in bringing another championship to Old McGill.

DURING the first eight weeks of the college year, the Harrier Club carries on its programme of activities, which includes training at the Stadium, inter-class and inter-faculty races, and finally competition in the annual Intercollegiate Harrier meet and any other races which the Club may decide to enter.

This year a full schedule was carried out. Practice runs were held from the Field House regularly. The annual inter-faculty race was held on October 27th from the stadium over a mountain course of 5.6 miles in which an encouraging number of students, especially freshmen participated. A feature of the event was the efficient manner in which it was directed, ending as it did at half time of the R.M.C.-McGill Intermediate Rugby Match.

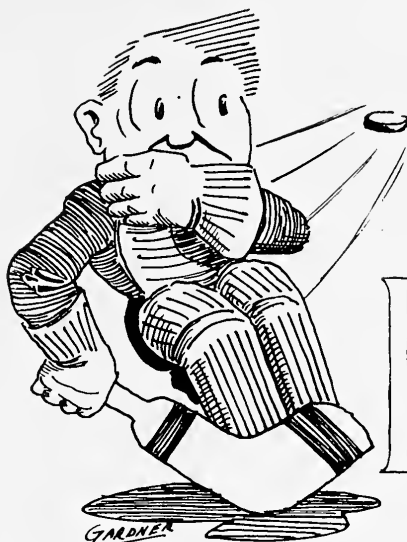

A well balanced team of six men was sent to Toronto to run in the annual Intercollegiate Harrier Meet against Queen's, R.M.C., and Varsity. This meet was held on November 3rd, when Varsity, after a splendid team race, captured the cup, second place coming to McGill, third to R.M.C. Queen's did not enter a team.

On Thanksgiving Day, a large number of Montrealers witnessed a spectacular race in Outremont, when over forty athletes representing the C.P.R.A.A., N.A.A.A., McGill, Verdun "500" Club, and North Branch Y.M.C.A. competed for the Dunlop Five Mile Road Race Trophy. The C.P.R. runners outdistanced both North Branch and McGill and won by a small margin.

The number of new men who have turned out with the Club augurs well for next year as the majority are in the lower years and will yet have several years of participation in McGill Harrier events.

McGILL was unfortunate, this year, in starting the Hockey season under a decided disadvantage imposed on it by the weather. The first ice appeared in Montreal shortly after the team had left for the annual Christmas tour of the Eastern United States. It was therefore with some fear as to results that the squad faced several strong American teams.

The first game took place with the New Haven Bears, the amateur team representing the city of New Haven. The McGill players were pleased to see two old friends on their opponents' line-up, namely Dr. Jim Cully and Dr. Ted Behan, who are both internes at one of the hospitals in Newark. The team surprised itself by holding this strong team to a 1 to 1 tie for the first two periods, but in the last period the lack of condition and practice began to tell and the Bears slipped in four goals.

The second game was with Yale, who defeated the Red & White by a 1-0 score. The men of Yale treated the McGill team royally, giving every possible aid to the managers and entertaining the team at the Club.

The team journeyed next to Boston where two games were played at the Arena Gardens. In the first game, with Boston College, the Montreal team began to show some real hockey, but lacked scoring ability, the Boston College team winning by a 1-0 score.

The following evening McGill defeated its oldest rival in sport, Harvard, by a score of 2-0. The game was fast and interesting, the Canadian team showing a greater knowledge of the game, but it still exhibited a lack of goal-getting ability.

All the American teams which were played showed the finest sportsmanship. The team anticipates a return trip during the next Christmas vacation with a great deal of pleasure.

The opening game of the Intercollegiate League proved unfortunate for McGill, when Slim Morris, the star goal-tender of the Red and White team was the victim of a most unhappy accident, which incapacitated him for the remainder of the season. Toronto won the game, after a further accident to the second goaler, Cameron, by an 8-1 score.

To date in the Intercollegiate the team has been defeated twice by Varsity, has tied once and defeated once the Université de Montréal. There are still two games to play with Queens and an exhibition game with the Université de Montréal, which will decide the holder of the Beaubien Cup, emblematic of the City College Championship.

This year, the Senior team re-entered the City League, and to date has won four of its five games, losing one to the Shamrocks. It seems quite probable that the University team will bring home the Championship in this league.

On the whole the season should prove successful bearing in mind the disadvantages against which the team has laboured. Coach Shaughnessy has worked unceasingly for the team and has succeeded in developing some splendid material and a team which, at the opening of the season looked raw and unfinished, has developed into a first class fighting aggregation.

Intermediate Hockey Team

Coach: F. J. SHAUGHNESSY.

THE purpose of the Intermediate Team is to develop players so that they may qualify for the senior team, and to afford practice for the existing senior team.

The team plays in the Montreal City Intermediate Amateur Hockey League, and the games in this organization are played every Tuesday evening at the new Loyola Rink. The other teams constituting the league are Westmount, Lachine, Victorias, M.A.A.A. and University of Montreal. A double schedule is being run off, that is, McGill plays each team twice, the league running from January 8th until March 14th.

Altogether about twenty different students have played on the team at different times, this being necessary as some men were drafted to the City League and Intercollegiate Senior Teams.

With three games to play at date of writing, McGill has lost four games, and thus their chances of winning the league are not very promising.

McGill is represented by a senior Intercollegiate Hockey Team, and by a senior City League Team. The Intermediate Hockey League this year is operating under adverse conditions and is not likely to be a financial success. The players themselves find it difficult to travel to Montreal West each week to play their games. In the face of these facts, it is a question whether the McGill Intermediate Hockey Team justifies its existence.

With two senior squads, the coach is enabled to give his Intercollegiate team plenty of practice, and it is the opinion of some that if more time were given to a good Interfaculty Hockey League, more players would be developed into senior calibre; more interest would be taken in hockey around the University; and eventually our Intercollegiate Team would receive better support from the student body.

A GAIN, this season, McGill entered a junior team in the city Junior Hockey League. The league was divided into two sections, "A" and "B". McGill was placed in section "B" with the following teams, Victoria, Westmount, University of Montreal, St. Gabriels and Loyola. It was decided that each section should have a double schedule and that the winners of the sections should play off, the winner to play off with the Junior O.H.A. champions. All games were played at the new Loyola Arena.

The first game was scheduled for December 31st, but due to mild weather and the absence of ice the game was postponed until the following week when, just before the game, Art. Abbott was elected to the captaincy of the team.

When the results of the Christmas exams. were posted, it was found that one member of the team, M. Y. Cameron, had become a "Christmas Graduate". Until February 18th, the McGill Juniors were an unbeaten team, having won seven straight games, but on that eventful night they bowed down to the University of Montreal sextette, and allowed them to creep into second place in the section. On Monday, February 25th, the Juniors by defeating Westmount won their section and will play off with the winners of section "A".

The Junior team practises on Wednesday and Thursday nights at the Mount Royal Arena, and on Saturday afternoons on the Hollow rink.

Coach Shaughnessy has given a great deal of time to the Junior team and as most of its members are freshmen he hopes to form a nucleus around which he can build in two years' time a championship Senior team.

THE feeling that golf should be added to the list of Intercollegiate Sports, has long been in the minds of followers of the Royal and Ancient Game. Golf at McGill, has not had much chance to flourish, on account of the shortness of the season; the annual match with the Staff has, up till this year, been the only competitive event in the Undergraduate golfers curriculum.

The year 1923, however marked the inception of a McGill Golf Club and a Canadian Intercollegiate Golf Union, and the success which has attended these inaugurations speaks well for the future of McGill Golf and of Intercollegiate Golf in Canada.

The formation of the McGill Golf Club was greatly assisted by the support given by Dr. Ruttan who consented to act as Honorary President. Dr. Ruttan has also taken a great interest in Intercollegiate Golf and very kindly presented a handsome cup for competition.

The Annual Match with the Staff was again a tremendous success. The professors proved themselves the superiors of the less experienced students, and won by some thirty points. In the second match of the year played against a picked team of graduates, the Old Boys won by 8 matches to 4, but the games were closely contested. The Intercollegiate fixture with Varsity, took place over the beautiful course of the Toronto Golf and Country Club, on Nov. 9th and 10th. Some really brilliant golf was played by members of both teams, the Red and White eventually winning out by two matches. McGill are thus the first holders of the Ruttan Trophy, and while most of last year's team are graduating in May, there are many rising young golfers in the University who will make a strong bid to defend the title next year. It is hoped that Queen's will soon be able to enter the league and thus make the contest triangular

EVEN before the gridiron warriors had thrown off their muddy armour, the light-footed basketeurs of Old McGill had commenced their long winter campaign. As had been the case at the beginning of the football season, a large number of aspirants to intercollegiate honours turned out to try for places on the representative teams. From these Head Coach Van Wagner selected sufficient material to make up several squads.

Last year the senior team, after losing most of their American games and dropping the first two Intercollegiate fixtures, tied up the tri-college league, thereby forcing a play-off.

In the play-off they won their two games and the championship. At the close of the regular season Coach Van Wagner took some of the men into the lower provinces where they were given a wonderful reception and where they were victorious over the best the Bluenoses could produce.

Practically the same team started out this year with the exception of Eddie Crain, whose wonderful work last year aided the team in large measure.

This season the squad has met most of the senior teams in the city, and has proved itself the best quintette in Montreal.

During the Christmas holidays the team made a trip south of the line, and met four of the leading teams in the Eastern States. McGill went down to defeat in all four games, but this was no disgrace, considering the records of the teams played. This schedule consisted of University of Pennsylvania, Army at West Point, New York City College, and Crescent A. C., Brooklyn. McGill was given a great reception in all four places and created a favourable impression, particularly because of their sportsmanship. The basketball team has done much to uphold McGill's fair name in the American colleges. A misfortune befell the team when the great defence man and Captain, Errol Amaron, tore a tendon in his leg during the second game, and had to retire from active basketball for the season.

Coach Van Wagner signed on a new member to the team who made her debut at a very delightful dinner held in the Normandie Hotel in Philadelphia. All McGill joins the basketballers in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Van Wagner long life and prosperity.

Upon returning from the Christmas trip, everyone commenced hard training in preparation for the Intercollegiate games. The opening encounter with the Varsity quintette, was lost to them. In Toronto, the McGill men put up a great fight, but were again beaten by the Blue and White. Shortly after this contest, George Hilton was put out of the game for the season, with an injury to his spine. Quackenbush and Blumenstein now became the regular defence men with Boucher subbing. Manson was at centre with Brown as spare. Philpott and Little alternated as forward alongside Mendelsohn, the captain, with James as substitute.

Towards the end of February the team journeyed to Kingston and played Queen's, but they were unable to withstand the wonderful attack of the tri-colour forwards and were beaten. One week later in the return game at the M.A.A.A. gym, the Red and White made a great fight to finish the season with a win but Queen's proved too strong and once more McGill was forced to admit defeat.

THE team representing McGill in the Intermediate "A" Division of the Montreal City and District Basketball League, is finishing a successful season.

Mr. P. A. Doyle, of Medicine '28, at the outset volunteered his services as coach, acting as assistant to Mr. Van Wagner. Art. James, of last year's Intermediate team, was elected captain, and until his promotion to the Senior team, was the leading scorer of the quintette. When James joined the First team, Art. Koff, the sturdy centre-player, was appointed captain for the remainder of the season.

As a preliminary to the regular games, an exhibition game was played against the North Branch Y.M.C.A. team of the Senior City League. The McGill team, although handicapped by the fact that only two or three of the men had played together before, held the fast 'Y' team to a 32-24 score on the North Branch floor.

Three games were played before the Christmas holidays, the Intermediates defeating Central Y.M.C.A. by 36-18, and Rosemount by 26-24, while Westmount, considered to be the best team in the division, won a hard fought game by 26-16. As a preliminary to the Varsity-Queens' Senior game, the Intermediates played King's Club, winning by three points. The next two games were lost, the first to Argonauts, and the second by one point to the Central Y. The team tightened up, however, and defeated Rosemount by the decisive score of 33-15.

Only two games remain to be played, the return game with Argonauts, and that with the fast-travelling Westmount quintette. James, Blumenstein, Philpott and Boucher, were promoted to the Senior squad as accidents occurred to the men on the latter team, and all have turned in excellent games. Ken. Muir has attended to the managerial duties throughout the year in a very businesslike manner.

Intermediate "B" Basketball Team

THE McGill entry in the Intermediate "B" Division of the City and District Basketball League, has enjoyed a fairly successful season. At the beginning of the season, about forty players tried out for the various positions on the team. After three weeks the squad was cut down to ten players and everything looked bright for a successful season.

The season commenced with a hard-fought game with the Motor Machine Gunners, the Gunners emerging victors by a small margin. The second encounter was with the Engineers now leaders in this division in which the McGill team was clearly defeated. The McGill team's combination was more in evidence when they decisively defeated the Highlanders by trebling the score. At this time the team lost two valuable players, Spitzer temporarily out of the game for two months and Woodhouse, the aggressive centre who was forced through injury to retire for the season. Despite this loss the team was defeated by only one basket in the next encounter with the M.A.A.A. The following game was wrested from the M.A.A.A. At the time of writing, the team was regaining its fast combination and the return game with the Engineers was heralded as the fastest game of the season on the McGill floor.

Ed. Manley, formerly of Niagara University, now in Science '27, was Coach for the season. his ability in this direction being widely known. The Manager, "Bob" Hamilton, found time to accompany the team to all its games, and the spirit he instilled in the team was greatly appreciated.

The final game with Nationals was won and two Y.M.H.H. games were given to McGill by default.

WITH a large range of material available at the beginning of the basketball season, a promising basketball team seemed assured for the Juniors this year. At the present time, however, its ability as a winning team is somewhat doubtful from the standpoint of games won and games lost. It should be borne in mind that the season is at best very irregular and the men never get more than three hours practice a week with comparatively long breaks for Christmas holidays and examinations.

Much competition for the team brought forth some good material with the addition later in the season of two men from the ranks of the Freshman-Sophomore League.

The first game was with the North Branch Y.M.C.A. on their floor, and though hotly contested, resulted in defeat for McGill. The next game, with the Engineers, also resulted in victory for the opposing team, and it was not until the Nuera game, played at Molson Hall, that the McGill youngsters were able to prove their worth by a combination of team-work and fast play which put them on the long end of the score. This encouragement seemed not sufficient to offset the weakening effects of the Christmas holidays, and another loss was recorded between the vacation time and examinations.

With mid-year worries safely over, the men settled down to retrieve their lost prestige. Regular practices with no more changes in the personnel of the team, should put the men in winning condition, and if this account could await the finish of the City and District League Schedule, there is little doubt that the Juniors would have a longer list of victories. The men play the game to the limit of their ability and if circumstances help to cause their defeats, they merit no criticism but rather praise that they continue to play the game in a true sportsman-like manner. The Juniors closed the season by winning their last two games.

Science '27, Inter-class Basketball Champions

INTER-CLASS Basketball was divided into two sections for the 1923-24 season. The Freshman-Sophomore section played a "Round-Robin" series of some thirty-six games, and the Upper Years section played a "Knockout" series of twelve games. The number of games was governed by teams entered, the Upper Years entering six, Sophomores ten, and Freshmen eleven teams. The Sophomores played a separate schedule from the Freshmen, Arts II playing off with Science I who were victorious.

In the Upper Year series, Arts III gave Medicine V a stiff battle, but lost in the play-off. Both teams had some fine players, and the Medicine V team was out to win the class championship which it has held for the past three years.

The final play-off between Medicine V and Science I, was a close, hard-fought game, and resulted in a win for Science. The winners had played together through a much longer schedule than the Fifth Year team, and were thus able to develop accurate combination, and keep free from fouls to a greater extent than their opponents. These two facts combined to bring about a win for Science I, score 24 to 18.

Some good material was discovered, several men being called to University teams through their showing in the Inter-class League. These men were in better condition, had improved their playing, and were able to make a better showing as a result of their Inter-class playing.

Men not making college teams at the first of the year, would do well to play Inter-class Basketball, as it is impossible to pick all the men of ability in the short observation period at the first of the season and another opportunity is provided them by participation in Inter-class games.

INTER-CLASS INDOOR BASEBALL CHAMPIONS 1923-24

THE McGill Indoor Baseball Club is experiencing another successful season. Largely due to the lack of gym. accommodation, there was a slightly smaller number of classes entered in the Inter Class League than last year. This year there were eighteen teams entered, and after many close games, the class of Medicine '25 was returned the winner. This is the second year in succession that this team has won the Inter-Class Championship of the college.

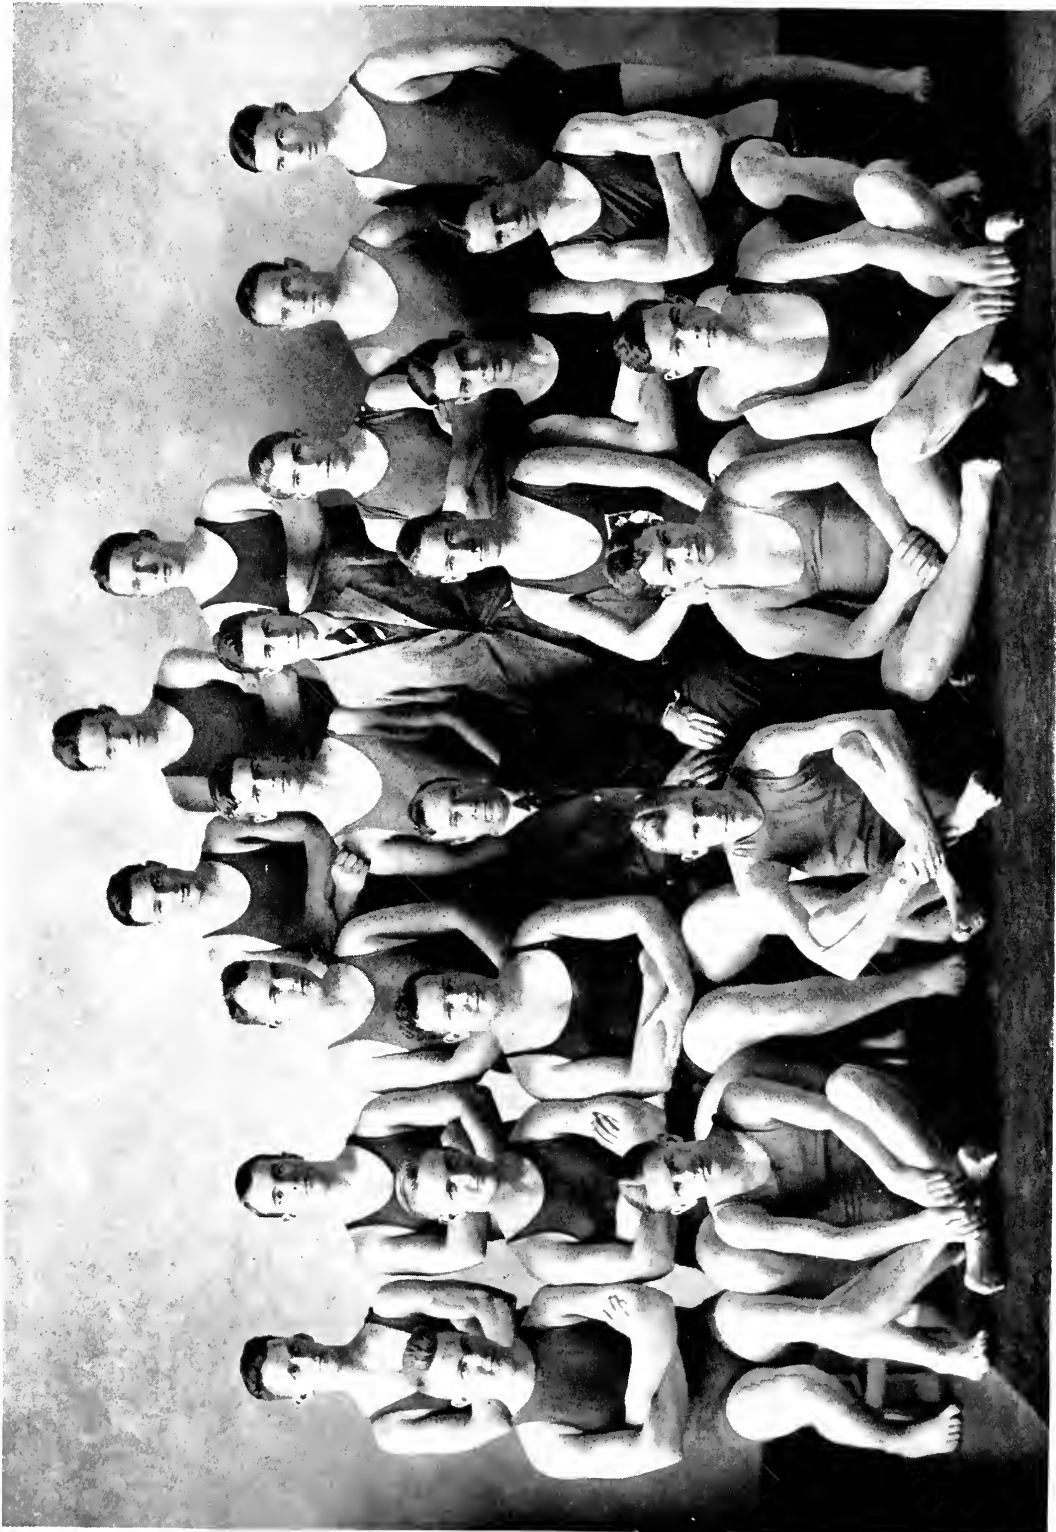

The Inter-faculty League was won last year by Arts. Each faculty enters a picked team from all years and these play off for the faculty championship. The winner for the current year has not as yet been decided.

McGill has at present two teams entered in the Montreal City and District Indoor Baseball League, and although the schedule of the league is only half over the chances for McGill having a winning team are bright. Last year the Championship was won by the McGill Reds, with Macdonald College a close second. This year, we are welcoming a new team. The University of Montreal was approached, and has entered a team in the City and District League. This team is a welcome addition as it brings the colleges closer together and promotes good feeling between the students.

There is probably no club or organization at the University which feels so keenly the lack of proper gymnasium facilities. It is to be hoped that this difficulty will soon be overcome, Indoor Baseball becoming more popular than ever, would soon be put on an Intercollegiate basis.

As a proof of its growing popularity, the faculty of Agriculture at St. Anne's, has entered a team in the inter-faculty league this year for the first time.

The officers of the McGill Indoor Baseball Club for the current year are H. Peacock and G. Earle Wight.

McGILL SWIMMING CLUB

Working under the usual difficulty of not having a college swimming pool, the McGill Swimming club has had, nevertheless a very successful season.

During the Canadian Swimming Championships, held in Montreal on October 26th and 27th 1923, the club captured every senior championship.

Clayton Bourne and Jim Ross secured first and second places respectively in the 100 yards speed championship.

George Vernot easily captured the 500 yards championship.

The McGill Relay team won the Dominion relay honours by over 12 yards in a 200 yard swim.

Two teams were entered in the Montreal City Water Polo Leagues.

The Intermediate Water Polo team played ten games, finishing in a tie for second place. Vickerson was the high scorer, although every man played clever polo.

The Senior team went through its schedule of four games without a defeat, winning the Dominion Championship. The Red and White Squad scored 16 goals to 7 against. Jim Ross and Geo. Vernot were the high scorers of the league.

The next meet of the Club's schedule was the Intercollegiate Swimming Meet, held on February 8th, 1924.

Varsity brought down practically the same team, that won the championship last year.

This year, however, McGill turned the tables and captured the swimming title by 41 points to 16.

Out of eight events we took first place in six, also numerous second and third places. Included in the six events won by McGill, were the Relay Race, 50 yards Speed, 100 yards Breast Stroke, 100 yards Speed, Long Plunge and the 200 yards Speed. Capt. George Vernot captured three races, breaking the 100 yards breast stroke record by 2 seconds.

The Relay Team won its race and in doing so broke the Canadian record by $1\frac{1}{2}$ seconds.

Clayton Bourne took the two speed sprints, breaking the 100 yards record by $1\frac{1}{2}$ seconds.

The whole team is to be highly complimented on its great victory.

No write-up of the swimming club would be complete without mention of Mr. Ed. Vernot, who has acted as Hon. Coach for the last four years. It is mainly due to his efforts that the club has had such a successful season.

Senior Water Polo Team

AT the beginning of the 1923-24 season, great enthusiasm was shown by the members of the Swimming club, in regard to Water Polo.

Due to graduation, three places were vacant on the senior team. Vernot, Ross and Anson of last year's team, provided a good foundation for the new team and Jardine, Forsythe, and Kyle were chosen to fill in the gaps.

The first game with M.A.A.A. resulted in a win for McGill 6-1. George Vernot and Jim Ross each scored three goals. The work of the defence was excellent.

The next game was against M.S.C. Jim Ross netted the only goal of the game on a pass from "Pop" Anson. George Vernot was conspicuous by his clever checking and combination. M.A.A.A. were again beaten by a score of 7-3.

The final game against M.S.C., resulted in a hard battle. McGill scored two goals whilst M.S.C. could only notch one.

McGill, thus captured the Dominion title. The whole team played well, the newcomers "making good" with a vengeance.

Varsity brought down practically a new team for the Intercollegiate Polo on February 9th 1924. As substitutes are allowed in the Intercollegiate Series, Moore, Vickerson and Bethel were added to the regular team.

The game was played before a large gallery of spectators, McGill winning by a 9-0 score. George Vernot and Jim Ross scored four goals each, while "Pop" Anson accounted for the remaining goal. The whole McGill team displayed good combination and well earned the lead which they carried to Toronto for the return game.

On February 23rd, the Blue and White team succeeded in holding the McGill team to a 1-1 score, but the Montreal team thus won the round by 9 goals.

The success of the team is largely due to the valuable coaching of Mr. Ed. Vernot, our Honorary Coach, who has spared no efforts to weld together a clean hard-fighting team.

McGill Swimming Relay Team

FOR the first time in many years the Canadian Swimming Relay Championship was, on October 27th 1923, held in Montreal.

The swimming club decided to enter a team and all the speed swimmers in the University turned out and indulged in strenuous practice.

Under the able coaching of Mr. E. Vernot, the swimmers made such good records as to enable us to look with confidence on the outcome of the race.

George Vernot, Jim Ross, Clayton Bourne, and Vic. Clarholm were chosen for the team, with George Vickerson as spare.

Unfortunately, only the M.A.A.A. entered a team against us.

The race was run under fair conditions. Bourne swimming first for McGill, gained about 3 yards, and Clarholm added another 2 yards. Jim Ross swimming third handed a lead of about 8 yards to George Vernot who came in to win by a good 10 yards.

The time for the 200 yards was 1 minute 15 $\frac{1}{5}$ seconds, breaking the Intercollegiate record by $\frac{1}{5}$ of a second.

The "Hannah Cup", emblematic of the Canadian Relay Championship rests with McGill until the next meet.

After Christmas the team practised faithfully for the Intercollegiate Swimming Meet.

Varsity sent down the last year's Intercollegiate Relay champions, for the Relay Race, which was the first event on the programme. Bourne, swimming against Uren of Varsity, gained about 4 feet, and Clarholm increased this to 6 feet. On the next fifty yards, Varsity closed the gap to 2 feet. Captain George Vernot and Keefer of Varsity, went the first 25 yards of the last lap without any change. In the last lap Vernot pulled away to win by 5 feet.

The time for the race was 1 min. 44 $\frac{1}{5}$ seconds, beating the Intercollegiate record by 1 $\frac{1}{5}$ seconds, and the Canadian record by 1 $\frac{1}{5}$ seconds.

THE Rowing Club is the infant athletic organization of the University, its birth having taken place at an enthusiastic gathering of oarsmen and would-be oarsmen in December.

The organization of the club was made possible by the very unselfish offer of the Lachine Rowing Club, whose desire it is to see such a club at McGill. Their offer consists of the use of their winter quarters for all men of the university, who so desire, while any men remaining in the city during the summer months are to be given an opportunity of competing for places on the Lachine crews. This arrangement is to be in force only for one season, thus giving the McGill club an opportunity of completely organizing during the year of its connection with the Lachine Club.

If the first year's work is successful, in the second year of its life, the McGill Rowing Club will branch out along a separate channel, its members rowing under McGill colors and in this way, making a second College Rowing Club competing in the Rowing classics of Canada. This dream of future welfare is, however, largely dependent upon the growth of the Club in its first year of existence, and also upon the enthusiasm shown by its members. Although desirable to some extent, its membership need not be confined to men who expect to row for the Lachine Club during the coming summer, the object being to increase the rowing enthusiasts of Canada and to produce oarsmen for future McGill crews. In this latter connection, it is expected that the membership of the McGill Rowing Club will, in the future, be open to members of the Faculty, graduates and undergraduates alike.

The Tennis Team

THE past tennis season has been one of the most outstanding for many years. McGill tennis stars took part in numerous tournaments outside College, and brought great credit to the University.

Willard Crocker and Jack Wright won places on the Davis Cup Team, but found their wily opponents, the Jap team, too experienced for them.

Dave Morrice won the International doubles in Switzerland.

The college year opened with a very enthusiastic local tournament and provided some of the best tennis seen at the University in years. Brilliant play was exhibited in the matches between Jack Wright and Morrice, and between Crocker and Morrice. Crocker won out in the finals, and thus became the first holder of the Vaughn Cup.

The Intercollegiate Meet was held at Toronto. Four universities competed. The entrance of the University of Montreal and the keen competition offered by them deserve mention. McGill won the tournament by a comfortable majority of points. Dave Morrice became the holder of the singles title, and Wright and Morrice the holders of the doubles title. Charlie Leslie, a freshman who exhibits great promise, made an excellent showing.

The covered court championship of Canada was played at the Montreal Indoor Tennis Club, and Willard Crocker successfully defended his singles title. Crocker and Wright made a great bid for the doubles, but lost out.

Though Dave Morrice graduates, Crocker, Wright, Leslie, and the Browns will form a strong nucleus for next year's team. McGill has held the Intercollegiate tennis championship continuously since 1919. With the above aggregation of men to represent the University, prospects look very bright for the next few years.

McGill Tennis Stars

W. F. CROCKER

Willard Crocker ranks among the foremost players of Canada, and well earned the honour conferred on him when he was chosen to play "No. 1" on the Canadian Davis Cup team against Japan. In his match against Shimidzu he raised his game to great heights and forced the famous Jap to four terrific sets before admitting defeat. Besides this achievement, Willard further added to his laurels the Canadian doubles championship, the championships of Ontario and Quebec in singles and doubles, the Canadian indoor singles title, and the singles championship of McGill.

J. A. WRIGHT

Jack Wright has sprung into prominence in the last two years and has quickly climbed to a position nearly equal to that of Willard. He further added honour to his Alma Mater when he was chosen as a member of Canada's Davis Cup team, playing in the doubles with Willard against the Japs. These two McGill stars are voted as the leading doubles team in Canada, they having won the doubles championship of Canada and the Quebec and Ontario titles. Playing with Dave Morrice, Jack also won the Intercollegiate doubles.

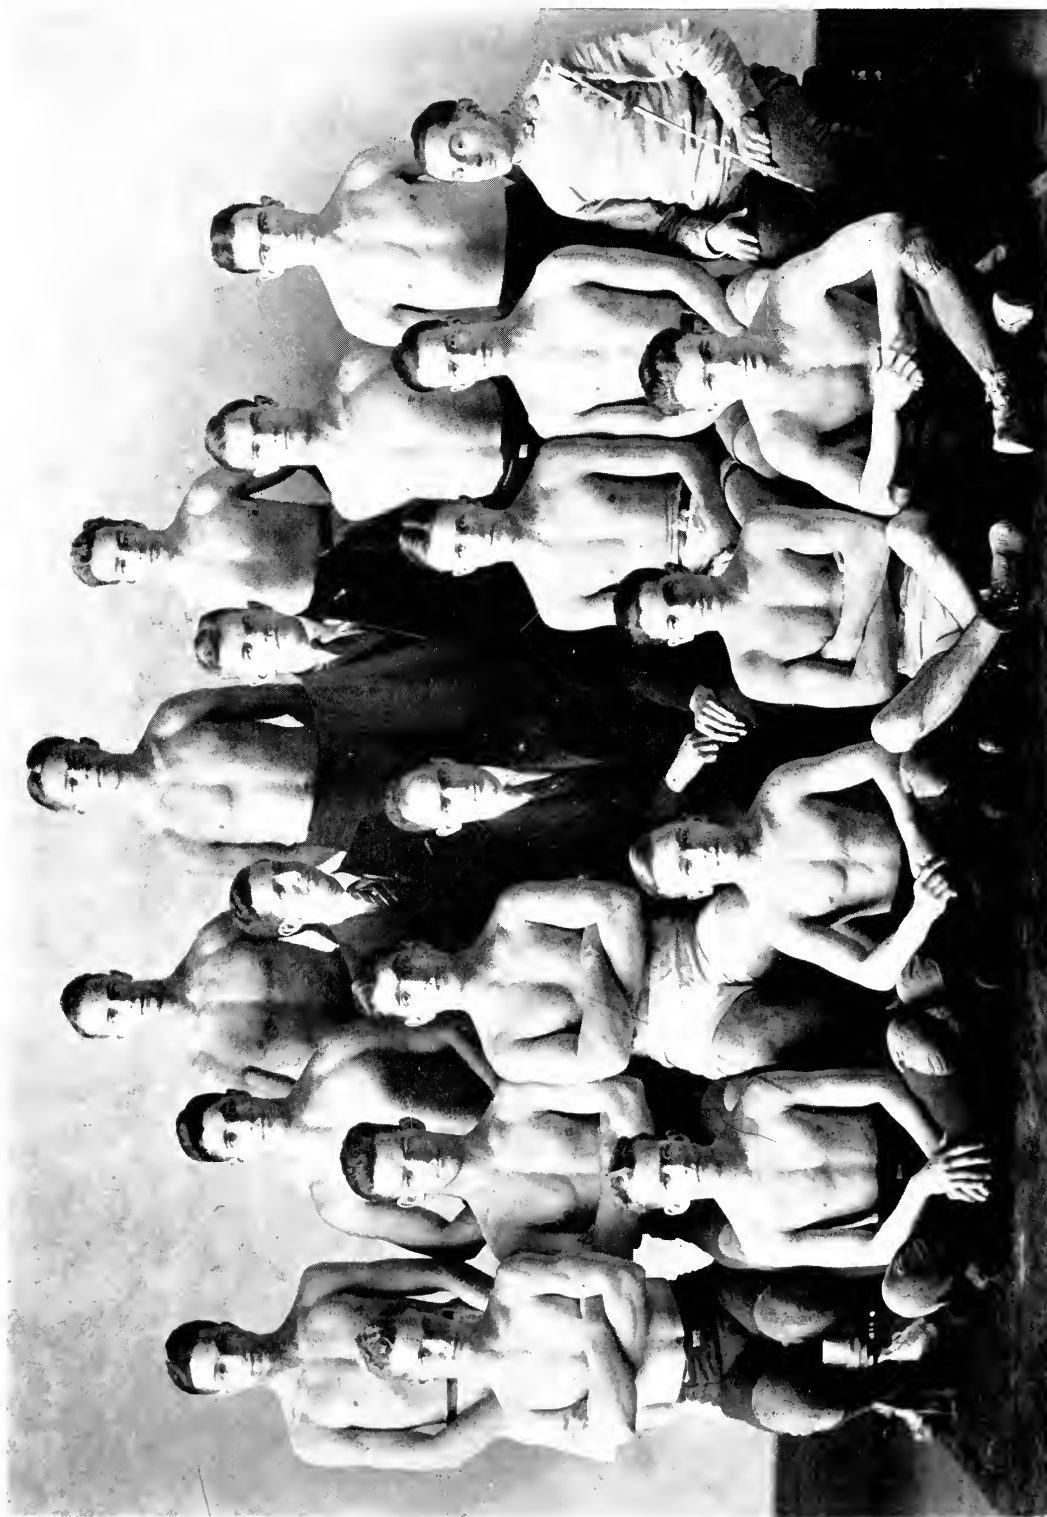

D. R. MORRICE

During the past summer Dave Morrice, partnered with a member of the Oxford tennis team, won the International doubles championship of Switzerland. At home, he annexed the doubles championship of the Mount Royal Tennis Club along with E. H. Laframboise, the Intercollegiate singles and doubles titles, defeated Jack Wright in the final of the singles and with him won the doubles. Dave was also a finalist in the McGill tournament and the Canadian indoor championships, defeating Wright in the semi-finals of both events and each time forcing Crocker to the limit to win.

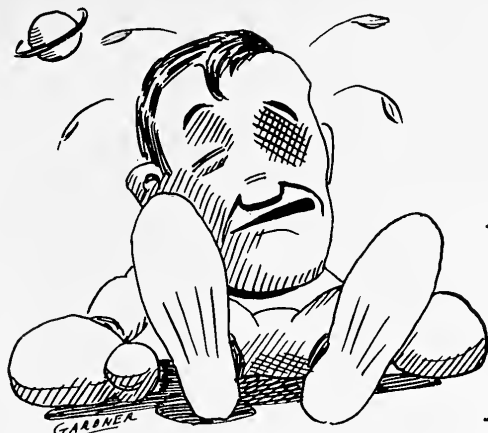

C. W. LESLIE

The Junior Championship of Canada was won last year by Charlie Leslie. Playing consistent tennis throughout the tournament he defeated D. C. Johnson in the final. The week previous to this he had won the Junior title of Ontario at Ottawa. In the Intercollegiate meet, Charlie gave Jack a great fight, which went to a close third set before being won by the latter. Since the Canadian Championships his game has improved immensely and is now developing into a hard-hitting and accurate attack.

This issue of the Annual has the pleasure, denied for a number of years, of proudly acclaiming the successful work of the Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing Team. The last Annual was in press before the team won its laurels at Kingston in the Inter-collegiate Assault in February, 1923. As this issue goes to press we have yet to learn of the doings of this year's team in the Assault-at-Arms to take place in Montreal on the fifteenth and sixteenth of February.

The Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing Club started out at the beginning of this session with firm purpose: to popularize these sports and enable many students to get the benefits that these activities hold out to enthusiasts. Under the able presidency of Fred S. Howes with the whole-hearted assistance of the manager and the representatives of the three departments, a greater number of students were enrolled in Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing than ever before—in fact Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing has almost as many active participants as football, and their activities are carried out over a longer time. Fencing, it should be noted has become very popular at McGill. The enthusiastic following is unprecedented.

The University Interfaculty Meet was held in December and produced many good contests. A large number of bouts were fought off before the men made themselves eligible to represent their faculty in the finals. The Honours of the Meet went again this year, to the Medical Faculty—the winners were:

We are proud of the achievements of our team in last year's Assault-at-Arms. Six of our wrestlers and three of our boxers are champions in the Intercollegiate division. Snow, Merritt and Brewer gained the 125, 135 and 145 pound titles in boxing respectively—while MacDonald, 118, Clement, 135, Montgomery, 145, Armstrong, 160, Freedman, 175, and Rumpel (Heavy) gained the wrestling titles for their weights. The fencers were not as fortunate in their attempts, but are to be praised for their efforts, having come within but a hair's-breadth of the title, the nearest in many years.

Under the able guidance of Coaches Smith, Robinson and Raimondi, McGill will attempt to carry the honours of the Assault this year as she did so creditably last. Even though some very valuable men have graduated, there is on the team material sufficiently able to put up a strong fight, for another Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing championship.

THE Centenary of English Rugby, which is now played in all parts of the British Empire, ends with the establishment of the Canadian Intercollegiate English Rugby Union. The constitution having been revised and approved by Toronto and McGill, has been accepted by the C.I.A.U.; and home-and-home games are now guaranteed to take place annually in Toronto and Montreal. The next step will be the inclusion of the Maritime Universities, which have played the game for many years, in the C.I.E.R.U.

The season opened with a meeting of the Club on October 2nd, when the season's arrangements met with an enthusiastic response. A large number of new men from the Maritime Provinces, B.C., and the Old Country, along with the previous season's players, promised to get into training. Daily work-outs were held on the Old Campus from October 3rd to November 17th. Whenever the whole Campus was available practice games were played between 1st and 2nd teams. After the first two weeks a game was played on every Saturday until the snow came.

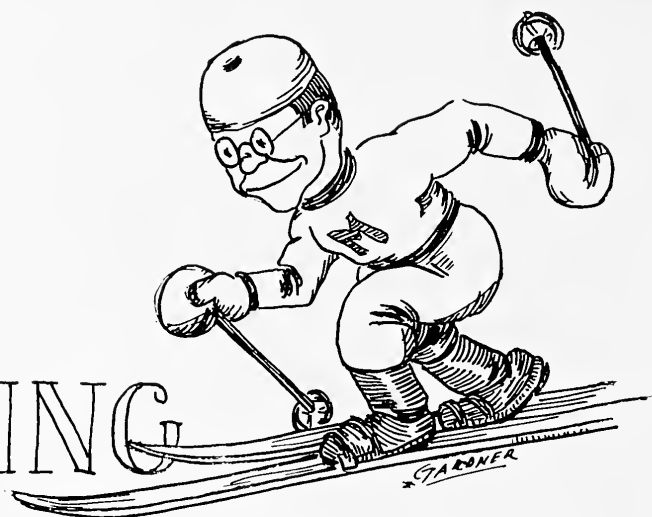

The team had a successful season of four scheduled games with only one defeat. Besides these scheduled games, exhibition games were played between Montreal and McGill—1st teams, and Montreal and McGill—2nd teams, both games ending in a tied score.

The Intercollegiate series of two closely-contested games, was won by Toronto on points. The McGill team arrived in Toronto for the 1st game on October 27th, and the game took place that morning. It was a fast and open game in which each side scored a try, neither being converted, and Varsity broke the tie by a prettily dropped goal. After being entertained to lunch at Hart House, the McGill team were given tickets to two Rugby games in the afternoon. Varsity's hospitality was much appreciated. In the return game at the Molson Stadium, Varsity and McGill battled to a 3-3 draw, leaving Varsity with a four-point lead on the round.

McGill was fortunate in winning the magnificent MacTier Cup, given by A. D. MacTier, to represent the Championship of Eastern Canada. The Montreal English Rugby Club, which won the Cup last year, successfully defended it against Ottawa on October 13th. McGill challenged on October 20th—the game ending in a draw of 6-6. The M.E.R.C. issued an invitation to the Wanderers of Halifax, who came to Montreal on November 3rd, and defeated Montreal 16-3. McGill challenged the victors to remain over the week-end and play-off for the Cup, but the visitors were unable to accept. On November 17th McGill played off with Montreal for the Cup, and demonstrating every possible method of scoring, won by 15 points to nil. Since the Wanderers had lost by default, and Toronto and the Maritime Universities had not challenged Montreal for the Cup, the trophy was presented by Mr. MacTier to the McGill team at a dinner on November 1st.

Thanks are due to Professor Matthews for his efforts on behalf of the game, and to Jack Usher, former coach of the Wanderers, who voluntarily coached the McGill team for the last two weeks of the season with appreciative results. It is hoped that his services will be secured again, and that every man who has played the game will turn out to fill the places of those who are graduating and to field a team worthy of defending the Cup.

SKIING AND SNOW- SHOEING

AMONG the most flourishing of the minor sports organizations at McGill must be mentioned the Ski and Snowshoe Club. Founded officially in 1918 by Norm. Williamson, Duncan Anderson and others, it has grown steadily and rapidly until a large number of the undergraduates of "Old McGill" now wear its membership badge. Each year eliminations are held and a team of jumpers, skiers, and snowshoers is selected to represent the University at various meets in Eastern Canada and the United States. The most important of these is the dual meet held at Dartmouth and McGill, at which the Eastern Intercollegiate Ski Championship is decided.

On February 6th, 1923, a strong team was sent down to Dartmouth, but only succeeded in coming second, the score at the end of the first half of the meet being as follows: Dartmouth 28½ points; McGill 24; New Hampshire State College 9; Middlebury 1, and Mass. Inst. Tech. ½. The Dartmouth Outing Club spared no effort in making their guests feel at home, and entertained the teams at a basketball game between Harvard and Dartmouth, a sleigh-drive and supper, a splendid performance by the Dartmouth Dramatic Club, and last but not greatest of all, the famous Carnival Ball.

The return half of the meet was held at McGill the following week, and on this occasion the Red and White was successful in overcoming Dartmouth's lead and winning the championship. The final score was: McGill 65 points; Dartmouth 43½; New Hampshire State 9; Middlebury 8; M. I. T. ½; Williams 0; Vermont 0. After the jumping competition some of the Dartmouth men performed tandem and somersault jumps, their daring feats providing many thrills for the spectators. The members of the visiting teams, besides being unofficially entertained during their stay, were the guests of the Ski and Snowshoe Club at the Informal Dance, which took place at the time of the meet.

On December 29, 1923, a team of six men, namely, Art. Gravel, Duncan Anderson, Tom Brown, Len Lehan, Ken. Stewart and George Grimson, competed in the annual College Week Sports at Lake Placid. The previous year Dartmouth had won the President Harding trophy at this meet, leading McGill by 5 points; and it was hoped that McGill would turn the tables this year. So far the result of the meet is in doubt, as it is claimed that one of Dartmouth's point winners was not eligible to compete. If the protest is sustained the Trophy will come to McGill, otherwise Dartmouth will hold it for another year.

THE work of the Gymnasium Club has progressed very satisfactorily in the last two years. Valuable new material has been discovered of late, and the average attendance at the practice has been highly encouraging.

On the 17th of March, 1923, the Annual Intercollegiate Gymnastic Competition was held at the Hart House, Toronto. The McGill quintet which carried off the honours by a lead of 70 points, consisted of Delahay (captain), Rolleston, Consiglio, McClethie and McKyes, with Bourne as spare.

An extra meet has been arranged this year in which a McGill team of about ten men will compete with the Westmount Y.M.C.A. This meet takes place on the 23rd of February.

On the 1st of March, the Annual Wicksteed competition is to take place, and on the 8th of March the Varsity team comes to Montreal. The meet will be held in the Central Y.M.C.A. gymnasium. Members of the School of Physical Education are to give a demonstration between events.

The club is most fortunate in having, for its coach, Mr. Hay Finlay. His steady work and valuable aid has been a great factor in the success of the team in past years. Also the work of Mr. G. A. Holland, an old member of the Gym. Club, who has helped in the coaching of this year's team, has been outstanding.

THE McGill Rifle Association has once more been successful in bringing the Intercollegiate Cup to McGill. This trophy, accompanied by its eight replicas, is presented by the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association. It was last won by McGill in 1913, and lay in the Union during the war period. The competition was again instituted in 1921, when Toronto succeeded in taking the Cup from McGill. From thence the Cup went to Manitoba to be returned to McGill this year.

Among the other important competitions was the contest for the Birkett Inter-Year Cup, presented by our honorary president, Brig. Gen. H. S. Birkett, in 1906. It has again been won by the class of '24, who were successful in securing it last year.

In the Intercollegiate Competition, each Association is allowed to use its own range and to shoot on separate days. In all competitions the shooting is done at the regulation ranges of two hundred, five hundred, and six hundred yards, at the military range at Pointe-aux-Trembles. The Lee-Enfield service rifle is used, as issued, with open sights. A range officer is appointed by the D.C.R.A. to take charge of the shoot, and the scores are sent in by him to the headquarters at Ottawa.

The principal social event was a dinner held in the Union, at which the trophies and replicas were presented. Among those present were Sir Arthur Currie, Sir Alex. Bertram, Lt. Col. R. J. Birdwhistle, Brig. Gen. H. S. Birkett, and Dr. John Tait. Mr. W. F. Emmons, representing the team, was presented with the Intercollegiate trophy.

The success of the Association has been largely due to the honorary officers, Dr. H. S. Birkett and Dr. John Tait, who have given their whole-hearted support in the interest of the Club.

THE Association Football Club of McGill was reorganized in 1921, and although the 1921-22 season was not eminently successful, the season 1922-23 saw considerable improvement in Soccer prospects. Several games were played with the Theologians, final honours being evenly divided. A greater number of students took part in Soccer that year and enthusiasm ran high, but it was not until this year that Soccer was firmly established at McGill. An Interfaculty league was organized and a schedule arranged. The Arts team was successful in carrying off premier honours, thus gaining the Interfaculty Championship.

The Senior team had a successful season. At the first of the season the Red and White squad was defeated by a team from the S.S. Canada, in a fast and furious game by a 4-1 score. Near the end of October, McGill travelled to Beloeil and defeated a team picked from the best of the Interdepartmental League of the Canadian Explosives, Limited, by a score of 6-0. On November 10th, however, Beloeil avenged their defeat to a certain extent by downing the Red and White by a 3-1 score in a closely contested game at the Stadium.

It is expected that a team will be entered to play Intercollegiate fixtures with Queens and Varsity next year. Judging by the showing made this year, McGill should do well in this league. The Undergraduate body took a considerable interest in university Soccer this year. About seventy-five players turned out to practices and three full teams were fielded. With this year's experience, a very successful season is expected for Soccer at McGill in 1924-25.

THE McGill delegates at the Elgin House Conference last fall wore on their arm band a narrow strip of black. The indication of sorrow was in their hearts as well and it was with a very real sorrow that those interested in the Student Christian Association came back to McGill and began finding ways and means of carrying on the work of Mr. J. G. McKay.

It was not possible to find a permanent secretary and the work has been carried on by the so-called "Quadruped".

The organization of bible study groups has met with a success at McGill that has been obtained in very few other universities. There are some two hundred members in the various study groups; most of the groups are studying the life of Jesus, but there are, as well, groups working on industrial problems. To many, the study of the life of Jesus has meant much; to some, it has meant everything.

McGill was well represented at the Indianapolis Convention, where wonderful inspiration toward mission work and towards a fuller understanding of life, was received.

Perhaps in no way has the S.C.A. done a greater work than in helping the "Student Friendship" Fund. McGill did very well in its contributions toward that fund, and every bit of this contribution served its double purpose of feeding hungry students and breaking down the barriers of nationality, creed and religion.

Strathcona Hall has been thriving. A new "house-spirit" has grown up within it and the Hall is becoming more and more a centre of student activities.

All in all, the Student Christian Association, which is without creed and is based only on the teachings of Jesus, without tending toward any particular belief about him, is slowly and steadily coming to fill that undeniable and indescribable call for religion which every person feels.

THE beginning of the college year witnessed radical changes in the aims, methods, and scope of the Mock Parliament. Though in many respects involving vigorous exclusion of the most characteristic features of past sessions, the new policy strove to embody all that was best in the old traditions. The distinctively Canadian view point, for example, has been retained; but the sphere of debate is immensely broadened. Trivialities have given place to keen and statesmanlike discussion of great public questions. Burlesque has been finally and effectively banished by genuine humour, stinging satire, and brilliant repartee. Much latent talent has been developed in every way.

At the first session, debate centred round the question of reparations. As a necessary step towards our own economic recovery, the Government advocated an immediate withdrawal from the Ruhr, and drastic measures to restore the prosperity of Germany. The Opposition, smarting from the thrusts of Ministers, attacked this policy as unconstitutional and in the highest degree dangerous to the peace of the world. There was a continual flow of cogent reasoning, brilliant rhetoric, and telling epigram; and for more than an hour, the battle raged with unexampled fierceness and intensity. On the division the cross benchers voted with the Government, which was sustained by the narrow majority of six, out of a total of more than two hundred members.

The appointment of a permanent Immigration Commission of three experts to frame and carry out a sound, constructive policy, was the second measure brought down. At this session,

FORGIVENESS is asked at the outset for not declaring that 1923-24 has been the most successful session in the history of the "Lit." However, the contrary, while more original, would be much farther from the truth.

An event of more than ordinary interest marked the early commencement of this year's activities—the visit to McGill of the Oxford debating team. The debate was held at the Royal Victoria College and was witnessed by a large gathering which quite filled Convocation Hall. The resolution read: "Resolved, that the League of Nations is worthy of the full support of all the Governments of the world." The visiting team upheld the affirmative and were awarded the decision, both by the judges and by the popular vote. This was the first occasion on which the audience was asked to give a decision on the outcome of a debate.

Soon after this, the inter-class debates were commenced in all faculties. These gave many men an opportunity to speak and evoked much interest, particularly in the Faculty of Arts.

The faculty representatives were chosen from the result of these debates, and the inter-faculty contests were then conducted. The latter were held in the Union and were well attended by members of the faculties concerned.

The teams for Intercollegiate debating have yet to be picked, and the extempore speaking contest for the Reford trophy will be held near the middle of March.

This year the "Lit" will send a debating team to the United States, which will meet several American colleges in verbal combat. It is hoped to send a team to Oxford in the near future, if material impediments can be disposed of.

No account of the year's activities would be complete without expressing the great indebtedness of the Society to Sir Arthur Currie for the interest he has taken in it, and for his constant support; also to Mr. T. W. L. MacDermot of the Arts faculty for the time, assistance, and advice he has given the Society.

FOLLOWING a year of great success the Canadian Club of McGill University this year, had its path of activity prepared. The Club's membership comprises the whole student body, who thus have an opportunity to hear the best informed men on subjects of a universal interest. The Club is highly indebted to Miss Hurlbatt, for the use of the Convocation Hall, in the Royal Victoria College, in which it held its meetings, and also desires to express its gratitude for the interest taken by Sir Arthur Currie, Honorary President of the Club, and by Colonel Bovey.

The Club has not confined itself to political subjects. It was fortunate enough to secure the celebrated Dr. Grenfell, of the Labrador, whose address on that portion of the Dominion proved most illuminating and instructive.

Dr. Ami, a world wide known archeologist, gave a highly interesting illustrated lecture on "Prehistoric Man in Recent Discovery."

Mr. Rose, the first Rhodes Scholar to go from Manitoba, having spent a number of years in Central Europe, was able to clear up many incorrect ideas as to conditions in that part of the world.

Perhaps the most notable meeting of the Club occurred this year when Mr. Beiler, a graduate of this University, and a member of the Secretariat of the League of Nations, delivered an address on the working of the League. This was a combined meeting of the Canadian Club, Literary and Debating Club and the Delta Sigma Society. At the conclusion of the address, a motion was put to the effect that McGill undergraduates were in favour of the League. This motion was carried after a most interesting discussion.

The retiring executive wishes its successors a very prosperous year, and hopes the undergraduates of the University will continue to support this most worthy institution as heartily as they have done in the past.

ON November the twenty-third the McGill social season for 1923-24 was inaugurated as usual by the Junior Prom. Prior to that date many Juniors with worried expressions were noticed hurriedly entering the mysterious precincts of R.V.C. to attend the committee meetings and as the gala day approached the ballroom in the Union became a hive of activity. The committee were very fortunate in securing as patronesses Lady Currie, Miss Hurlbatt, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Thornton, Mrs. Martin, and Mrs. Harkness. Unfortunately the invited representatives from Toronto and Queen's were unable to attend.

The ballroom of the Union was decorated in a novel but effective way, a departure being made from previous years in the style and general appearance of the decorations. The walls were completely sheathed in black which afforded the background for gold Japanese letters which blazoned forth the words "Junior Prom" on one side of the room and for the golden Peter Pan silhouette which graced the walls on the other side. At one end of the room old King Tut's maiden slave towered fourteen feet in the air, holding a blazing ball in each hand through which the numbers of the dances glided by all too quickly. Ferns encased the orchestra and comfortable settees were seen here and there in cosy nooks. From the ceiling multi-coloured balloons tossed in gay abandon and later in the evening descended to the waiting dancers. On the walls of the stairway to the ballroom hung the banners of the Junior years of each faculty.

The Union cafeteria caterer looked after the refreshments and satisfied even the most fastidious of taste. The supper room presented a gay appearance with the bedecked heads of the diners and the walls strung with streamers of red and white. The noise of bursting crackers and of whistles added to the liveliness of the occasion.

The McGill Dance Orchestra, under the management of George Cloutier, performed in a manner highly satisfactory to every dancer.

THE activities of the Music Club, the Glee Club and the Mandolin and Banjo Club have been drawn together under one governing body due to the formation of the McGill Musical Association, and are rapidly achieving their aim by fulfilling more adequately the musical needs of the University.

Last year was the first appearance of the Musical Association as a working executive and due to its success and well-managed organization, together with the interest taken by the Students' Council, the musical clubs have shown a marked improvement. Thus the system of co-operation inaugurated by the Association has been fully justified. The individual efforts of each club have never been on a firmer foundation than at present and their progress will in the future become a valuable asset to the Student body in general.

The Music Club was formed by the Association to give students interested in music an opportunity to pursue their studies along this line while at the University. Two pianos have been provided by the Students' Council and a musical library will be started in the near future. The first meeting of the Club was held in February when a short address was given by Dr. Perrin and a splendid musical programme was provided by members. Three or four more meetings are planned for this season, as well as a Sunday afternoon Musicale.

The Glee Club has increased its music library considerably and is now able to draw from it excellent concert programmes. The Mandolin and Banjo Club has assisted at many University functions. Last year both these Clubs were self-supporting, and it is hoped will be in the same condition this year. The Rooters' Band was assisted by the Association and turned out for the Major Athletic events of the year.

THE Mandolin and Banjo Club, to give it its full name, is one of the oldest and best known clubs around the campus. Like most university clubs, it has had, at several times in the past, a struggle for its existence, but for the last few years it has steadily gained both in membership and ability. Last year was undoubtedly the best that it has known since its formation.

The Club made its first public appearance this year at the "pep rally" which was held in the first week of the session. This early introduction to the undergraduate body was, no doubt, largely responsible for the exceptionally large turn out at the initial practice which was held shortly afterwards. The next appearance of the Club was in the Cafeteria of the Union where it supplied the music at one of the best attended Jazz Teas of the season.

This ball, the first of what is expected to be an annual series of Athletic Smokers was held in the Union and here again the Club displayed its wares before a large audience.

In the closing weeks of 1923 a large portion of each practice was devoted to perfecting a medley of college songs which the Club expects to play for a record early in 1924. As soon as this is completed it is hoped to follow the example set by last year's Club and play in one of the local theatres. However, it is not the intention of the Club to forget its main object, namely to supply music at college functions and with this in view, the work of the members has been conscientious and for that reason highly successful.

THIS is the third year since the war that the McGill Glee Club has been in existence. Its efforts have been attended with some measure of success, and its progress has been watched with interest by its many well-wishers. Its task has not been an easy one, namely to take its proper place in the life of the university, and at the same time introduce and firmly implant in the minds of both the student body and the general public an appreciation of good male chorus singing. By creating a lively and more intelligent interest in music on the part of the men and women of the university, it hopes to ally the spirit of good music a little more closely than hitherto, with the life and spirit of old McGill.

The programme for the year has consisted of two concerts and several informal appearances. The first concert of the season, held on December 10th, was a decided success, and afforded the club its first opportunity to show the character of the music of which its permanent library is composed. The library was started last year, and already the basis of what will undoubtedly be an interesting and valuable collection of choral music is in the club's possession. The Musical Association, established last year, has been unfailing in the liberal aid and assistance which it has given to the executive on all occasions.

The club was again fortunate in securing the services of Mr. H. E. Key as director. Mr. Key's personality and experience have played no small part in the success of the club.

Practices were held twice a week, and were attended with regularity and enthusiasm. No effort is being spared to make the big concert in March a brilliant success.

A HAVEN of rest for quiet concentration, is afforded the much harassed student in 'The McGill Chess Club.' Founded in the dim ages of the past, like the noble game itself, the Club continues to have many ardent and earnest associates.

The Union Lounge Room, an ideal spot for a quiet game, provides chessmen and tables for any spare hours members may have during the day or evening.

Regular meetings are held by the Club once a week, for tournament play, demonstrations and other interesting purposes. Early in the season we were favoured with a demonstration by Professor S. B. Slack, who has also been of great help to the Club this session in team play.

As in the previous year a "B" team has been entered in the 'Montreal Chess League.' Here members have the opportunity of coming into touch with some of the foremost City players. We have already secured a victory over North End, and a draw with Westmount Chess Clubs.

One of the outstanding features of this session is the marked interest that has been shown in the Club's activities by Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen.

THE purposes and aims of the McGill Contingent C.O.T.C., are, in general, the training of men in the command of men, and in particular the preparation of candidates for "A" (lieutenants') and "B" (captains') certificates in the infantry and other branches of the service. These certificates are of world-wide value. Three men were awarded captains' and fourteen men lieutenants' certificates as a result of the practical and written examinations conducted in March, 1923.

A course of lectures for cadets proposing to take their "A" or "B" examinations is being given on infantry, cavalry and other work by various local military authorities.

An item that proved of especial interest was the establishment before Christmas of cavalry, artillery and medical training within the corps. Up to the time of writing, the cavalry under command of Captain D. D. M. McGoun, has progressed considerably. It has made two trips to the Royal School of Cavalry at St. John's, Que., and has two more in view.

As much practical work as possible was done during the session, and the ever popular week-end excursions figured prominently in the year's work. Four were held before the Christmas holidays and four more are scheduled for the second term. Before the mid term vacation, the infantry visited Shawbridge, where they were guests of the Boys' Farm, and St. Anne de Bellevue, where Macdonald College acted as host. The cavalry, as noted above, spent two week-ends at St. John's.

The Reserve Officers' Cup was held for the session by C.Q.M.S. H. A. Delcellier, with a score of 96 per cent. Six cadets won silver spoons. The C.O.T.C. Rifle Association meets every Saturday afternoon in the High School Range and this year is entering the Intercollegiate competition.

On the occasion of the unveiling of the Memorial Tablet by General Sir Arthur Currie in the Union on Thanksgiving Day, a detachment of the O.T.C. under Captain J. S. G. Shotwell acted as Guard of Honour.

An officers' and N.C.O.'s Mess, with headquarters at the Old Law Building, was established early in the session. During November, the Orderly Room was moved from the Arts Building to this structure, thus bringing the different departments of the unit under one roof.

A successful informal dance was held before Christmas, and a smoking concert after the mid-term exams. More social events are looked forward to later in the second term.

The contingent, under the command of Lt.-Col. R. R. Thompson, M.C., is over one hundred and fifty strong and is enjoying one of the most successful years of its existence.

THE Maritime Club was founded at McGill in 1913 by the amalgamation of the Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick Clubs. All students from these provinces are eligible for club membership. Since amalgamation the club has played an active and successful part in university life.

The object of the club is to afford a means whereby Maritimers may get together for the purpose of holding a few social functions throughout the year and becoming better acquainted with one another.

This year, as in former years, the club united with the Western Club for their dance, which was acclaimed the best of the year.

The club executive has elaborate plans for further activities during the current session.

THE annual awakening of the McGill Western Club took place in October in the form of a smoker, which was attended by students hailing from all parts of the country which lies West of Lake Superior. This first meeting gave promise of a very active season for the club, and plans were laid for four different entertainments by the representatives from British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba respectively. By such a procedure it was hoped that the individual characteristics of these great provinces would be so ably demonstrated that the wonders of the West would be apparent to all.

At the same time the value of such a club was pointed out. While, at present, it gave western men an opportunity of coming together, it laid the foundation for the establishment of McGill Alumni associations, in later years, in all parts of the West. As men come along to graduation, they begin to regret the approaching finish of their time at college, and an organization whose aim is to show the Western spirit to McGill, may easily be made the means of showing the McGill spirit to the West.

The second meeting held November 14th took the form of a dinner at which Dr. D. A. Stewart, from the University of Manitoba, and Prof. Caldwell were the speakers. The latter had just returned from a tour of the some of the great European universities which were essentially Eastern, and the addresses of the two brought East and West together very admirably. Mr. Cornell, representing the Westerners' Club of Montreal, spoke about Canada's Commercial development.

The Maritime Western dance took place on December 18th, thus bringing together, socially, the men from the extremes of a wide strip of land.

Our rather cordial relations with the Westerners' Club of Montreal were much appreciated, and we learned with regret of the disbanding of that organization this winter.

DURING the first two months of this session, filled as they were with athletic and other student activities, little attention was paid the Ontario Club. It might have remained a dormant sectional club if efficient steps had not been taken to revive it. These steps were taken by a few zealous Ontarians, who felt that an organization representative of the province of their birth could do much towards fostering friendship among students from that part of Canada in the various faculties of McGill. Another reason for the continuance of such a club was that Ontario contributes more than any other province, outside of Quebec, to the number of students at the University.

In December, 1923, a smoker had been planned to take place in the Union. Talented speakers accepted invitations to be present; good music and several boxing and wrestling bouts were assured, all arrangements had been made in order to fittingly start a session's activities, but owing to a conflict of dates in university functions it was necessary at the last moment to postpone the smoker. This smoker will probably be held during the early part of March.

At the time of writing the executive have definitely in mind several social events, which if the Students' calendar of events is not too crowded, they will undertake. One of these events will be in the nature of the Annual Dance, which promises to attract a record crowd of Ontarians as the final opportunity for Ontario Students to assemble before the college year ends.

FOR many years students of Britain's "oldest colony" have been coming to McGill in large numbers to seek higher education in the various faculties.

Although Newfoundlanders have always endeavoured to co-operate in all branches of university activities as much as possible, it was felt some years ago that, if they should band themselves together in an organization, greater co-operation would be attained.

At the commencement of the 1919-20 session, the "McGill Newfoundland Club" was formed with an initial membership of over forty, which has steadily increased until at the present time the Club has over sixty members.

The aims of the Club are to bring together Newfoundlanders at the Colleges, to foster love of the home land, and to promote the interests of McGill in Newfoundland.

The members of the Club have been very active in carrying out this latter aim, and have influenced a large number of Newfoundland students to choose McGill as their Alma Mater, instead of entering one of the Universities in the Maritime Provinces or in the United States.

This year promises to be highly successful, as the members have loyally supported the executive. On October 24th, the annual "get together" smoker was held in the Union, at which an interesting and instructive address was given by Colonel Renouf, on "The Humber Development."

During February, enjoyable skating and theatre parties were held. The session's activities were brought to a close by the annual dinner in March.

The executive wishes to thank all members for their whole-hearted support, and extends a hearty invitation to join the club to all Newfoundlanders who are thinking of coming to McGill. It is hoped that they will communicate with the Club and they may be assured that everything possible will be done to further their welfare at McGill.

THE American Club was organized in 1915, by a group of American students, for the purpose of stimulating a desire for exceptional individuality and group effort, and to provide contact and diversion for students who came from across the Canadian border.

The mere handful of students who started the club foresaw some of the invaluable advantages that such an organization could offer. The club not only offers an opportunity of becoming acquainted with prominent Americans in the city, but also of discussing and keeping abreast with the political and economic situation in the United States.

Each of the nine years of the existence of the organization shows a steady increase in membership and activities. The past year has been quite successful and satisfactory, due to the efforts of President Hamilton. The first meeting was in the nature of a smoker held in the Union, intended as a welcome to the in-coming Americans. The "Welcome Smoker" is a favorite method of the Club's to create a friendly and intimate attitude among old and new members.

At the second smoker, preparations were made for the Annual Thanksgiving Banquet, which was the crowning glory of the year. Professor Oertel, Honorary President, and A. J. Halstead, Consul-general, were present and added greatly to the success of the party, both by their presence and their most interesting addresses.

At the final smoker of 1923, A. J. Halstead gave an interesting address on the "American Student in Foreign Countries," in which he emphasized the need of curbing the patriotic volubility so characteristic of the American, who thus creates embarrassing situations amongst fellow students.

The executive are looking forward to the day when every American Student in the university will realize the advantages of this organization and give it the support which it deserves.

The Columbian Club

THE Columbian Club, which was founded at McGill in 1904, has for its object the promotion of the spiritual and social welfare of the Roman Catholic students attending the university. Like the Newman Clubs at other universities it is a member of the Federation of College Catholic Clubs, an organization with headquarters at Philadelphia and having a membership of 60 clubs.

The social activities of the Club this year were many and varied. A series of lectures given during the session by speakers of prominence in the community afforded the students an excellent opportunity of hearing expressed views on topics of general interest. Though the Annual Ball was not held, informal dances, teas, smokers and bridge tournaments furnished the members with a varied form of entertainment throughout the winter months. An additional feature of this year's programme was the use of the Catholic High School gymnasium and showers, where the students enjoyed the usual indoor sports.

Due to the fact that the members lived in various parts of the city, it was deemed impracticable to hold Sunday morning services this year, most of the students attending services in whatever parish they happened to be. However, the annual three-days retreat was held at Lady Chapel, Congress Hall, at the opening of the Lenten season. In addition, a memorial service was held in November at Lady Chapel for the deceased members of the Club.

A club-house is maintained at 78 Durocher Street, where rooms are available for a limited number of members. It is hoped that in the near future, an extension will be made to the premises to provide living quarters for most if not all of the Club's members.

THE McGill Masonic Club had its origin in February 1923. For a long time there had been the evident need of some organization to bring together the many Masons attending the University in order that they might find fellowship with those who have something in common, and that they might keep in touch with the history and working of the craft.

During the past year a number of dinners have been held in the Masonic Temple at which several prominent brothers, well versed in the Masonic art, have taken part.

The Club has been closely associated with University Lodge of the City of Montreal, which regularly meets on the evening of the second Saturday in each month. This lodge is chiefly composed of College graduates and students. It is through this association that many brothers have found fellowship among friends who are members of the order.

The fostering of a true college spirit, is gradually brought about by means of this kind, where an atmosphere of genuine sociability exists and with this as one of its prime aims, the Club has had no difficulty in soundly establishing itself and gaining the full support of all Masons at McGill, including many of the prominent professors and members of the teaching staff. Judging by its already eminent success, the future of the Club as a social factor is duly assured.

The executive wishes to extend a hearty invitation to all Masons, coming to McGill for the first time, to communicate with the Club and thus enjoy the evident advantages which the Club offers to newcomers.

THE Cosmopolitan Club of McGill has held several important meetings this year, at which world events in general were freely discussed. One meeting dealt with the new Japanese situation created by the recent earthquake and its probable effect on coming world events. More and more students are taking advantage of the means the Club is supplying in making possible a common meeting place where students of different nationalities may come together and exchange views.

In a great institution such as McGill, where students from all over the world assemble to pursue their studies, the Cosmopolitan Club fulfills an important and necessary duty in bringing them in closer contact than ordinary student activities make possible.

Especially at the present time, when the world outlook is becoming graver and graver, it is imperative that the distrust, jealousies and rival ambitions that have come as an aftermath to the Great War, should to as great an extent as possible, be nullified.

It is only by the mutual exchange of ideas, that different nationalities can be brought to understand and sympathize with each other's aims and ideals and make the peace of the world, and the advance of civilization their common aim, and in doing this, in bringing together, amongst others, students from India, Armenia, Italy, South America, China and Japan, the Cosmopolitan Club of McGill accomplishes a function that should rank highly among the various student activities of McGill.

THE Maccabean Circle of McGill, which is associated with the Intercollegiate Menorah Association, exists primarily for the study and advancement of Jewish culture and ideals. The means adopted to further this purpose consist principally of bi-weekly meetings which take the form either of lectures by prominent speakers, or of student forums. Study circles in the past, and the Menorah Journal, devoted exclusively to subjects of Jewish interest, have augmented these programmes; and above all this, the Maccabean Circle maintains, at the Redpath Library, a Jewish and Hebrew section which is one of the most extensive of any found at American Universities. The thanks of the Circle are due to those members of the professoriate who have always taken a keen interest in its activities, and especially to Dr. Herman Walter for his unfailing co-operation and advice.

Last year, besides the usual meetings, the annual dance, and the annual banquet, both took place at the Venetian Gardens; at the regular annual debate between the Maccabean Circle and Toronto Menorah Society, which took place at the Union, the former gained the judge's decision.

This year, the Circle has been fortunate in securing the McGill Union for its meetings for the first time since its inception in 1905. The literary programmes this session have so far consisted of a discussion of the School Question, a symposium on Israel Zangwill, a lecture on the ideals of Intercollegiate Menorah, and a student debate on "Assimilation." The meetings have been well attended by the members, with an average attendance of about 150.

Art for Arts '25's Sake

II

Where are the songs of Summer? Look not here
For such. I sing how in the fall again
From city, town, and hamlet far and near
Their weary carcasses they haul again,
These men of '25 without a peer,
For soothing syrup ne'er to bawl again,—
Now Sophomores with one year's wisdom hoary
Prepared to give the Freshmen welcome gory.

Can these tall men who seem to own the place,
These blase epicures, can they be those
Who last year came with nervous childish face
On which was writ a thousand homesick woes?
The answer that my pen will have to trace
Is Yea, for so the great world goes:
The little nut becomes an oak tree tall,
The little Freshman is a Soph. next fall.

The Sophomores now train the yearlings green,
Resolved to do their duty by 'em;
With verdant paint they mar their beauty clean,
And with thick ropes they tightly tie 'em;
Anon these Frosh upon the stage are seen,
Dancing the while their captors stern stand by 'em:
And thus the Freshmen all learn grace and lightness,
As well as having lessons in politeness.

Then comes the banquet at which peace is made:
The foes drink deeply of the flowing bowl,
Pledging their amity in lemonade,
While hearty eaters 'neath the table roll . . .
But marching Time continues his parade,
Exams. bring anguish to the waking soul,—
Though many comfort win, and notoriety,
By seeking feminine society.

Indeed, grown bold, they live the social life,
And take the Sophettes riding in a sleigh,
And to Informals bring the latest wife,
And patronise the movies and the play.
Nor are they backward in athletic strife,
Winning renown not soon to fade away.
At baseball, football, hockey they excel,
And put-and-take and snooker play as well.

Then, too, with many arguments of weight,
The learned orators of '25
Won never-dying glory in debate;
While some for histrionic skill did strive—
As ladies of the chorus they were great—
But after Theatre Night exams arrive:
Then these, too, pass, and home we go again,
Exceeding glad to rest the weary brain.

III

'Tis sweet to hear the brazen clanging gong
Ending a lecture over-long drawn out;
'Tis sweet to win a fiver at Mah Jongg;
And sweet to learn your prof. has just gone out
Of town, and cannot meet the eager throng
He lectures to; 'tis sweet to fan John out—
Two down, and all the bases occupied,
The ending of the ninth, the scoring tied.

And sweet the kiss by hopeless fancy feigned
On lips that are for others—so they say;
And sweet, when some rich graybeard's strength has waned
To aid his tottering footsteps o'er the way.
Knowing by gratitude he'll be constrained
To will his gold to you, then pass away:
But sweeter far than all of these sweet things
Is that prestige which being a Junior brings.

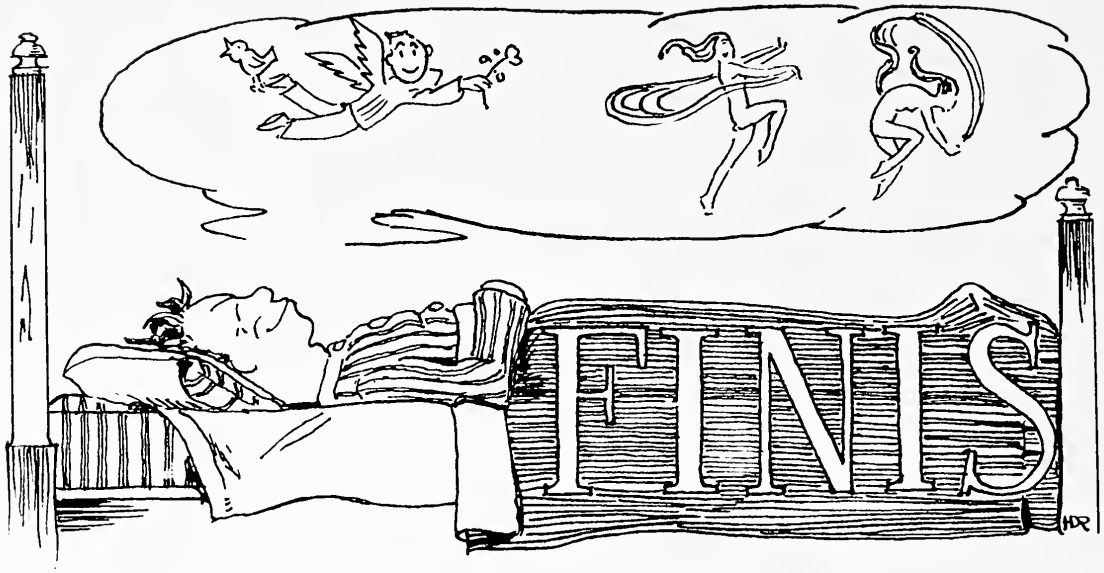

Back once again, and ready for the grind,
With stately tread we tramp about the campus,
Our haughty brows with manly furrows lined
Serve well to frown upon the girls who lamp us;
Nevertheless, let Joy be unconfined,
For even we must fall for those who vamp us;—
When Youth and Pleasure meet no sleep till dawn,
On with the dance, it is the Junior Prom. . . .

Now, William Gentleman, I sing thy praise,
Best of all janitors, the students' friend,
Ending a soldier's and an athlete's days
In ancient halls where peace and quiet blend,
Take this one verse in this long worst of lays—
Yet never was sincerer tribute penned—
And let it keep the memory of our class
Green in your mind throughout the years that pass

And now our tale is ended, done, played out,
Completed, finished, brought to a conclusion,
And written down in words, and here laid out
Embalmed and spiced, preserved in this effusion:
Nothing remains before the final fade-out,
Except to look ahead without illusion:
One sheltered year remains, then we are hurled
With parchment shields to battle in the world.

But through the years to come, with steadfast eyes,
Calm brows and hearts unflinching, we will wait
Whatever turn of fortune may arise,
And smiling greet the stern decrees of fate,
And walk with head erect the path that lies
Before us when we leave the college gate:
For we in Arts, if nothing else remains,
Can always earn a living digging drains.

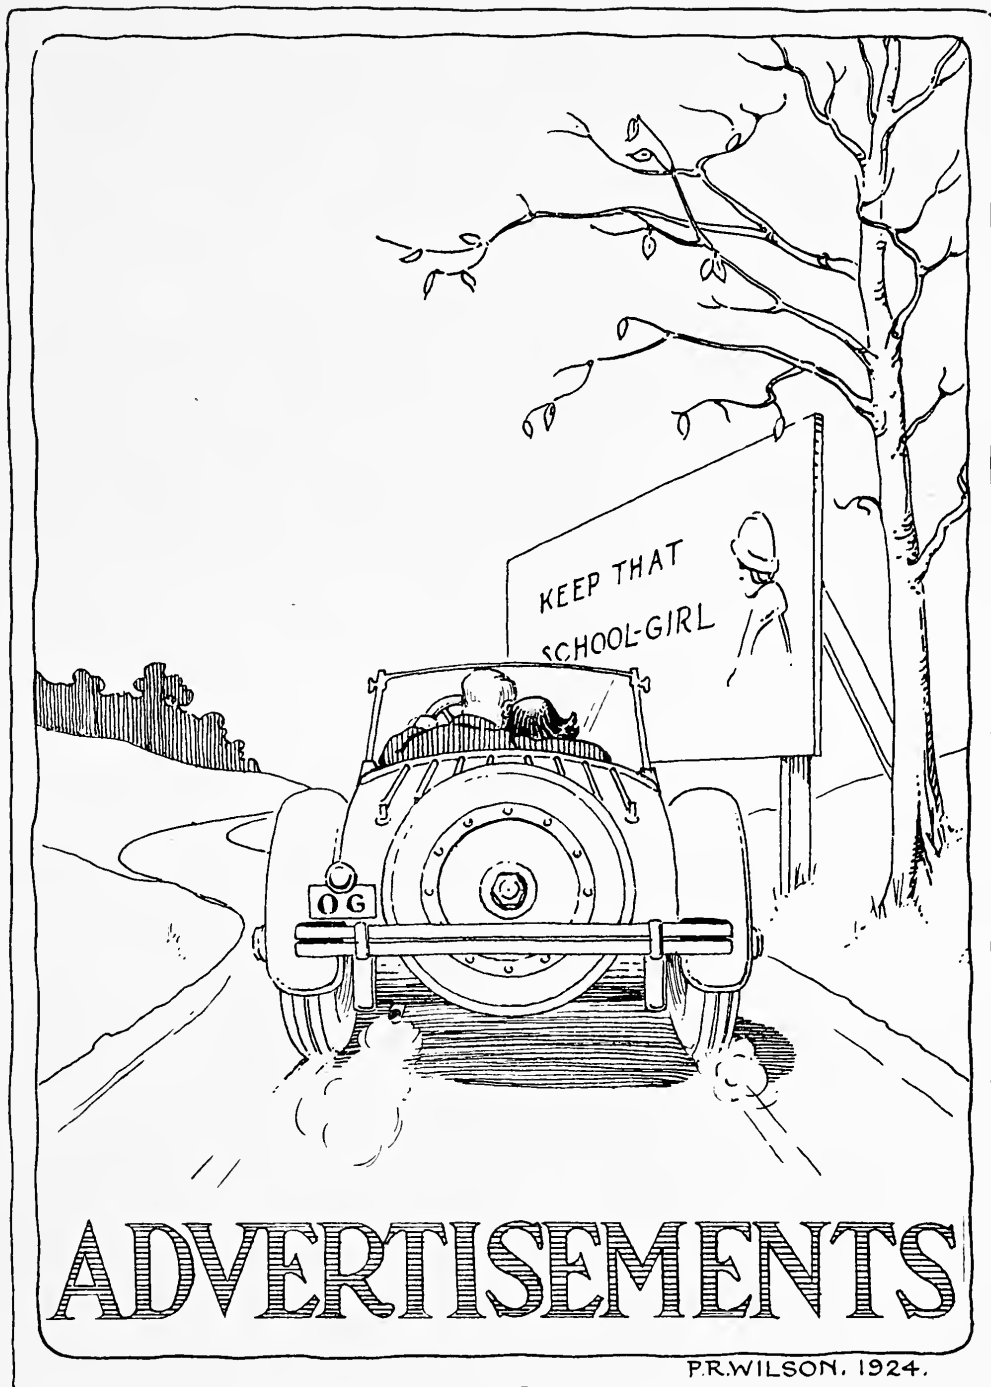

—TOMFOOL.

Go book, for ended is our labour over you,
And all the weary days we've spent, and all the nights,
Now we can rest and take our ease again—the few
Tired artists, poets, editors, and weary wights,
Who for thy sake a bashful Muse did woo,
Or straightened tangled copy until nearly two.

The noise of typewriters is hushed, and silence dwells
And order reigns where, but a little while ago,
Chaos and clamour raged like many minor hells;
Now we can seek our beds again before the dawn;
And once again have time to dally with the belles
Or chase the sportive Nymph down shady dells.

Go book, the tale is ended and the pageant o'er,
But, if, in after years you bring to those who read
Remembrance of the happy glowing days of yore,
Of youth and friendship at McGill, O then indeed,
Our labour has not been in vain, and all the lore
That's gathered here will be a magic golden store.

THE RUGBY TRAINING CAMP

During the absence of the first contingent, a new batch had arrived at the camp and consisted of "Sonny" Dyer, Herb Murphy, Ted Newton, Jack Mickles and Bobbie Bell, Manager. Then training started in earnest.

Physical exercises and sprints were held before breakfast, and after breakfast, the tent leaders, in keeping with their exalted position, saw that the tents were put in order. From then until one o'clock was spent in a two mile paddle up the lake, a run of seven miles up and seven miles down on the Michaels Trail, and a two mile paddle back to camp. At four in the afternoon the fun began again, and punting and passing, and dummy scrimmage work lasted till six. The evenings were free and gave an opportunity to all to go to the village for varied purposes.

On Saturday came the order to return to Montreal. Everyone was sorry to leave the camp, yet owing to the approaching Varsity game, it was the opinion that the remainder of the time until then would be more advantageously spent at the Stadium under the direction of Coach Shaughnessy.

Thus Sunday afternoon saw the departure from the camp, all firmly convinced that this innovation in the training schedule was a decided success, and hopes were held that if possible a longer period in camp be arranged for next year.

Everyone returned to the city not only in excellent physical condition, but knowing each other better and consequently the best of friends. If a training camp can accomplish these things, then assuredly it is fulfilling its purpose. For, after all, with good condition, the same spirit of fellowship among the players as existed this year, and the able direction of Coach Shaughnessy, the Intercollegiate Championship cannot long be a stranger to Old McGill.

LIFE

The Success Road

NO one starting out in life ever expects to fail. Youth is always hopeful, but hope alone cannot bring success.

If your hope is to be a success in the world, securing independence and comfort—the vision of so many yet the attainment of so few—adopt a regular savings plan now, and learn the value of saving something out of every dollar.

That way lies Success

The Royal Bank of Canada

Impregnable

In selecting a Company to be entrusted with the important duty of assuring your life, a knowledge of its history and progress will be of value. Common prudence calls for such investigation.

The facts about the Sun Life of Canada are given in "Impregnable", an attractive little book published to meet this need. Ask for it at any of the Sun Life branches, located in all the larger centres, or from the Head Office in Montreal.

You can rest assured.

Fountains

SINCE medical science frowned on the dangerous old-fashioned common drinking cup, bubbling fountains have become a necessary part of the installation in all public buildings, schools, mills and factories. Office buildings should be similarly equipped.

Our Fountains are especially designed to give proper flow of water, prevent spouting or splashing, and to give the utmost ease and comfort in drinking. They are also planned to avoid unnecessary waste of water and of ice where ice water is furnished.

THE MOCK PARLIAMENT

the Government found itself out-numbered by the three Opposition groups (Constitutionalists, Labourites, and Centrists), which did not hesitate to press their advantage. The strongly restrictive character of the Government proposals drew sharp rebukes from the Constitutionalists; the Labourites denounced the Bill as inadequate; while the Centrists strongly condemned the failure to deal with the Oriental problem. As a result of the Centrist leader's attitude, the other Opposition groups suddenly announced their intention of voting with the Government, which was again victorious, by a majority of eight.

In consequence of the situation thus created, Mr. Wells reorganized his Cabinet on a coalition basis, one Constitutionalist and several Labourites joining the Government. On January 29th, the Secretary of State for External Affairs, seconded by the Minister of Finance, moved the second reading of a Bill to authorize recognition of the Soviet Government of Russia. Strong opposition at once developed from the Centre (now Reform) Party; their whips drummed up every available man; and after a prolonged debate, in which the Independent members supported the Bill, the Government found itself defeated by six votes. Its resignation was handed in the same evening, and the Governor-General called on the Leader of the Opposition to form a Ministry. Mr. O'Hagan consented, and will meet Parliament when it reassembles in March.

The reforms already described were not undertaken without misgivings, and there have been occasional outbreaks by unruly partisans of the old order. But the general result has been a splendid and unparalleled triumph. The greatest credit is due to Mr. John Hackett, K.C., Governor-General; to Mr. R. L. Calder, K.C., and Mr. N. Hugesson, who filled the Speaker's chair, and not least to the Clerks, Mr. A. E. D. Tremaine, B. Com., and Mr. F. O. Peterson, B.A. On the party leaders, however, and especially on Rt. Hon. Hubert Wells, B.A., Prime Minister, (who succeeded Rt. Hon. R. K. Jones, B.A., on the latter's departure for the British elections), and Rt. Hon. H. Batshaw, and Rt. Hon. H. O'Hagan, B.A., Leaders of the Opposition, the heaviest strain has fallen. It is very largely due to their tireless energy that the Mock Parliament has at last taken its rightful place as one of the most valuable of student activities.
